1 Plaintiff Dr. John Eastman (“Dr. Eastman”), a former law school dean at Chapman
2 University, is a “political conservative who supported former President [Donald] Trump” and a 3 self-described “activist law professor.”<sup>1</sup> While he was a professor at Chapman, Dr. Eastman 4 worked with President Trump and his campaign on legal and political strategy regarding the 5 results of the November 3, 2020 election.

6 This case concerns the House of Representatives Select Committee to Investigate the 7 January 6 Attack on the US Capitol’s (“Select Committee”) attempt to obtain emails sent or 8 received by Dr. Eastman on his Chapman email account between November 3, 2020 and 9 January 20, 2021. The parties disagree on whether the documents are privileged or if they 10 should be disclosed.

11 The Court previously ordered the parties to begin with documents from January 4-7, 12 2021. Dr. Eastman reviewed each document and claimed privilege over some, and the Select 13 Committee objected to a number of his claims. At this point, the parties disagree on whether 14 111 documents from those dates are privileged. The parties submitted briefing, and the Court 15 held a hearing on the privilege claims on March 8, 2022. The Court then personally reviewed 16 the 111 challenged documents, which were provided by Dr. Eastman.

17 I. BACKGROUND

18 A. Facts<sup>2</sup>

19 1. Election fraud claims

20 Dr. Eastman claims that the 2020 presidential election was “one of the most 21 controversial in American history.”<sup>3</sup> Despite the lack of evidence of election tampering, “a 22 significant portion of the population came to believe the election was tainted by fraud, 23 disregard of state election law, misconduct by election officials and other factors.”<sup>4</sup>

24 In the months after the election, President Trump and Dr. Eastman helped foster those 25 <sup>1</sup> Complaint (“Compl.”) (Dkt. 1) ¶¶ 5–6.

26 <sup>2</sup> In this discussion, the Court relies solely on facts provided by Dr. Eastman and the Select Committee in their 27 briefing and attached exhibits. To the extent either party references publicly-available and authenticated 28 memoranda, government reports, and recordings, the Court takes judicial notice of those materials. See Fed. R.
Evid. 201(b).

1 public beliefs and encouraged state legislators to question the election results. Dr. Eastman 2 testified before and met with “state legislators[] to advise them of their constitutional 3 authority . . . to direct the ‘manner’ of choosing presidential electors.”<sup>5</sup> Relying on public
4 interviews with attendees, the Select Committee states that on January 2, 2021, President
5 Trump and Dr. Eastman hosted a briefing urging several hundred state legislators from states
6 won by President Biden to “decertify” electors.<sup>6</sup>

7 President Trump also made personal appeals to state officials. On January 2, he called 8 Georgia Secretary of State Brad Raffensperger to discuss allegations of election fraud.<sup>7</sup> During 9 the call, President Trump repeatedly claimed it was impossible for him to have lost the popular 10 vote in Georgia,<sup>8</sup> and repeatedly mentioned his “current margin [of] only 11,779” votes.<sup>9</sup> He 11 explained to Secretary Raffensperger that he did not care about specific fraud numbers as long 12 as he won, “[b]ecause what’s the difference between winning the election by two votes and 13 winning it by half a million votes[?]”<sup>10</sup> When Secretary Raffensperger pushed back against 14 these requests, the President warned of public anger and threatened criminal consequences.<sup>11</sup>
15 The President interspersed the conversation with specific fraud claims—dead people voting, 16 absentee ballot forgeries, trucks ferrying illegal ballots, and machines stuffed with “unvoted”

1 ballots.<sup>12</sup> Mr. Raffensperger debunked the allegations “point by point” and explained that “the 2 data you have is wrong;” however, President Trump still told him, “I just want to find 11,780 3 votes.”<sup>13</sup>

