INTRODUCTION

2 The Select Committee is investigating the violent attack on our Capitol on January 3 6, 2021, and an effort by the former President of the United States to remain in office by 4 obstructing Congress’ count of the electoral votes. Plaintiff John Eastman purports to 5 have been the former President’s lawyer in connection with that effort. But Plaintiff’s 6 role was not simply as an advisor; he spoke at the rally on the morning of January 6, 7 spreading proven falsehoods to the tens of thousands of people attending that rally, and 8 appears to have a broader role in many of the specific issues the Select Committee is 9 investigating. The Select Committee requires a detailed understanding of all of 10 Plaintiff’s activities in order to inform Congress’ legislative judgments and to help ensure 11 that no President can threaten the peaceful transition of power ever again.

12 Plaintiff has already invoked his Fifth Amendment right against self-incrimination 13 in response to 146 separate questions posed by the Select Committee.¹ Now he is 14 attempting to conceal a range of relevant documents behind claims of attorney-client 15 privilege and work-product protection. Below, the Select Committee focuses on 16 Plaintiff’s (and apparently Mr. Trump’s) claims for documents dated January 4-7, 2021, 17 and respectfully urges the Court to reject every such claim.

18 First, to the extent attorney-client privilege applies in the context of a 19 Congressional subpoena,² “[a] party asserting [privilege] has the burden of establishing 20 the relationship and the privileged nature of the communication.” United States v.
21 Ruehle, 583 F.3d 600, 607 (9th Cir. 2009) (internal quotation omitted). Plaintiff here 22 fails to carry his burden of establishing the existence of a legitimate attorney-client 23 relationship with former President Donald Trump during the period at issue. And even if 24 Plaintiff could make such a showing, many of the communications during this period 25 included individuals outside of any attorney-client or confidential relationship—and 26 Plaintiff has not demonstrated the necessary common interest arrangement with these

27 _____
28 ¹ Ex. A, Eastman Deposition.

² Infra at 37-39

1 third parties to preserve the privilege. And even if Plaintiff could establish an attorney-2 client relationship and some broad common interest agreement, Plaintiff chose to 3 distribute these communications over an unprotected university server even after he was 4 expressly admonished by the University President and reminded that he was not free to 5 use University email and computers in support of a political candidate. Finally, Plaintiff
6 admitted that President Trump authorized him to discuss their communications in public, 7 apparently in an effort to establish some form of defense for President Trump’s conduct.
8 Any privilege over these subjects was, therefore, waived.

9 Second, as to work product, Plaintiff falls far short of meeting his burden to 10 establish that the documents are prepared by party, or a party’s representative, in 11 anticipation of litigation. Even had Plaintiff met that burden, the work product doctrine 12 provides nothing close to absolute protection from disclosure. Courts have already held 13 that former President Trump’s interests in secrecy of certain materials ordinarily shielded 14 by executive privilege are outweighed by the Select Committee’s interests. Trump v.
15 Thompson, No. 21-5254, 2021 U.S. App. LEXIS 36315, at *60 (D.C. Cir. Dec. 9, 2021), 16 stay denied, 142 S. Ct. 680 (2022) (holding that any such privilege was overcome by the 17 Select Committee’s “uniquely compelling need,” the sitting President’s judgment that 18 release was in the country’s best interest, and the careful compromise negotiated between 19 the two branches of government). Here, Mr. Trump’s (or Plaintiff’s) interests in 20 protecting work product are outweighed by the Select Committee’s substantial need; the 21 Select Committee cannot, without undue hardship, obtain their substantial equivalent by 22 other means.

23 Third, Plaintiff’s documents should be reviewed in camera by this Court for 24 application of the crime/fraud exception. The Court inquired about that exception, and 25 the Select Committee has seriously considered that issue.³ Although the investigation is 26 continuing and will provide substantial further relevant information, sufficient

27
28 _____
³ See Scheduling Conference Tr. 6, ECF No. 113.

1 information already exists to justify in camera review and likely rejection of those 2 privileges.

3 Finally, this Court should deny Plaintiff’s effort to shoehorn into this current 4 briefing on privilege issues a motion to reconsider this Court’s prior constitutional 5 holdings.

6 SUMMARY OF BACKGROUND⁴

7 Before the 2020 election even took place, President Trump and his supporters
8 began to lay the groundwork to cast doubt on the results.⁵ On election night, Mr. Trump 9 began falsely asserting, without basis, that he had prevailed and called on States to stop 10 counting mail-in and absentee votes.⁶ In the six weeks that followed, President Trump’s 11 legal team and his supporters took their allegations to the courts, ultimately litigating and 12 losing more than 60 challenges to the election results in seven States.⁷ State Bars of both

14 ⁴ The Select Committee is in the midst of its investigation, but has already developed 15 many thousands of pages of evidence. A full recitation of that evidence—with attached 16 exhibits—would be overwhelmingly lengthy, so the Select Committee here briefly 17 summarizes key points relevant to the documents at issue. The Select Committee stands 18 ready to make further submissions on specific relevant topics of interest to the Court

1 As the courts were overwhelmingly ruling against President Trump’s claims of 2 election misconduct, he and his associates began to plan extra-judicial efforts to overturn 3 the results of the election and prevent the President-elect from assuming office.⁹ At the 4 heart of these efforts was an aggressive public misinformation campaign to persuade 5 millions of Americans that the election had in fact been stolen. The President and his 6 associates persisted in making “stolen election” claims even after the President’s own 7 appointees at the Department of Justice and the Department of Homeland Security, along 8 with his own campaign staff, had informed the President that his claims were wrong.

9 According to the President’s senior campaign advisor, soon after the election, a 10 campaign data expert told the President “in pretty blunt terms” that he was going to 11 lose.¹⁰ On November 12, 2020, the Department of Homeland Security’s Cybersecurity 12 and Infrastructure Security Agency (CISA) issued a public statement noting “unfounded 13 claims and opportunities for misinformation” about the election, and affirming that 14 “[t]here is no evidence that any voting system deleted or lost votes, changed votes, or 15 was in any way compromised.”¹¹ The following month, Attorney General William Barr

3 he reiterated on December 21 when rejecting calls to appoint a special prosecutor to 4 investigate election fraud.¹² A senior advisor to the President’s campaign agreed with 5 Barr’s analysis and said that to the President on multiple occasions.¹³

6 Evidence obtained by the Select Committee reveals that Acting Attorney General
7 Jeffrey Rosen and Acting Deputy Attorney General Richard Donoghue discussed 8 allegations of voter fraud with President Trump on multiple occasions in December of 9 2020—and informed him, both as to specific allegations and more generally, that the 10 President’s claims of massive fraud sufficient to overturn the election were not supported 11 by the evidence.¹⁴ According to Rosen, at a December 15, 2020 meeting at the White 12 House that included Rosen, Donoghue, Ken Cuccinelli (Department of Homeland
13 Security), Pat Cipollone (White House Counsel), and Mark Meadows (White House

2 December 27, 2020 phone call “in very clear terms” that the Department of Justice had 3 done “dozens of investigations, hundreds of interviews,” had looked at “Georgia, 4 Pennsylvania, Michigan, Nevada” and concluded that “the major allegations are not 5 supported by the evidence developed.”¹⁶

6 The President nevertheless continued to insist falsely through January that he had 7 “won the election in a landslide.” And despite being repeatedly told that his allegations of 8 campaign fraud were false, the President continued to feature those same false allegations
9 in ads seen by millions of Americans.¹⁷ (The Select Committee will address these issues

2 2021, the President and Plaintiff convened a video conference with hundreds of state 3 legislators from swing states won by candidate Biden.¹⁹ The Trump team reportedly 4 urged the legislators to “decertify” the election results in their States.²⁰ According to 5 Michigan State Senator Ed McBroom, this call focused (without any valid legal or factual 6 basis) on the purported power of state legislators to reject the rulings of federal and state
7 courts and overturn already certified election results.²¹ That same day, President Trump 8 spoke with Georgia Secretary of State Brad Raffensperger, pressing false and 9 unsubstantiated claims of election fraud, and ultimately asking Raffensperger to “find 10 11,780 votes” for Trump in the State.²²

3 Senate shall, in the presence of the Senate and House of Representatives, open all the 4 certificates and the votes shall then be counted; the person having the greatest Number of 5 votes for President, shall be the President.” U.S. Const., amend. XII. Nothing in the 6 Constitution permits Congress or the presiding officer (the President of the Senate, 7 Michael R. Pence) to refuse to count certified electoral votes in this context, yet that is 8 precisely what Plaintiff suggested. Plaintiff’s proposal was the subject of heated 9 discussions in the White House in the days before January 6, including with the Vice 10 President’s legal counsel and others who told Plaintiff that what he was proposing was 11 illegal.²⁸

12 This did not deter either Plaintiff or President Trump. Describing his own 13 proposals in a now-public memorandum, Plaintiff characterized his proposed options as 14 “BOLD, Certainly,” but necessary because “this Election was Stolen by a strategic 15 Democrat plan to systematically flout existing election laws for partisan advantage,” 16 advising that “we’re no longer playing by Queensbury Rules.”²⁹

1 Following this advice from Plaintiff—advice that Plaintiff admitted no member of 2 the Supreme Court would accept³⁰—President Trump repeatedly attempted to instruct, 3 direct, or pressure the Vice President, in his capacity as President as of the Senate, to 4 refuse to count the votes from six States. For example, on January 4, 2021, President 5 Trump and Plaintiff met with Vice President Pence and his staff. In that meeting, 6 according to one participant, Plaintiff tried to persuade the Vice President to take action 7 on the electors.³¹ Again the next day, Plaintiff tried to persuade the Vice President and 8 his staff that the Vice President should reject certain electors.³²

9 The pressure continued on January 6. At 1:00 a.m., President Trump tweeted, “If 10 Vice President @Mike_Pence comes through for us, we will win the Presidency . . . Mike 11 can send it back!”³³ At 8:17 a.m., the President tweeted, “States want to correct their 12 votes . . . All Mike Pence has to do is send them back to the States, AND WE WIN. Do 13 it Mike, this is a time for extreme courage!”³⁴ Shortly after this tweet, President Trump 14 placed a phone call to Vice President Pence.³⁵ He later connected with the Vice 15 President by phone around 11:20 a.m.³⁶ General Keith Kellogg and others were with 16 President Trump during that call, and General Kellogg described the pressure that Trump 17 put on Pence:

1 Q: It's also been reported that the President said to the Vice President that 2 something to the effect of, "You don't have the courage to make a hard 3 decision." And maybe not those exact words, but something like that. Do 4 you remember anything like that?

