Court of Appeals
of the State of Georgia

ATLANTA, October 11, 2012

The Court of Appeals hereby passes the following order:

A12A1635. IN THE INTEREST OF K. A. K., A CHILD.

In this termination of parental rights action, we granted the mother's application for discretionary review based upon the limited facts stated in her application. In an excess of caution given the information available, we granted her application in order to review her contentions with the benefit of the entire record.

A careful and complete review of the entire record, the transcripts, and the briefs of the parties leaves no doubt that, under the deferential standard of review we must apply, there is no basis for reversal on any ground alleged. Our review reveals that had the facts apparent from the entire record been included in the application, discretionary review would not have been granted. Therefore, upon consideration of the entire record, applicable case law, and statutory provisions, this discretionary appeal is hereby DISMISSED as having been improvidently granted. See Woody v. State, 247 Ga. App. 684, 685 (545 SE2d 83) (2001).