4 The next day, President Trump attempted to elevate Jeffrey Clark to Acting Attorney
5 General, based on Mr. Clark’s statements that he would write a letter to contested states saying 6 that the election may have been stolen and urging them to decertify electors.<sup>14</sup> The White 7 House Counsel described Mr. Clark’s proposed letter as a “murder-suicide pact” that would 8 “damage everyone who touches it” and commented “we should have nothing to do with that 9 letter.”<sup>15</sup> President Trump eventually did not promote Mr. Clark after multiple high-ranking 10 members of the Department of Justice threatened mass resignations that would leave the 11 Department a “graveyard.”<sup>16</sup>

12 In the months following the election, numerous credible sources—from the President’s 13 inner circle to agency leadership to statisticians—informed President Trump and Dr. Eastman 14 that there was no evidence of election fraud. One week after the election, the Cybersecurity and 15 Infrastructure Security Agency declared “[t]he November 3rd election [] the most secure in 16 American history” and found “no evidence that any voting system deleted or lost votes, 17 changed votes, or was in any way compromised.”<sup>17</sup> An internal Trump Campaign memo
18 concluded in November that fraud claims related to Dominion voting machines were baseless.<sup>18</sup> 19 In early December, Attorney General Barr publicly stated there was no evidence of fraud, and 20 on December 27, Deputy Attorney General Donoghue privately told President Trump that after 21 “dozens of investigations, hundreds of interviews,” the Department of Justice had concluded 22 that “the major allegations [of election fraud] are not supported by the evidence developed.”<sup>19</sup>

1 Still, President Trump repeatedly urged that “the Department [of Justice] should publicly say 2 that the election is corrupt or suspect or not reliable.”<sup>20</sup>

3 By early January, more than sixty court cases alleging fraud had been dismissed for lack 4 of evidence or lack of standing.<sup>21</sup>

5 2. Plan to disrupt electoral count

6 In response to alleged fraud, Dr. Eastman researched and planned a strategy for 7 President Trump to win the election. Just after Christmas, Dr. Eastman wrote a now-public two-8 page memo proposing that Vice President Pence refuse to count certified electoral votes from 9 states contested by the Trump campaign: Arizona, Georgia, Michigan, Nevada, New Mexico, 10 Pennsylvania, and Wisconsin.<sup>22</sup> The memo outlines the two ways in which Dr. Eastman’s plan 11 ensures “President Trump is re-elected.”<sup>23</sup> If Vice President Pence refused to count electoral 12 votes from all seven contested states, President Trump would win 232 votes to 222.<sup>24</sup>
13 Alternatively, if Congress claimed that a candidate could not win without reaching 270 votes, 14 Vice President Pence could send the election to the Republican-majority House of 15 Representatives, which would then elect President Trump.<sup>25</sup> The memo emphasizes that “[t]he 16 main thing here is that Pence should do this without asking for permission – either from a vote
17 of the joint session or from the Court.”<sup>26</sup>

18 On January 3, 2021, Dr. Eastman drafted a six-page memo expanding on his plan and 19 analysis,<sup>27</sup> which he later disclosed to the media.<sup>28</sup> This memo “war gam[ed]” four potential 20 scenarios for January 6, only some of which would lead to President Trump winning re-
21 election.<sup>29</sup> Claiming that “[t]he stakes could not be higher,” Dr. Eastman concludes his memo

2 plan to systematically flout existing election laws for partisan advantage; we’re no longer 3 playing by Queensbury Rules.”<sup>30</sup>

4 On January 4, President Trump and Dr. Eastman invited Vice President Pence, the Vice 5 President’s counsel Greg Jacob, and the Vice President’s Chief of Staff Marc Short to the Oval 6 Office to discuss Dr. Eastman’s memo.<sup>31</sup> Dr. Eastman presented only two courses of action for 7 the Vice President on January 6: to reject electors or delay the count.<sup>32</sup> During that meeting, 8 Vice President Pence consistently held that he did not possess the authority to carry out Dr.
9 Eastman’s proposal.<sup>33</sup>