5 A: Words—and I don't remember exactly either, but something like that,
6 yeah. Like you're not tough enough to make the call.³⁷

7 In his speech to the crowd and television crews that came to the capital on January 8 6, President Trump explicitly identified the advice given by Plaintiff Eastman when 9 imploring Vice President Pence:

10 John [Eastman] is one of the most brilliant lawyers in the country and he 11 looked at this, and he said what an absolute disgrace that this could be 12 happening to our Constitution, and he looked at Mike Pence, and I hope Mike 13 is going to do the right thing. I hope so. I hope so because if Mike Pence 14 does the right thing, we win the election. . . . And Mike Pence, I hope you're 15 going to stand up for the good of our Constitution and for the good of our 16 country. And if you're not, I'm going to be very disappointed in you.³⁸

17 Vice President Pence had repeatedly made clear that he would not unilaterally 18 reject electors or return them to the states.³⁹ Nevertheless, just before President Trump 19 spoke, Plaintiff falsely alleged widespread manipulation and fraud with voting machines, 20 purportedly altering the election outcome, and then delivered this message to the crowd:

21 And all we are demanding of Vice President Pence is this afternoon at 1:00 22 he let the legislators of the state look into this so we get to the bottom of it, 23 and the American people know whether we have control of the direction of 24 our government, or not. We no longer live in a self-governing republic if we 25 can't get the answer to this question. This is bigger than President Trump. It 26 is a very essence of our republican form of government, and it has to be done.

3 Shortly thereafter—with the assault on the United States Capitol already 4 underway—Trump tweeted at 2:24 p.m., “Mike Pence didn’t have the courage to do what 5 should have been done to protect our Country and our Constitution, giving States a 6 chance to certify a corrected set of facts, not the fraudulent or inaccurate ones which they 7 were asked to previously certify. USA demands the truth!”⁴¹ The evidence obtained by 8 the Select Committee indicates that President Trump was aware that the violent crowd 9 had breached security and was assaulting the Capitol when Mr. Trump tweeted.⁴² The 10 evidence will show that rioters reacted to this tweet, resulting in further violence at the 11 Capitol.⁴³ Indeed, rioters at the Capitol were shouting for the Vice President to be

7 and adjourn for 10 days to allow the legislatures to finish their investigations, as well as 8 to allow a full forensic audit of the massive amount of illegal activity that has occurred 9 here.”⁴⁶ Plaintiff knew what he was proposing would violate the law, but he nonetheless 10 urged the Vice President to take those actions.

11 The Vice President rejected Plaintiff’s pleas that he violate the law, and has since 12 indicated that what the President and Plaintiff were insisting he do was “Un-American.”⁴⁷ 13 Former Fourth Circuit Judge Michael Luttig—for whom Plaintiff had previously worked 14 as a law clerk—described Plaintiff’s view of the Vice President’s authority as “incorrect

16 President Trump’s White House Counsel confronted Plaintiff before the rally, and 17 rejected Plaintiff’s advice to Mr. Trump. And Plaintiff admitted that not a single Justice 18 of the Supreme Court would agree with his view that the Vice President could refuse to

6 The Select Committee’s investigation is continuing to gather evidence on the 7 planning for the violent assault, communications between those who participated, and 8 communications by the Trump team from the Willard war room and elsewhere. Various 9 individuals planned for violence that day, including with the placement of pipe bombs, 10 the accumulation of weaponry for potential use on January 6 across the river in Virginia, 11 and the use of tactical gear and other weaponry.⁵¹ Evidence also indicates that the violent

14 American people that the election was in fact stolen.⁵² Indeed, the President’s rhetoric

4 PROCEDURAL HISTORY

6 In furtherance of its duty to investigate the facts, circumstances, and causes of the 7 attack on January 6, the Select Committee has issued subpoenas to various government 8 agencies, private companies, and numerous individuals, including Plaintiff and his 9 former employer, Chapman University. In a cover letter accompanying the subpoena at 10 issue here, Chairman Thompson explained that the Select Committee had “credible 11 evidence” that Plaintiff knew about, and “may have participated in, attempts to encourage 12 the Vice President of the United States to reject the electors from several states or, at the 13 very least, to delay the electoral college results to give states more time to submit 14 different slates of electors.” Nov. 8, 2021 Select Committee Cover Letter to Eastman at 15 1.⁵⁵ Chairman Thompson noted that Plaintiff wrote “two memoranda offering several 16 scenarios for the Vice President to potentially change the outcome of the 2020 17 Presidential election.” Id. Chairman Thompson also explained that Plaintiff had 18 “participated in a briefing for nearly 300 state legislators from several states regarding 19 purported election fraud,” “testified to Georgia state senators regarding alleged voter 20 fraud and reportedly shared a paper that argued that the state legislature could reject 21 election results and directly appoint electors,” was “at the Willard Hotel ‘war room’ with 22 Steve Bannon and others on the days leading up to January 6 where the focus was on 23 delaying or blocking the certification of the election,” and on January 6, “spoke at the 24 rally at the White House Ellipse.” Id. at 2.

25 After Plaintiff refused to produce any documents responsive to a subpoena issued 26 to him directly (which is not before this Court), and invoked the Fifth Amendment 27

28 ⁵⁵ Available at <https://perma.cc/ZV8J-P2QS>.

1 privilege against forced self-incrimination repeatedly during his deposition, the Select 2 Committee issued a separate subpoena to Chapman for certain documents in its 3 possession “attributable to Dr. John Eastman, that are related in any way to the 2020 4 election or the January 6, 2021 Joint Session of Congress.” Compl. Ex. B at 4, ECF No.
5 1-2. That subpoena requested documents from November 3, 2020 to January 20, 2021.
6 Id. The deadline to produce the subpoenaed documents was January 21, 2022. Id. at 3.

7 The day before the subpoena’s deadline, Plaintiff initiated this action and sought to 8 enjoin Chapman from producing responsive records. In his application for emergency 9 injunctive relief, Plaintiff made broad assertions of attorney-client privilege without 10 identifying individual communications to which these privileges applied. This Court 11 granted Plaintiff’s request for a four-day ex parte temporary restraining order until the 12 parties appeared for a January 24 hearing to discuss Plaintiff’s request for a temporary 13 restraining order. See Civil Minutes, Jan. 20, 2022, ECF No. 12.

14 At the January 24 hearing, the parties agreed that Plaintiff would expeditiously 15 produce a privilege log with particularized assertions of privilege. The Court denied 16 Plaintiff’s application to maintain the temporary restraining order, rejected his First 17 Amendment, Fourth Amendment, and Congressional authority claims, and ordered 18 Plaintiff to produce all non-privileged, responsive documents to the Select Committee on 19 a rolling basis. The Court also denied Plaintiff’s blanket attorney-client privilege and 20 attorney work product protection claims with the proviso that Plaintiff retained the right 21 to raise these claims as to specific documents during production. See Order, Jan. 25, 22 2020, ECF No. 43.

23 Although Plaintiff produced the requested logs, those logs failed to provide 24 sufficient information to allow the Select Committee to assess the privilege assertions’ 25 validity. After several efforts to secure adequate information from Plaintiff, 26 Congressional Defendants asked this Court to establish a briefing schedule to address 27 Plaintiff’s outstanding privilege assertions and the insufficiency of the information 28 provided on his daily logs. See Notice, Feb. 11, 2022, ECF No. 101. This Court granted

1 that request as to the privilege assertions on Plaintiff’s January 4-7 document logs and set 2 a hearing to address these issues. See Civil Minutes, Feb. 14, 2022, ECF No. 104. At 3 Congressional Defendants’ request, the Court also ordered Plaintiff to produce “evidence 4 of all attorney-client and agent relationships asserted in the privilege log,” including 5 “evidence documenting any attorney-client relationships that existed with his clients.”
6 Id. The Court’s order did not address motions for reconsideration.