10 The Vice President’s counsel and chief of staff were then directed to meet separately 11 with Dr. Eastman the next day to review materials in support of his plan. Dr. Eastman opened 12 the meeting on January 5 bluntly: “I’m here asking you to reject the electors.”<sup>34</sup> Vice 13 President’s counsel Greg Jacob and Dr. Eastman spent the majority of the meeting in a Socratic 14 debate on the merits of the memo’s legal arguments.<sup>35</sup> Over the course of their discussion, Dr.
15 Eastman’s focus pivoted from requesting Vice President Pence reject the electors to asking him
16 to delay the count, which he presented as more “palatable.”<sup>36</sup> Ultimately, Dr. Eastman 17 conceded that his argument was contrary to consistent historical practice,<sup>37</sup> would likely be 18 unanimously rejected by the Supreme Court,<sup>38</sup> and violated the Electoral Count Act on four 19 separate grounds.<sup>39</sup>

20 Despite receiving pushback, President Trump and Dr. Eastman continued to urge Vice 21 President Pence to carry out the plan. At 1:00 am on January 6, President Trump tweeted, “If

 3 All Mike Pence has to do is send them back to the States, AND WE WIN. Do it Mike, this is a 4 time for extreme courage!”<sup>41</sup>

5 Following his tweets, President Trump placed two calls to Vice President Pence directly.
 6 After not being able to connect with the Vice President around 9:00 am, they spoke at 7 approximately 11:20 am.<sup>42</sup> Vice President Pence’s National Security Advisor, General Keith 8 Kellogg, Jr., was present and described President Trump as berating the Vice President for “not 9 [being] tough enough to make the call” to delay or reject electoral votes.<sup>43</sup>

10 3. Attack on the Capitol

11 On January 6, 2021, tens of thousands of people gathered outside the White House to 12 protest the lawful transition of power from President Trump to President Joseph Biden. Both 13 Dr. Eastman and President Trump gave speeches to relay the plan not just to the thousands 14 gathered at the Ellipse but also to those watching at home.

15 President Trump’s personal attorney, Rudy Giuliani, introduced Dr. Eastman before he 16 spoke as the “professor” who would “explain . . . what happened last night, how they cheated, 17 and how it was exactly the same as what they did on November 3.”<sup>44</sup> Dr. Eastman declared to 18 the crowd:

19 And all we are demanding of Vice President Pence is this afternoon at 1:00 he let the legislators of the 20 state look into this so we get to the bottom of it, and the American people know whether we have control 21 of the direction of our government, or not. We no longer live in a self-governing republic if we can’t get 22 the answer to this question. This is bigger than President Trump. It is a very essence of our republican form of government, and it has to be done. And anybody that is not willing to stand up to do it, does not deserve to be in the office. It is that simple.<sup>45</sup>

1 President Trump then took the podium. He began with praise for Dr. Eastman and his 2 plan to have Vice President Pence disrupt the count:

3 Thank you very much, John. . . . John is one of the most brilliant lawyers in the country, and he looked at 4 this and he said, “What an absolute disgrace that this can be happening to our Constitution.” . . . Because 5 if Mike Pence does the right thing, we win the election. All he has to do, all this is, this is from the 6 number one, or certainly one of the top, Constitutional lawyers in our country. He has the absolute right 7 to do it.<sup>46</sup>

8 Before the Joint Session of Congress began, Vice President Pence publicly rejected 9 President Trump and Dr. Eastman’s plan: “It is my considered judgment that my oath to 10 support and defend the Constitution constrains me from claiming unilateral authority to 11 determine which electoral votes should be counted and which should not.”<sup>47</sup>

12 At 1:00 pm, members of Congress began the Joint Session as required by the Twelfth 13 Amendment and the Electoral Count Act.

14 Soon after, President Trump finished his speech by urging his supporters to walk with 15 him to the Capitol:

16 Now, it is up to Congress to confront this egregious assault on our democracy. And after this, we’re 17 going to walk down, and I’ll be there with you, we’re going to walk down, we’re going to walk
18 down. . . . [W]e’re going to try and give our Republicans, the weak ones because the strong ones don’t 19 need any of our help. We’re going to try and give them the kind of pride and boldness that they need to 20 take back our country. So let’s walk down Pennsylvania Avenue.<sup>48</sup>

21 After President Trump’s speech, several hundred protesters left the rally and stormed the 22 Capitol building. As the D.C. Circuit described it:

23 Shortly after the speech, a large crowd of President Trump’s supporters—including some armed with 24 weapons and wearing full tactical gear—marched to the Capitol and violently broke into the building to 25 try and prevent Congress’s certification of the election results. The mob quickly overwhelmed law 26 enforcement and scaled walls, smashed through barricades, and shattered windows to gain access to the 27 interior of the Capitol. Police officers were attacked with chemical agents, beaten with flag poles and 28 frozen water bottles, and crushed between doors and throngs of rioters.<sup>49</sup>

1 President Trump returned to the White House after his speech. At 2:02 pm, Mark 2 Meadows, the White House Chief of Staff, was informed about the violence unfolding at the 3 Capitol.<sup>50</sup> Mr. Meadows immediately went to relay that message to President Trump.<sup>51</sup> Even as 4 the rioters continued to break into the Capitol, President Trump tweeted at 2:24 pm: “Mike 5 Pence didn’t have the courage to do what should have been done to protect our Country and our 6 Constitution, giving States a chance to certify a corrected set of facts, not the fraudulent or 7 inaccurate ones which they were asked to previously certify. USA demands the truth!”<sup>52</sup>

8 During the riot, Vice President Pence, Members of Congress, and workers across the 9 Capitol were forced to flee for safety.<sup>53</sup> Seeking shelter during the attack, Vice President
10 Pence’s counsel Greg Jacob emailed Dr. Eastman that the rioters “believed with all their hearts 11 the theory they were sold about the powers that could legitimately be exercised at the Capitol
12 on this day.”<sup>54</sup> Mr. Jacob continued, “[a]nd thanks to your bullshit, we are now under siege.”<sup>55</sup>

13 President Trump later published a video expressing support for the rioters but urging 14 them to leave the Capitol: “We love you, you’re very special. You’ve seen what happens, you 15 see the way others are treated that are so bad and so evil. I know how you feel.”<sup>56</sup> At 6:00 pm, 16 President Trump reiterated: “These are the things and events that happen when a sacred 17 landslide election victory is so unceremoniously & viciously stripped away from great patriots 18 who have been badly & unfairly treated for so long. Go home with love & in peace. Remember 19 this day forever!”<sup>57</sup>

20 As the attack progressed, Dr. Eastman continued to urge Vice President Pence to 21 reconsider his decision not to delay the count. In an email to Vice President Pence’s counsel 22 Greg Jacob at 2:25 pm on January 6, Dr. Eastman wrote: “The ‘siege’ is because YOU and

3 Committee and asserted his Fifth Amendment privilege against production.<sup>67</sup> During his 4 deposition, Dr. Eastman asserted his Fifth Amendment privilege 146 times.<sup>68</sup>

5 The Select Committee subsequently issued a subpoena to obtain Dr. Eastman’s 6 communications from his former employer, Chapman University on January 18, 2022. The 7 subpoena ordered Chapman to produce Dr. Eastman’s documents stored on Chapman’s servers 8 “that are related in any way to the 2020 election or the January 6, 2021 Joint Session of 9 Congress, . . . during the time period November 3, 2020 to January 20, 2021.”<sup>69</sup> Chapman 10 initially collected over 30,000 responsive documents. The Select Committee then worked with 11 Chapman to tailor search terms, resulting in just under 19,000 responsive documents.