7 STANDARD OF REVIEW

8 “As with all evidentiary privileges, the burden of proving that the attorney-client 9 privilege applies rests not with the party contesting the privilege, but with the party 10 asserting it.” Weil v. Inv./Indicators, Rsch. & Mgmt., Inc., 647 F.2d 18, 25 (9th Cir.
11 1981) (citations omitted); United States v. Richey, 632 F.3d 559, 566 (9th Cir. 2011).
12 The same is true of the work product doctrine. United States v. City of Torrance, 163
13 F.R.D. 590, 593 (C.D. Cal. 1995); Cameron v. City of El Segundo, No. 20-CV-04689, 14 2021 WL 3466324, at *12 (C.D. Cal. Apr. 30, 2021). “Evidentiary privileges in 15 litigation” like those at issue here “are not favored.” Herbert v. Lando, 441 U.S. 153, 16 175 (1979).

17 “[A] party asserting the attorney-client privilege has the burden of establishing the 18 relationship and the privileged nature of the communication.” United States v. Ruehle, 19 583 F.3d 600, 607 (9th Cir. 2009) (internal quotation omitted). “Because it impedes full 20 and free discovery of the truth, the attorney-client privilege is strictly construed.” United 21 States v. Martin, 278 F.3d 988, 999 (9th Cir. 2002), as amended on denial of reh’g (Mar.
22 13, 2002) (internal quotation omitted).

23 ARGUMENT

24 “[T]he power of inquiry—with process to enforce it—is an essential and 25 appropriate auxiliary to the legislative function.” McGrain v. Daugherty, 273 U.S. 135, 26 174 (1927). Inherent in this investigative authority, Congress can compel production of 27 documents and testimony through legislative subpoenas. It should now be beyond 28 dispute that the Select Committee is operating properly with an appropriate legislative

1 purpose. Order, Dkt. No. 43 at 10 (holding that “the issues surrounding the 2020 election
2 and the January 6th attacks” are “clearly ‘subjects on which legislation could be had’”);
3 see also Thompson, No. 21-5254, 2021 U.S. App. LEXIS 36315, at *6 (describing 4 “Congress’s uniquely vital interest in studying the January 6th attack on itself to 5 formulate remedial legislation and to safeguard its constitutional and legislative 6 operations).

7 I. Plaintiff Has Not Met His Burden to Establish Application of the Common 8 Law Attorney-Client Privilege

9 A. Plaintiff Has Neither Met His Burden to Establish the Attorney-Client
10 Relationship Nor Has He Sufficiently Established the Privileged Nature
11 of the Communications

12 Plaintiff claims that “[t]he attorney-client relationship between Dr. Eastman and 13 President Trump should be beyond dispute,” Br. at 11, and declares that he filed briefs on 14 behalf of the Trump campaign in state litigation in December 2020. Pl.’s Ex. 1, Eastman 15 Decl. ¶ 20. But Plaintiff does not even attempt in his declaration to claim attorney-client 16 privilege over the relevant matters and the relevant time at issue here.

17 Over the past months, the Congressional Defendants repeatedly asked Plaintiff to 18 disclose the engagement letters that show the identity of his client and the period of the 19 representation. Ex. 1, Email Exchange Between Douglas Letter and Charles Burnham.
20 Appended to his declaration, Plaintiff finally revealed what he purports is an engagement 21 letter. That letter identifies the client as “Donald J. Trump for President, Inc.” Ex. A to 22 Ex. 1 at 1. But—despite a clearly delineated signature page with lines for the client and 23 attorney to sign—that letter is unsigned. Ex. A to Ex. 1 at 4. See In re W/B Assocs., 307

1 engagement letter insufficient to establish attorney client relationship).⁵⁶ And Plaintiff 2 provided no declaration from his client regarding the scope of his representation.

3 The lack of signatures is critical because the letter itself states that it becomes 4 operative “[u]pon the proper signatures by all parties hereto.” Ex. A to Ex. 1 at 1. By the 5 terms of the letter, therefore, the absence of signatures suggests the letter was not 6 operative. Plaintiff’s declaration, moreover, does not authenticate this unsigned letter, 7 nor does Plaintiff include the cover email by which the engagement letter was 8 “transmitted.” Ex. 1, Eastman Decl. ¶ 23.⁵⁷ Although Plaintiff had the burden to 9 establish the elements of the privilege in his opening brief, this unsigned and 10 unauthenticated engagement letter is insufficient to establish an attorney-client 11 relationship during the period at issue (January 4 through 7) as to either President Trump 12 the individual or President Trump’s campaign. Any belated effort to cure this defect in 13 his reply by appending a signed engagement letter or the cover email to the letter should 14 not be permitted. See U.S. ex rel. Giles v. Sardie, 191 F. Supp. 2d 1117, 1127 (C.D. Cal.
15 2000) (“It is improper for a moving party to introduce new facts or different legal 16 arguments in the reply brief than those presented in the moving papers.”).

17 Nor can Plaintiff meet his burden by noting his involvement prior to the election in 18 a so-called “Election Integrity Working Group.” Ex. 1, Eastman Decl. ¶ 25. No 19 documentation accompanies this assertion, which in any event provides no indication that

20 21 ⁵⁶ Plaintiff emphasizes his appearances in a number of cases, but simply naming these 22 cases does not meet Plaintiff’s burden to show that the disputed communications related 23 to any of those cases. One of the cases had already concluded before the time at issue 24 here, see State of Texas v. Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, et al., No. 22O155 (motion for leave to file a bill of complaint denied on December 11, 2020), and nowhere do Plaintiff’s privilege logs identify communications linked to either of the other cases.

25 ⁵⁷ Plaintiff had the burden to establish the elements of the privilege in his opening brief.

1 Plaintiff had a relevant attorney-client relationship during January 4 through January 7.
2 “[T]he burden of establishing the existence of the relationship rests on the claimant of the 5 Ninth Circuit precedent is clear: “A party claiming the privilege must identify 6 specific communications and the grounds supporting the privilege as to each piece of 7 evidence over which privilege is asserted.” Martin, 278 F.3d at 1000. Plaintiff’s 8 privilege log and brief instead summarily label a multitude of documents as privileged 9 without properly identifying a client, establishing the advice as legal (as opposed to 10 political or strategic), or showing that the third parties included on the communication 11 were agents of the client. Such “[b]lanket assertions [of privilege] are ‘extremely 12 disfavored.’” Id. (quoting Clarke v. Am. Com. Nat’l Bank, 974 F.2d 127, 129 (9th 13 Cir.1992)). Accordingly, Plaintiff’s attorney-client claims must be rejected.

14 In addition, to the extent that the Court finds that Plaintiff was providing advice on 15 political or campaign strategy rather than law, the communications are not privileged, 16 because “advice on political, strategic, or policy issues . . . would not be shielded from 17 disclosure by the attorney-client privilege.” In re Lindsey, 148 F.3d 1100, 1106 (D.C.

9 privacy and company retained right to monitor data flowing through its systems).

10 As the Supreme Court explained, an employee’s expectation of privacy “may be 11 reduced by virtue of actual office practices and procedures, or by legitimate regulation.”
12 O’Connor v. Ortega, 480 U.S. 709, 717 (1987). In the context of email communication 13 over an employer’s email system, “the question of privilege comes down to whether the 14 intent to communicate in confidence was objectively reasonable.” Doe 1 v. George 18 Crossing, Ltd., 322 B.R. 247, 258 (Bankr. S.D.N.Y. 2005).

19 Courts confronting the issue have applied four factors: “(1) does the corporation 20 maintain a policy banning personal or other objectionable use, (2) does the company 21 monitor the use of the employee’s computer or e-mail, (3) do third parties have a right of 22 access to the computer or e-mails, and (4) did the corporation notify the employee, or 23 was the employee aware, of the use and monitoring policies?” George Washington 24 Univ., 480 F. Supp. 3d at 226 (quoting In re Asia Glob. Crossing, Ltd., 322 B.R. at 257).
25 These factors point to the conclusion that any intent Plaintiff may have had to 26 communicate confidentially over the Chapman server was not objectively reasonable.

27 _____
28 ⁶⁰ Plaintiff’s assertion that the Congressional Defendants waived this argument, Br. 22-23, is addressed at 53-57, infra.

1 Chapman’s Computer and Network Policy directly undermines any purported 2 expectation of confidentiality. That policy is clear: “Users should not expect privacy in 3 the contents of University-owned computers or e-mail messages.” Policies and 4 Procedures: Computer and Network Acceptable Use Policy, Chapman University, 5 <https://perma.cc/7ZUA-ZALN> (last visited Mar. 2, 2022) (emphasis added).

6 The policy also expressly bans personal use on its network and computing systems.
7 Id. (all university computing and network systems and services are a “University-owned 8 resource and business tool to be used only by authorized persons for educational 9 purposes or to carry out the legitimate business of the University”). And through its 10 policy, Chapman reserves “the right to retrieve the contents of University-owned 11 computers and e-mail messages for legitimate reasons.” Id.

12 Chapman’s policy is notable in that, in response to the known risks to privilege 13 posed by university email policies, many other universities have in the past decade 14 developed policies that are more protective of user privacy.⁶¹ The use of “bare-bones-15 no-privacy policies” like Chapman’s, in which users are warned “that they do not have an 16 expectation of privacy,” is followed by only a “small minority” of universities. Sisk &

1 Acceptable Use Policy, Chapman University (“Users should not expect privacy in the 2 contents of University-owned computers or e-mail messages”).

3 Plaintiff was notified of Chapman’s relatively stringent policy and can be 4 presumed to be aware of the it. Plaintiff served on the Chapman faculty for over twenty 5 years and was previously the Dean of Chapman’s law school. According to the 6 University, whenever Plaintiff logged on to Chapman’s network during the relevant 7 period he received a “splash screen” message stating: “Use of this computer system 8 constitutes your consent that your activities on, or information you store in, any part of 9 the system is subject to monitoring and recording by Chapman University or its agents, 10 consistent with the Computer and Acceptable Use Policy without further notice.” Decl.
11 of Janine DuMontelle ¶ 6, ECF No. 17-1.

12 Moreover, in reference to Plaintiff’s representation of President Trump in Supreme 13 Court litigation, Chapman’s President publicly emphasized the university’s “clear 14 policies in place regarding outside activity,” explaining that “acting privately, Chapman 15 faculty and staff are not free to use Chapman University’s email address, physical 16 address or telephone number in connection with the support of a political candidate.”
17 Dawn Bonker, President Struppa’s Message on Supreme Court Case, Chapman
18 University (Dec. 10, 2020), <https://perma.cc/3CTG-4DBN>.

19 At this Court’s hearing on January 15, Chapman’s counsel emphasized that 20 President Trump “was not a clinic client, nor would he have been eligible to be a clinic 21 client of Chapman,” that Plaintiff’s representation of the President was “improper” and 22 “unauthorized,” and that Plaintiff’s use of his Chapman account for such representation 23 was like “having contraband on our system.” Hearing Tr. Re: Pl.’s App. for TRO at 29.

24 Putting all of this together, Plaintiff certainly had no legitimate expectation of 25 confidentiality during the dates at issue here—January 4-7, 2021—nearly one month after 26 the University President’s public statement.

27 Plaintiff insists that this Court should disregard Chapman’s policy because 28 Plaintiff is a professor, not a student. The information provided by the university to this

1 Court provides no indication that this makes any difference. To the contrary, less than a 2 month before the period at issue here, Chapman’s President admonished Plaintiff’s use of 3 the Chapman server and email address for the very purpose used here, and was crystal 4 clear that the policy applied to “faculty and staff.” See Bonker, supra (emphasis added).

5 Plaintiff’s reliance on Convertino v. U.S. Dep’t of Just. is misplaced. Convertino, 6 like the cases the Congressional Defendants cite above, holds that “for documents sent 7 through e-mail to be protected by the attorney-client privilege there must be a subjective 8 expectation of confidentiality that is found to be objectively reasonable.” 674 F. Supp.
9 2d at 110. “Because his expectations were reasonable,” the District Court for the District 10 of Columbia held in that situation that “[the official’s] private e-mails will remain 11 protected by the attorney-client privilege.” Id. Here, by contrast, Plaintiff had no 12 reasonable expectation that his documents would remain protected. Not only was the 13 University’s policy clear, but any expectation of confidentiality was manifestly 14 unreasonable following the admonishment by Chapman’s President. See Bonker, supra.

15 For the same reason, United States v. Long, 64 M.J. 57 (C.A.A.F. 2006) is 16 inapposite. See Br. at 28 (relying on Long). Applying a clearly erroneous standard, the 17 Court of Appeals for the Armed Forces concluded there that the lower court did not err in 18 finding a subjective expectation of privacy because “the agency [had a] practice of 19 recognizing the privacy interest of users in their e-mail.” Long, 64 M.J. at 63. By 20 contrast, here, as we have highlighted, the University President (in specific reference to 21 Plaintiff and his political work for President Trump) emphasized that Plaintiff and other 22 faculty had staff had no privacy interest. This fact is also fatal to Plaintiff’s reliance on 23 his prior practices violating Chapman’s policy. See Br. 29-30.

24 Likewise, Plaintiff’s suggestion that his unauthorized use of Chapman’s system is 25 “irrelevant” because “[t]he privilege is held by the client,” Br. 30, makes little legal 26 difference. As the Ninth Circuit has recognized, “[t]here are several instances in which 27 an attorney’s behavior may waive the privilege, even without an explicit act by the 28 client.” In re Pac. Pictures Corp., 679 F.3d at 1130. Plaintiff’s decision to continue

1 using a server and email account in an unauthorized way after being specifically 2 admonished by the University President against doing so is precisely such an instance 3 where, as the attorney, Plaintiff's actions defeated application of the privilege.

4 C. President Trump Waived Privilege By Expressly Asking for Disclosure
5 to Third Parties

6 “[A] fundamental prerequisite to assertion of the privilege” is “confidentiality both 7 at the time of the communication and maintained since.” Coastal States Gas Corp. v.
8 Dep’t of Energy, 617 F.2d 854, 863 (D.C. Cir. 1980). “Voluntary disclosure of 9 privileged communications constitutes waiver of the privilege for all other 10 communications on the same subject.” Richey, 632 F.3d at 566 (citation omitted); see 11 also United States v. Sanmina Corp., 968 F.3d 1107, 1116 (9th Cir. 2020).

12 Plaintiff has stated publicly that President Trump authorized Plaintiff's discussion 13 of advice relating to the election and the events leading up to January 6. Two 14 memoranda that Plaintiff wrote outlining how former Vice President Pence could 15 overturn the results of the Presidential election are already in the public domain and have 16 been provided to the media, and discussed, by Plaintiff.⁶²

17 Plaintiff discussed the advice in his legal memo at length on a podcast, noting that 18 Plaintiff himself provided the memorandum to author Bob Woodward, and saying at the 19 outset that Mr. Trump had “authorized” him “to talk about these things.”⁶³ Plaintiff has 20 also made extensive public remarks regarding the events of January 6 and his advice to 21 President Trump on numerous other occasions.⁶⁴ These “[v]oluntary

2 same subject” of the events surrounding the January 6, 2021 joint session of Congress.
3 United States v. Richey, 632 F.3d at 566.

4 Plaintiff asserts that “[t]he statements about President Trump attributed to Dr.
5 Eastman by the defendants make no reference to privilege,” Br. 24, but nowhere does he 6 cite authority that waiver must make explicit reference to privilege. And, undermining 7 Plaintiff’s representation, Plaintiff indeed recognized the privileged nature of attorney-8 client relationships. On May 5, 2021, Plaintiff appeared on the Peter Boyles Show and 9 stated that “I would normally not talk about a private conversation I have with a client, 10 but I have express authorization from my client, the President of the United States at the 11 time, to describe what occurred—to truthfully describe what occurred in that 12 conversation.”⁶⁵

13 Plaintiff states the unremarkable proposition that “[c]ourts have long recognized 14 that disclosure of privileged information on a particular subject does not necessarily 15 imply a complete waiver of the privilege.” Br. 25.⁶⁶ But no one here has asserted a 16 “complete waiver of the privilege.” At issue is former President Trump’s waiver of the 17 subject matter of issues the events of January 6 and Plaintiff’s advice about the effort to 18 interfere with the counting of the electoral votes on January 6 in violation of the Electoral 19 Count Act.

12 II. The Documents Sought from Chapman Are Not Protected by the Common 13 Law Attorney Work-Product Doctrine

14 “The work-product doctrine is a qualified privilege that protects from discovery 15 documents and tangible things prepared by a party or his representative in anticipation of 16 litigation.” Sanmina Corp., 968 F.3d at 1119 (internal quotation marks and citation 17 omitted). To qualify for work-product protection, documents must: “(1) be prepared in 18 anticipation of litigation or for trial and (2) be prepared by or for another party or by or 19 for that other party’s representative.” Richey, 632 F.3d at 567 (internal quotation marks 20 and citation omitted).

21 “The party claiming work product immunity has the burden of proving the 22 applicability of the doctrine.” Verizon California Inc. v. Ronald A. Katz Tech. Licensing, 23 L.P., 266 F. Supp. 2d 1144, 1147 (C.D. Cal. 2003) (citations omitted). The work product 24 doctrine does not protect against disclosure if the party seeking the discovery “has 25 substantial need for the materials to prepare its case and cannot, without undue hardship, 26 obtain their substantial equivalent by other means.” Fed. R. Civ. P. 26(b)(3)(ii). Plaintiff 27 fails both steps of the test. First, he fails to satisfy his burden to invoke the work product 28 doctrine because he cannot show that the disputed materials were prepared in anticipation

1 of litigation (as opposed to political purposes). Second, Plaintiff fails to undercut the 2 Select Committee’s substantial need for the documents.

3 A. Plaintiff Failed To Meet His Burden To Invoke The Work Product
4 Doctrine

5 Plaintiff has failed to meet his burden to establish that these materials were 6 prepared in anticipation of litigation, as opposed to primarily for another purpose.
7 Numerous documents make no reference to any pending litigation and or anticipated 8 litigation for which these materials were prepared.⁶⁷ Indeed, Plaintiff emphasized “[t]he 9 main thing here is that Pence should do this without asking for permission—either from a 10 vote of the joint session or from the Court.”⁶⁸ (emphasis added).