12 B. Procedural History

13 Dr. Eastman filed his Complaint in this Court on January 20, 2022, and immediately 14 filed an Application for a Temporary Restraining Order to prevent Chapman University from 15 complying with the Select Committee’s subpoena. On the same day, the Court granted a 16 temporary restraining order (Dkt. 12). After briefing from the parties and a hearing, the Court 17 denied Dr. Eastman’s application for a preliminary injunction (Dkt. 41). The Court ordered Dr.
18 Eastman to begin reviewing the documents and producing a privilege log to the Court and the 19 Select Committee (Dkt. 43).

20 On January 31, 2022, given the urgency of the investigation and the lack of prejudice to 21 Dr. Eastman, the Court granted the Select Committee’s request and ordered Dr. Eastman to 22 begin his production with documents dated between January 4 and January 7, 2021 (Dkt. 63).
23 On February 14, 2022, the Court set a briefing and hearing schedule as to the January 4-7 24 documents (Dkt. 104).

25 On February 22, 2022, Dr. Eastman filed his brief supporting his privilege assertions

4 II. LEGAL STANDARD

5 Federal common law governs the attorney-client privilege when courts adjudicate issues 6 of federal law.<sup>70</sup> “As with all evidentiary privileges, the burden of proving that the attorney-7 client privilege applies rests not with the party contesting the privilege, but with the party 8 asserting it.”<sup>71</sup> The “party asserting the attorney-client privilege has the burden of establishing 9 the relationship and the privileged nature of the communication.”<sup>72</sup> The party must assert the 10 privilege “as to each record sought to allow the court to rule with specificity.”<sup>73</sup> It is “extremely 11 disfavored” when a “subpoena [i]s met by blanket assertions of privilege.”<sup>74</sup> “Because it 12 impedes full and free discovery of the truth, the attorney-client privilege is strictly construed.”<sup>75</sup>
13 The same burden applies to the party asserting work product protection.<sup>76</sup>

14 III. DISCUSSION

15 The Court will first consider Dr. Eastman’s assertions of attorney-client privilege, then 16 his assertions of work product protection. For each category, the Court will examine whether 17 the privilege attached in the first place, whether it was waived, and whether an exception 18 applies.

19 A. Attorney-Client Privilege

20 The attorney-client privilege protects confidential communications between attorneys 21 and clients for the purpose of legal advice.<sup>77</sup> The privilege “is intended ‘to encourage clients to 22 make full disclosure to their attorneys,’” recognizing that sound advice depends on 23 transparency.<sup>78</sup>

1 Whether a communication or document is covered by the attorney-client privilege is 2 determined by an eight-part test:

3 (1) Where legal advice of any kind is sought (2) from a professional legal adviser in his capacity as such,
4 (3) the communications relating to that purpose, (4) made in confidence (5) by the client, (6) are at his 5 instance permanently protected (7) from disclosure by himself or by the legal adviser, (8) unless the 6 protection be waived.<sup>79</sup>

6 “The party asserting the privilege bears the burden of proving each essential element.”<sup>80</sup>

7 Dr. Eastman claims attorney-client privilege over nine out of the total 111 documents.<sup>81</sup>
8 The Court now examines whether an attorney-client relationship existed between President 9 Trump and Dr. Eastman; whether Dr. Eastman’s use of Chapman University email destroyed or 10 waived confidentiality; and whether the emails were between an attorney, client, or their agents.

11 1. Existence of attorney-client relationship

12 The Select Committee argues that Dr. Eastman has not met his burden of proving that an 13 attorney-client relationship existed between him and President Trump.<sup>82</sup> An attorney-client 14 relationship is formed when an attorney advises a client who has consulted him seeking legal 15 assistance.<sup>83</sup> Attorney-client relationships may be express or implied.<sup>84</sup> Among other factors, 16 courts consider “the intent and conduct of the parties”<sup>85</sup> and “whether the client believed an 17 attorney-client relationship existed.”<sup>86</sup>