11 Even if litigation was of some concern, Plaintiff does not prove that these materials 12 were created “because of” the prospect of litigation—Plaintiff does not and cannot 13 establish that these documents “would not have been created in substantially similar form 14 but for the prospect of . . . litigation.” Am. C.L. Union of N. California v. United States

17 majority) of the communications at issue involved efforts to interfere with the counting

⁶⁸ See supra n.27.

1 supra. There is no reason to believe that such communications would not have been 2 “created in substantially similar form” absent the possibility that litigation would 3 somehow ensue. Plaintiff’s repeated and unsupported assertions that the documents were 4 prepared “in anticipation of litigation” do not make it so.

5 Furthermore, it would pervert the purpose of the work-product doctrine to allow 6 Plaintiff to claim protection for his advice aimed at—to put it bluntly—overturning a 7 democratic election. Because the purpose of the work-product doctrine “is to protect the 8 integrity of the adversary process[,] ... it would be improper to allow an attorney to 9 exploit the privilege for ends that are antithetical to that process.” United States v.
10 Christensen, 828 F.3d 970, 1010 (9th Cir. 2015) (quoting Parrott v. Wilson, 707 F.2d 12 doctrine). Conduct that is “merely unethical, as opposed to illegal” is “enough to vitiate 13 the work product doctrine” here. Id. As noted above, see n.8 supra, Plaintiff is currently 14 the subject of a California State Bar ethics investigation.

15 Second, Plaintiff fails to establish that all the documents over which he asserts 16 work-product protection were “prepared by or for another party or by or for that other 17 party’s representative.” Richey, 632 F.3d at 567. In numerous documents, Plaintiff has 18 asserted privileges over communications with like-minded lawyers, pundits, and “scholar 19 advisors” that purportedly contain work product prepared on behalf of President Trump.

20 ⁶⁹ Plaintiff’s overreach here is twofold. First, the paltry descriptions in his privilege 21 claims can scarcely support a claim that his own communications were work product for 1 a client, rather than mere discussions about the election with like-minded correspondents.

2 See, e.g., 023956 (describing a communication “re legal perspectives on the election and 3 possible litigation”). Second, Plaintiff’s correspondents themselves are often not 4 lawyers, e.g., 005338; even when they are—and even when they are lawyers working on 5 election-related matters—he has not met his burden to demonstrate that they were 6 generating work product on behalf of President Trump. Indeed, Plaintiff has presented 7 no evidence that he had an agent relationship with any of these people, despite this 8 Court’s order instructing Plaintiff to “file with the Court and the Select Committee 9 evidence of all attorney-client and agent relationships asserted in the privilege log.” 10 Order, ECF No. 104. ¶ 2. In his declaration (Ex. 1 Eastman Decl. ¶ 29), he claims to 11 have communicated extensively with “statistical and other experts,” but makes no 12 attempt to show that these people—or any of the others on his logs—had agent or 13 attorney-client relationships. Plaintiff cannot retrospectively designate communications 14 with ideological or political conferees as deserving work-product protection absent 15 establishing that those people were representatives of his client.

16 Finally, Plaintiff waived any claim to work product protection when he shared 17 these materials with “potential adversaries.” Sanmina, 968 F.3d at 1121. See, e.g., 18 004494 (journalists); 005489 (“advisor[s]”); 005283 (“scholar advisors”); 024795 19 (“legislative allies”). Not only is Plaintiff’s disclosure “inconsistent with the 20 maintenance of secrecy,” id., Plaintiff acted with complete disregard of the maintenance 21 of secrecy against someone with interests that were potentially adverse to his or those of 22 his client, especially Congress. See United States v. Caldwell, 7 F.4th 191, 207 (4th Cir.
23 2021) (“[W]hen an attorney freely and voluntarily discloses the contents of otherwise 24 protected work product to someone with interests adverse to his or those of the client, 25
26

28

1 . . . he may be deemed to have waived work product protection.”) (quoting In re Doe, 662
2 F.2d 1073, 1081 (4th Cir. 1981)).⁷⁰

3 For example, in 004494-95 and 004496-538, Plaintiff lists as “W/P” an email
4 exchange with [REDACTED]. Plaintiff cannot claim 5 work product protection over an email with a journalist, who could well have published 6 the exchange.⁷¹ Plaintiff’s

7 voluntary disclosure of his alleged work product to present or potential 8 adversaries, in this instance, constituted a waiver of the work product 9 privilege. It was [Plaintiff’s] self-interested decision to disclose information 10 to [the Vice President, his staff, and state officials] so as to [facilitate 11 reversal of the election result]. Yet, [Plaintiff] now seeks work product 12 protection for those same disclosures and documents against different 13 adversaries in suits revolving around the same matters disclosed[.]

14 Loustalet v. Refco, Inc., 154 F.R.D. 243, 248 (C.D. Cal. 1993). The work-product 15 doctrine does not stretch that far.

16 Further, whether Plaintiff “intended that result or not,” work-product protection 17 should cease here because fairness requires it. Sanmina, 968 F.3d at 1122. When 18 assessing the fairness principle underlying waivers, “the overriding concern in the work-19 product context is not the confidentiality of a communication, but the protection of the 20 ⁷⁰ To the extent the work product doctrine can apply to legislative subpoenas, the term 21 “potential adversaries” should be read broadly. Plaintiff cannot have it both ways: He 22 cannot apply a litigation privilege to a legislative subpoena but at the same time restrict 23 waiver of that privilege to litigation adversaries.

24 ⁷¹ See Flaherty v. Seroussi, 209 F.R.D. 300, 307 (N.D.N.Y. 2002) (“dissemination of 25 materials prepared by plaintiff’s counsel to the media is conceptually inconsistent with 26 his claim that those documents provide an indication of his closely guarded trial strategy, 27 and should therefore be shielded from disclosure”); Anderson v. SeaWorld Parks & Ent., 28 Inc., 329 F.R.D. 628, 637 (N.D. Cal. 2019) (“Work product protection does not attach to an attorney’s work directing a public relations campaign, nor is there any expectation of confidentiality where [attorney] directed the consultants to share the list with a journalist.”); Montesa v. Schwartz, No. 12CIV6057, 2016 WL 3476431, at *9 (S.D.N.Y.

substantially more likely to obtain this information by virtue of its disclosure to a journalist, who very well could have published this entire e-mail exchange.”)

1 adversary process.” Id. at 1124. Here, Plaintiff’s selective disclosure of information he 2 now contends is work product weighs heavily against applying the protection.⁷² Plaintiff 3 “cannot be allowed, after disclosing as much as he pleases, to withhold the remainder.”
4 Weil v. Inv./Indicators, Rsch. & Mgmt., Inc., 647 F.2d 18, 24 (9th Cir. 1981).

5 “[U]nder the totality of the circumstances, [Plaintiff] acted in such a way that is 6 inconsistent with the maintenance of secrecy” against the Select Committee regarding the 7 contested documents. Sanmina, 968 F.3d at 1124.

8 B. The Select Committee Has A Substantial Need For The Documents And 9 Cannot Obtain The Substantial Equivalent Of The Documents Without 10 Undue Hardship

11 Even had Plaintiff sufficiently invoked the work product doctrine, the Select 12 Committee has a substantial need for the documents and cannot, without undue hardship, 13 obtain their substantial equivalent by other means. See Admiral Ins. Co. v. U.S. Dist.
14 Court for Dist. of Arizona, 881 F.2d 1486, 1494 (9th Cir. 1989) (“work-product materials 15 nonetheless may be ordered produced upon an adverse party’s demonstration of 16 substantial need or inability to obtain the equivalent without undue hardship”). “The 17 undue hardship prong examines the burden obtaining the information from an alternate 18 source would impose on the party requesting discovery.” Fletcher v. Union Pac. R.R.
19 Co., 194 F.R.D. 666, 671 (S.D. Cal. 2000).

20 Here, the Select Committee has already sought the materials from an alternate 21 source: Chapman University. This case involves Plaintiff’s attempt to impede the Select 22 Committee from obtaining the documents from that alternate source. Even if some third 23 source were available for the requested documents, Plaintiff would likely attempt to 24 prevent disclosure in that circumstance as well. Because the disputed documents are 25 pivotal to the Select Committee’s investigation and it would be nearly impossible to 26 access these communications otherwise, the work product doctrine does not apply. See

27 ⁷² It also indicates that these documents were created for political or strategic 28 purposes and not “because of” anticipated litigation. Am. C.L. Union of N. California, 880 F.3d at 485-86.

1 U.S. v. McGraw-Hill Companies, Inc., 2014 WL 8662657, at *6-7 (C.D. Cal.) (party 2 established entitlement to opinion work product by showing (1) it would be nearly 3 impossible to get these communications otherwise; (2) the work product was pertinent to 4 the party’s “most salient defense”; and (3) the attorney’s mental impressions were a 5 pivotal issue).

6 Plaintiff was a central figure in the effort to encourage the former Vice President 7 to reject the electors from several states and in the strategy to facilitate different slates of 8 electors. He may also have played other important roles in the events under 9 investigation. Plaintiff’s “strategy, mental impressions and opinion” concerning these 10 efforts “are directly at issue” in the Select Committee’s investigation. Reavis v. Metro.
11 Prop. & Liab. Ins. Co., 117 F.R.D. 160, 164 (S.D. Cal. 1987). The Select Committee, 12 therefore, has a substantial need for these materials.⁷³

13 Plaintiff claims that Congressional Defendants have “offered no argument or 14 evidence of the Select Committee’s need for any of these particular documents in pursuit 15 of any valid legislative purpose, much less [sic] a need that would qualify as substantial 16 or compelling in support of a legislative purpose.” Br. 16. Congressional Defendants 17 cannot specifically address documents they have not seen, many of which are scantily
18 described in the privilege logs. See, e.g., 004707 (“[c]omm with co-counsel”); 004494 19 (“[c]omm re statistical evidence”); 004708 (“[c]omm with co-counsel re legal advice”); 20 004720 (“comm with co-counsel re legal strategy”); 005874 (“comm re fact 21 information”); 004964 (“[a]ttachment”). But as this Court has noted, Plaintiff’s “actions 22 clearly fall within the bounds of an investigation into ‘the influencing factors that 23 fomented such an attack on American representative democracy,’” ECF No. 43 at 9 (Jan.
24

25 ⁷³ Plaintiff’s privilege log does little to reveal whether the materials he seeks to withhold 26 are ordinary work product or opinion work product. The Select Committee, however, 27 meets either test: It has both a “substantial need” and a “compelling need” for the 28 materials sought. Holmgren v. State Farm Mut. Auto. Ins. Co., 976 F.2d 573, 577 (9th Cir. 1992) (“opinion work product may be discovered and admitted when mental impressions are at issue in a case and the need for the material is compelling”).

1 25, 2022) (quoting H.R. Res. 503 § 3(1)) and “there are numerous plausible legislative 2 measures that could relate to Dr. Eastman’s communications,” id. at 10. The pressing 3 need to complete a full investigation into an unprecedented attack on American 4 democracy by reviewing documents involving a key participant is both substantial and 5 compelling.⁷⁴

6 III. The Court Should Review the Documents In Camera Under the Crime Fraud 7 Exception

9 Communications in which a “client consults an attorney for advice that will serve 10 him in the commission of a fraud or crime” are not privileged from disclosure. In re
11 Grand Jury Investigation, 810 F.3d 1110, 1113 (9th Cir. 2016) (internal quotations 12 omitted). This exception to the attorney-client privilege applies where (1) “the client was 13 engaged in or planning a criminal or fraudulent scheme when it sought the advice of 14 counsel to further the scheme,” and (2) the attorney-client communications for which 15 production is sought are “sufficiently related to” and were made “in furtherance of [the] 16 intended, or present, continuing illegality.” Id. at 381-83 (internal quotation marks 17 omitted).

18 It bears emphasizing that this is true even if “the attorney is unaware that his 19 advice may further an illegal purpose.” United States v. Laurins, 857 F.2d 529, 540 (9th 20 Cir. 1988), cert. denied, 492 U.S. 906 (1989). And it is likewise true where the crime or

21 ⁷⁴ Congress has consistently taken the view that its investigative committees are not 22 bound by judicial common law privileges such as the attorney-client privilege or the 23 work product doctrine. See generally, Congressional Research Service, Congressional 24 Oversight Manual 61-62 (March 21, 2021). This aspect of Congress’s investigative 25 authority is rooted in the separation of powers inherent in the Constitution’s 26 structure. Id. Congress and its committees make decisions regarding such common law 27 privileges by balancing the important institutional, constitutional, and individual interests 28 at stake on a case-by-case basis. Here, Congressional Defendants have determined, consistent with their prerogatives, not to submit an argument on this point. This is not, however, intended to indicate, in any way, that Congress or its investigative committees will decline to assert this institutional authority in other proceedings.

1 fraud is ultimately unsuccessful. In re Grand Jury Proceedings (Corporation), 87 F.3d 2 377, 382 (9th Cir. 1996).

3 Critically for this case, an in camera review of the documents is warranted when 4 the party seeking production has provided “a factual basis adequate to support a good 5 faith belief by a reasonable person that in camera review of the materials may reveal 6 evidence to establish the claim that the crime-fraud exception applies.” United States v.
7 Zolin, 491 U.S. 554, 572 (1989) (citation omitted). That standard has plainly been met 8 here. As discussed in the Background section above, evidence and information available 9 to the Committee establishes a good-faith belief that Mr. Trump and others may have 10 engaged in criminal and/or fraudulent acts, and that Plaintiff’s legal assistance was used 11 in furtherance of those activities. Accordingly, this Court should conduct an in camera 12 review of the documents to determine whether the crime-fraud exception applies.

13 A. Obstruction of an Official Proceeding

14 The evidence detailed above provides, at minimum, a good-faith basis for 15 concluding that President Trump has violated section 18 U.S.C. § 1512(c)(2). The 16 elements of the offense under 1512(c)(2) are: (1) the defendant obstructed, influenced or 17 impeded, or attempted to obstruct, influence or impede, (2) an official proceeding of the 18 United States, and (3) that the defendant did so corruptly. Id. (emphasis added). To date, 19 six judges from the United States District Court for the District of Columbia have 20 addressed the applicability of section 1512(c) to defendants criminally charged in 21 connection with the January 6th attack on the Capitol. Each has concluded that 22 Congress’s proceeding to count the electoral votes on January 6th was an “official 23 proceeding” for purposes of this section, and each has refused to dismiss charges against 24 defendants under that section.⁷⁵

13 Congressional proceedings to count electoral votes are governed by the Twelfth

1 electoral slate. Also, the specific text of the Twelfth Amendment makes clear that the 2 presiding officer cannot delay the count in this context, by instructing that the presiding
3 officer shall “open all the certificates and the votes shall then be counted . . .” It is not 4 permissible to wait 10 days or any other extended period before counting certified 5 electoral votes.

6 The Electoral Count Act of 1887 provides for objections by House and Senate 7 members, and a process to resolve such objections through votes in each separate 8 chamber. 3 U.S.C. §§ 5, 6, 15. Nothing in the Twelfth Amendment or the Electoral 9 Count Act provides a basis for the presiding officer of the Senate to unilaterally refuse to 10 count electoral votes—for any reason. Any such effort by the presiding officer would 11 violate the law. This is exactly what the Vice President’s counsel explained at length to 12 Plaintiff and President Trump before January 6.⁷⁶ Plaintiff acknowledged that the 13 Supreme Court would reject such an effort 9-0.⁷⁷ And the Vice President made this 14 crystal clear in writing on January 6: any attempt by the Vice President to take the course 15 of action the President insisted he take would have been illegal.⁷⁸

16 Nevertheless, pursuant to Plaintiff’s plan, the President repeatedly asked the Vice 17 President to exercise unilateral authority illegally, as presiding officer of the Joint 18 Session of Congress, to refuse to count electoral votes. See supra at 11-13. In service of 19 this effort, he and Plaintiff met with the Vice President and his staff several times to 20 advocate that he unilaterally reject and refuse to count or prevent the counting of certified

1 electoral votes, and both also engaged in a public campaign to pressure the Vice 2 President. See supra at 3-17.

3 The President and Plaintiff also took steps to alter the certification of electors from 4 various States. See supra at 18. For example, the President called and met with state 5 officials, met numerous times with officials in the Department of Justice, tweeted and 6 spoke about these issues publicly, and engaged in a personal campaign to persuade the 7 public that the election had been tainted by widespread fraud.

8 As indicated, there can be no legitimate question that the Joint Session of Congress
9 held on January 6th pursuant to the Twelfth Amendment and the Electoral Count Act 10 constitutes an “official proceeding” under Section 1512(c).⁷⁹

11 The evidence supports an inference that President Trump and members of his 12 campaign knew he had not won enough legitimate state electoral votes to be declared the 13 winner of the 2020 Presidential election during the January 6 Joint Session of Congress, 14 but the President nevertheless sought to use the Vice President to manipulate the results
15 in his favor. By December 14, 2020, the Electoral College had voted to send 306
16 certified electoral votes for Biden and 232 certified electoral votes for Trump.⁸⁰ No state 17 legislature had certified an alternate slate between that time and January 6, 2021.
18 Moreover, no court had endorsed the Trump campaign’s numerous attempts to challenge 19 state election results in the wake of the election.⁸¹ Thus, even if the Vice President had 20 authority to reject certified electoral certificates (and he did not), there was no valid 21 lawful basis to do so. See supra at 3-17.

26 ⁸¹ See supra at 3-5. In the single case the President won, his campaign challenged a state-
27 ordered deadline extension in Pennsylvania for the submission of personal identification 28 for mailed ballots, affecting a small number of votes. See Order, Trump v. Boockvar, No.
602 M.D. 2020 (Pa. Commonwealth Ct. Nov. 12, 2020), <https://www.pacourts.us/Storage/media/pdfs/20210604/020642-file-10440.pdf>.

1 Nevertheless, as shown above (see supra at 11-13), the President and Plaintiff 2 engaged in an extensive public and private campaign to convince the Vice President to 3 reject certain Biden electors or delay the proceedings, without basis, so that the President
4 and his associates would have additional time to manipulate the results. Had this effort 5 succeeded, the electoral count would have been obstructed, impeded, influenced, and (at 6 the very least) delayed, all without any genuine legal justification and based on the false 7 pretense that the election had been stolen. There is no genuine question that the President 8 and Plaintiff attempted to accomplish this specific illegal result.

9 The evidence is also more than sufficient to establish a good faith belief that 10 Plaintiff's advice was used to further these ends. Plaintiff was the architect of the 11 strategies proposed to the Vice President both directly and through his staff. His memos 12 provided the basis for arguments made to the Vice President by both the President and 13 Plaintiff himself. Plaintiff was likewise personally involved in persuading state 14 legislators that they had authority to reject the election results and submit alternate slates 15 of electors to Congress.⁸² And he was even involved in the effort to spread false 16 allegations of election fraud to the public.⁸³

17 B. Conspiracy to Defraud the United States

18 The Select Committee also has a good-faith basis for concluding that the President 19 and members of his Campaign engaged in a criminal conspiracy to defraud the United 20 States in violation of 18 U.S.C. § 371.

21 An individual “defrauds” the government for purposes of Section 371 if he 22 “interfere[s] with or obstruct[s] one of its lawful governmental functions by deceit, craft 23 or trickery, or at least by means that are dishonest.” Hammerschmidt v. United States, 24 265 U.S. 182, 188 (1924). The conspiracy need not aim to deprive the government of 25 property. See Haas v. Henkel, 216 U.S. 462, 479 (1910). It need not involve any 26 detrimental reliance by the government. See Dennis v. United States, 384 U.S. 855, 861-

27 _____
28 ⁸² See supra at 8, 11.

1 62 (1966). And “[n]either the conspiracy’s goal nor the means used to achieve it need to 2 be independently illegal.” United States v. Boone, 951 F.2d 1526, 1559 (9th Cir.1991).

3 To establish a violation Section 371’s “defraud” clause, “the government need only 4 show” that (1) the defendant entered into an agreement (2) to obstruct a lawful function 5 of the government (3) by deceitful or dishonest means, and (4) that a member of the 6 conspiracy engaged in at least one overt act in furtherance of the conspiracy. United 7 States v. Meredith, 685 F.3d 814, 822 (9th Cir. 2012) (citation omitted). The 8 “agreement” need not be express and can be inferred from the conspirators’ conduct in 9 furtherance of their common objectives. Ianelli v. United States, 420 U.S. 770, 777 &
10 n.10 (1975); see also United States v. Renzi, 769 F.3d 731 (9th Cir. 2014).

11 “This is a very broad provision, which subjects a wide range of activity to 12 potential criminal penalties.” United States v. Caldwell, 989 F.2d 1056, 1059 (9th Cir.
13 1993), partially overruled on unrelated grounds as recognized by United States v. Conti, 14 804 F.3d 977, 980 (9th Cir. 2015).

15 The evidence supports an inference that President Trump, Plaintiff, and several 16 others entered into an agreement to defraud the United States by interfering with the 17 election certification process, disseminating false information about election fraud, and 18 pressuring state officials to alter state election results and federal officials to assist in that 19 effort. As noted above, in particular, the President and Plaintiff worked jointly to attempt 20 to persuade the Vice President to use his position on January 6, 2021, to reject certified 21 electoral slates submitted by certain States and/or to delay the proceedings by sending the 22 count back to the States. See supra at 11-13. Plaintiff first crafted a “plan” to justify this 23 course of action.⁸⁴ Plaintiff and the President then met and spoke with the Vice President

1 and members of his staff on several occasions on January 4-6 in an attempt to execute 2 Plaintiff's plan.⁸⁵ Plaintiff continued these efforts to persuade the Vice President via 3 ongoing conversations with the Vice President's staff, and the President employed 4 numerous public statements to exert additional pressure on Pence.⁸⁶ The evidence 5 developed to date indicates that these actions were all part of a concerted effort to 6 achieve a common goal: to prevent or delay the certification of the 2020 presidential 7 election results.

8 In addition to the legal effort to delay the certification, there is also evidence that 9 the conspiracy extended to the rioters engaged in acts of violence at the Capitol. In a 10 civil case filed against the President and others by several members of Congress, Judge 11 Amit Mehta in the District of Columbia specifically found that it was plausible to believe 12 that the President entered into a conspiracy with the rioters on January 6, 2021, "to 13 disrupt the Certification of the Electoral College vote through force, intimidation, or 14 threats." Thompson v. Trump, No. 21-cv-00400 (APM), --- F.3d ---, 2022 WL 503384, at 15 *33. (D.D.C. Feb. 18, 2022). Judge Mehta's opinion demonstrates the breadth of 16 conspiratorial conduct and further supports the existence of common law fraud.

17 As part of the effort described above, the conspirators also obstructed a lawful 18 governmental function by pressuring the Vice President to violate his duty to count the 19 electoral certificates presented from certain States. As an alternative, they urged the Vice 20 President to delay the count to allow state legislatures to convene and select alternate 21 electors. The apparent objective of these efforts was to overturn the results of the 2020
22 presidential election and declare Donald Trump the winner. In this way, the conspiracy 23 aimed to obstruct and interfere with the proper functioning of the United States 24 government.

25 As summarized supra at 11-13, the President and Plaintiff engaged in an extensive 26 campaign to persuade the public, state officials, members of Congress, and Vice

1 President Pence that the 2020 election had been unlawfully “stolen” by Joseph Biden.
2 The President continued this effort despite repeated assurances from countless sources
3 that there was no evidence of widespread election fraud. See supra at 6. On November 4 12, 2020, CISA issued a joint statement of election security agencies stating: “There is no 5 evidence that any voting system deleted or lost votes, changed votes, or was in any way

7 campaign concluded that several the claims of fraud relating to Dominion voting 8 machines were false.⁸⁸

9 In December, Attorney General Barr publicly announced that there was no 10 widespread election fraud.⁸⁹ By January 6, more than 60 court cases had rejected legal 11 claims alleging election fraud.⁹⁰ The New York court that suspended Giuliani’s law

1 C. Common Law Fraud

2 There is also evidence to support a good-faith, reasonable belief that in camera
3 review of the materials may reveal that the President and members of his Campaign 4 engaged in common law fraud in connection with their efforts to overturn the 2020 5 election results.

6 The District of Columbia, where these events occurred, defines common law fraud 7 as: (1) a false representation; (2) in reference to material fact; (3) made with knowledge 8 of its falsity; (4) with the intent to deceive; and (5) action is taken in reliance upon the 9 representation. Atraqchi v. GUMC Unified Billing Servs., 788 A.2d 559, 560 (D.C.
10 2002).⁹⁵

11 As described above, the evidence shows that the President made numerous false 12 statements regarding election fraud, both personally and through his associates, to the 13 public at-large and to various state and federal officials. See supra at 6-7. These 14 statements referred to material facts regarding the validity of state and federal election 15 results. See supra at 7-8. And the evidence supports a good-faith inference that the 16 President did so with knowledge of the falsity of these statements and an intent to 17 deceive his listeners in hopes they would take steps in reliance thereon.

18 In addition to the numerous refutations of fraud mentioned above, see supra at 7-8, 19 a specific example helps illustrate the point: On December 3, 2020, Trump’s YouTube 20 channel posted an edited video clip, purporting to show Georgia officials pulling 21 suitcases of ballots from under a table after poll workers had left for the day.⁹⁶ The next 22 morning, a Georgia official responded to the allegation on Twitter, indicating that the 23 video “was watched in its entirety (hours) by @GaSecofState investigators” and

4 intentionally misleading the public about what happened at State Farm Arena on election 5 night. They had the whole video too and ignored the truth.”⁹⁹

6 The next day, the Georgia Secretary of State’s office released the full video to 7 local news outlets, which thoroughly debunked the President’s claims.¹⁰⁰ On December 8 6, 2020, the Chief Investigator in the Georgia Secretary of State’s Office issued a sworn 10 unknown location and hidden under tables as has been reported by some” and explaining

4 Undeterred, the Trump campaign continued to run the ads on Facebook. And the 5 President continued to rely on this allegation in his efforts to overturn the results of the 9 Raffensperger to “find 11,780 votes” for him in Georgia.¹⁰⁵ During this call, 10 Raffensperger explained to the President that the video in question had been selectively 11 edited, and that Raffensperger’s office had reviewed the full tape and found no evidence 12 of fraud.¹⁰⁶ Raffensperger also offered to provide the President a link to the full video, to 13 which the President responded: “I don’t care about the link. I don’t need it.”¹⁰⁷ The 14 following day, the President tweeted: “I spoke to Secretary of State Brad Raffensperger 15 yesterday about Fulton County and voter fraud in Georgia. He was unwilling, or unable, 16 to answer questions such as the ‘ballots under table’ scam, ballot destruction, out of state

4 The evidence also shows that many members of the public acted in reliance on the 5 President’s statements. See infra at 52-53. Several defendants in pending criminal cases 6 identified the President’s allegations about the “stolen election” as a motivation for their 7 activities at the Capitol. And a number specifically cited the President’s tweets asking 8 his supporters to come to Washington, D.C. on January 6. For example, one defendant 9 who later pled guilty to threatening Nancy Pelosi texted a family member on January 6 to

2 even today, polling suggests that “[m]ore than 40% of Americans still do not believe that 3 Joe Biden legitimately won the 2020 presidential election despite no evidence of 4 widespread voter fraud.”¹¹³

5 As explained at length above, it appears that President Trump’s false statements to 6 his supporters and government officials were informed by Dr. Eastman’s extensive 7 advice that the election was stolen and that Congress or the Vice President could change

¹¹⁴ This does not represent the entirety of the evidence obtained by the Select Committee with respect to these issues. In addition, the Select Committee is receiving new evidence on a regular basis as part of its ongoing investigation. The Select Committee can make additional evidence available to the Court as requested.

1 IV. The Select Committee Has Not Waived Its Arguments That Plaintiff Is Not 2 Entitled To Attorney-client Or Work-Product Protections Over The 3 Documents At Issue

4 Plaintiff contends that the Select Committee has “waived” its right to object to 5 privilege based on Plaintiff’s public statements, the “particulars” of the Chapman 6 University email system, or “any other ‘generalized’ waiver argument.” Br. at 22. That 7 contention is obviously wrong.

8 Plaintiff reasons that the Select Committee “necessarily conceded the possibility 9 that at least some privileged content exists in the Chapman materials” because it 10 “conced[ed] that a privilege log is appropriate.” Br. at 22. The Select Committee made 11 no such concessions. As reflected in the statement quoted in Plaintiff’s brief, counsel for 12 the Select Committee stated at the hearing, “if this [a privilege review] is considered 13 something that is important to do now, we would certainly entertain it.” Id. That is, if 14 this Court believed that an initial privilege review and log were appropriate, the Select 15 Committee would not object to such a process. In no way did counsel’s statement 16 concede that any of the documents at issue may ultimately be withheld because of 17 privilege.

18 Indeed, as Plaintiff recognizes, Br. at 22, the Select Committee argued in its brief
19 in opposition to a temporary restraining order that Plaintiff could not claim attorney-20 client privilege or work product protection over any of the documents at issue (see ECF 21 No. 23-1 at 17-23), and the Select Committee never abandoned that argument. To the 22 contrary, in each of the notices the Select Committee has filed with its privilege log 23 objections, it has explicitly “preserve[d] its ability to argue in subsequent briefing on 24 Plaintiff’s privilege claims that, as a general matter, none of the documents contained in 25 the Chapman University production set can be withheld on the basis of attorney-client or 26 work product privilege.” See, e.g., ECF No. 71 at 2. Plaintiff cites no case law 27 supporting his view of waiver, and the Select Committee is aware of none.
28

1 V. This Court Should Not Revisit Its Ruling Rejecting Plaintiff’s First and 2 Fourth Amendment Claims

3 Plaintiff asks this Court to “revisit” its holding denying a preliminary injunction 4 based on Plaintiff’s First and Fourth Amendment claims. Br. at 31-37. That request is 5 procedurally improper. This Court directed Plaintiff to “file briefing ... supporting his 6 assertions of privilege for each document between January 4 and January 7, 2021.” ECF
7 No. 104. Inserting into such briefing a request for reconsideration of the Court’s ruling 8 on Plaintiff’s First and Fourth Amendment claims—which are not relevant to the 9 privilege claims—is entirely inappropriate.

10 Local Rule 7-18 describes the proper procedure for seeking the Court’s 11 reconsideration of a previous ruling, and the grounds on which such a request may be 12 made. Barring a showing of good cause, the rule requires that a motion be made no later 13 than 14 days after the Order at issue was entered. In this case, the relevant Order was 14 entered on January 25, almost one month before Plaintiff filed this brief. See ECF No.
15 43. Thus, Plaintiff both failed to submit his request in the proper format of a motion for 16 reconsideration and failed to file it in a timely manner.

17 Moreover, under Local Rule 7-18, a motion for reconsideration may only be made 18 on the following grounds:

- 19 (a) a material difference in fact or law from that presented to the Court that, 20 in the exercise of reasonable diligence, could not have been known to the 21 party moving for reconsideration at the time the Order was entered, or (b) 22 the emergence of new material facts or a change of law occurring after the 23 Order was entered, or (c) a manifest showing of a failure to consider 24 material facts presented to the Court before the Order was entered.

25 Consistent with this rule, “the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure provide that a 26 motion for reconsideration ‘should not be granted, absent highly unusual circumstances, 27 unless the district court is presented with newly discovered evidence, committed clear 28 error, or if there is an intervening change in the controlling law.’” Zhur v. Neufeld, No.
17-9203, 2018 WL 4191325, *1 (C.D. Cal. Aug. 29, 2018) (citing Fed. R. Civ. P. 59(e));

1 see also Sch. Dist. No. 1J, Multnomah Cnty., Or. v. ACandS, Inc., 5 F.3d 1255, 1263 (9th 2 Cir. 1993).

3 Contrary to Plaintiff's assertion that his First and Fourth Amendment claims were 4 not fully briefed (Br. at 31), the claims were first raised in Plaintiff's Complaint, the 5 Select Committee responded to these claims in their opposition, ECF No. 23-1 at 24-25, 6 and Plaintiff addressed the First and Fourth Amendments claims in his reply, ECF No. 27
7 at 23). Following briefing and oral argument, this Court denied Plaintiff's request for a 8 temporary restraining order or preliminary injunction, specifically rejecting his First and 9 Fourth Amendment claims. See ECF No. 43 at 12-14. For the reasons stated in the 10 Select Committee's opposition and this Court's Order, that ruling was correct.

11 Instead of relying on new evidence or intervening case law, Plaintiff simply 12 reargues the merits, relying on precedents addressed in both the Select Committee's 13 opposition and the Court's Order. With respect to the First Amendment claim, Plaintiff 14 discusses "at some length" the Supreme Court's decision in Watkins v. United States, 354
15 U.S. 178 (1957), a decision that this Court correctly applied in its Order. See Br. at 32;
16 ECF No. 43, at 12. Similarly, in reraising his Fourth Amendment claim, Plaintiff 17 unpersuasively attempts to distinguish two "historic" Supreme Court decisions (cited in 18 his Complaint), on which this Court correctly relied in denying a preliminary injunction.
19 See Compl. ¶¶ 95, 98; ECF No. 43, at 13; Br. at 36 (citing Oklahoma Press Pub. Co. v.
20 Walling, 327 U.S. 186, 209 (1946); McPhaul v. United States, 364 U.S. 372, 382 (1960)).
21 Plaintiff offers no explanation as to how his argument raises "a material difference in fact 22 or law from that presented to the Court" previously or "the emergence of new material 23 facts or a change of law." Local Rule 7-18. It does not.

24 In addition, Plaintiff has not shown that this Court committed clear error. The 25 Court appropriately analyzed the interests at stake in rejecting Plaintiff's First 26 Amendment claim. To determine whether the First Amendment bars the Select 27 Committee's access to information it seeks through a duly-authorized subpoena depends 28 on a balancing of "the competing private and public interests at stake in the particular

1 circumstances shown.” Barenblatt v. United States, 360 U.S. 109, 126 (1959). The 2 Court considered the competing interests at stake and found that “[t]he public interest 3 here is weighty and urgent,” ECF No. 43, at 12, and that Plaintiff identified no “specific 4 associational interest threatened by” or “any particular harm likely to result from” 5 production of the materials sought by the Select Committee. Id. at 12-13.

6 Plaintiff’s brief fails to address the substantial public interest in the Select 7 Committee’s investigation, instead arguing that “the Select Committee’s resolution poses 8 the same First Amendment risks of unrestrained congressional power that the Supreme 9 Court identified in Watkins.” Br. at 34. But, again, Plaintiff has not identified any 10 specific associational interest threatened by production of his Chapman communications 11 or any particular harm likely to result from their production. See ECF No. 43, at 12-13.
12 His vague reference to communications that “reveal much” about third-parties’ 13 “identities, associational choices, political beliefs and other protected First Amendment 14 interests”—and the notion that “having disfavored views on the 2020 election” can be 15 “personally damaging”—is insufficient. Br. at 35-36. The Court’s rejection of Plaintiff’s 16 First Amendment claim was thus unquestionably correct, and Plaintiff provides no 17 persuasive reason for the Court to reconsider it now.

18 The Court also appropriately rejected Plaintiff’s Fourth Amendment claim, finding 19 that the subpoena is not “overbroad or indefinite given its context.” ECF No. 43, at 14.
20 A subpoena is not impermissibly overbroad so as to violate the Fourth Amendment as 21 long as its call for documents or testimony are within the scope of the Congressional 22 inquiry at issue. See McPhaul, 364 U.S. at 382. The requests at issue are well within the 23 scope of the Select Committee’s inquiry. See ECF No. 23-1 at 25. And Plaintiff’s 24 belated attempt to distinguish McPhaul and Oklahoma Press is unavailing. Relying on 25 recent Supreme Court decisions in distinct Fourth Amendment contexts, the most 26 Plaintiff can say is that “if McPhaul and Oklahoma Press were to be decided today they 27 would be likely to come out quite differently.” Br. 36-37. Even if that doubtful 28

1 proposition were correct, Plaintiff does not (and cannot) argue that this Court is free to 2 disregard those Supreme Court rulings.

3 CONCLUSION

4 For the reasons set forth above, Plaintiff's claims of privilege should be rejected, 5 leaving Chapman University free to comply with the House subpoena at issue here as it 6 has stated it wishes to do.