18 In response to the Court’s request for evidence of an attorney-client relationship, Dr.
19 Eastman provided only an unsigned, undated retainer agreement between him, President Trump 20 as candidate, and President Trump’s campaign committee.<sup>87</sup> However, strong evidence 21 establishes that Dr. Eastman had an attorney-client relationship with President Trump and his 22 campaign between January 4 and 6, 2021. Dr. Eastman appeared on behalf of President Trump

1 in a Georgia lawsuit on January 5, 2021.<sup>88</sup> In the days leading up to January 6, Dr. Eastman
2 also attended closed-door meetings with and on behalf of President Trump to present his legal 3 theories on the Electoral Count Act. The Vice President’s counsel, who attended those 4 meetings, “assumed it to be true for the purposes of [his] interactions with him” that Dr.
5 Eastman was representing President Trump.<sup>89</sup> President Trump’s speech explicitly 6 acknowledged Dr. Eastman’s legal role in developing the plan to delay or stop the count: “John 7 is one of the most brilliant lawyers in the country, and he looked at this and he said, ‘What an 8 absolute disgrace that this can be happening to our Constitution.’”<sup>90</sup> And on May 5, 2021, Dr.
9 Eastman stated on a talk show that President Trump was his client in the aftermath of the 10 election.<sup>91</sup> The evidence clearly supports an attorney-client relationship between President 11 Trump, his campaign, and Dr. Eastman during January 4-7, 2021.

12 2. Chapman University email use

13 Communications between an attorney and a client are only privileged if they are 14 intended to be kept confidential and are not disclosed.<sup>92</sup> Dr. Eastman used his Chapman
15 University email to communicate with legal clients that he represented outside of his university 16 activities. The Select Committee argues that Dr. Eastman’s use of his Chapman email prevents 17 all of his communications from being privileged given the university’s monitoring policies.<sup>93</sup>
18 Although the Select Committee argued at the hearing that use of Chapman email destroys 19 privilege for all 111 documents, their confidentiality argument is only relevant to attorney-20 client privilege and therefore applies only to nine documents.<sup>94</sup> The Court examines how using 21 Chapman email affects the other documents when it reaches work product protection below.<sup>95</sup>

<sup>94</sup> Unlike in the attorney-client privilege context, “the overriding concern in the work-product context is not the confidentiality of a communication, but the protection of the adversary process.” United States v. Sanmina Corp., 968 F.3d 1107, 1124 (9th Cir. 2020).

1 The Court notes that this is not a question of whether an employee can use a work
2 computer for purely personal use. The questions here are whether to penalize clients of law 3 professors for not understanding university email policies, and how professors should navigate 4 mixed signals about what legal work is allowed as part of their academic jobs.

5 Accordingly, the Court analyzes below whether Dr. Eastman’s clients expected their 6 emails to be confidential, discusses Chapman’s email rules, and considers public policy 7 concerns. The Court finds that using Chapman email did not destroy attorney-client privilege.

8 a. Client expectations of confidentiality

9 The Select Committee’s argument rests on Dr. Eastman lacking a reasonable expectation 10 of confidentiality in his emails. Dr. Eastman argues that he and his clients reasonably expected 11 privacy, particularly since representing clients was part of his duties as a professor.<sup>96</sup>

12 Although the Ninth Circuit has not explicitly ruled on the issue, the majority of other 13 circuits consider “whether the client reasonably understood the [conversation] to be 14 confidential” in determining whether communications are privileged.<sup>97</sup> Determining the client’s 15 intent hinges on the circumstances of the communication, such as whether disclosure to third 16 parties was intended or considered.<sup>98</sup>

17 Here, Dr. Eastman represented clients while employed as a law professor at Chapman 18 University, and he used his official university email to communicate with those clients. When 19 President Trump and members of his campaign referenced Dr. Eastman in public, they 20 frequently highlighted his position as a law professor.<sup>99</sup> Since Dr. Eastman’s work for President 21 Trump was tied to his position as a “preeminent constitutional scholar[,]” it would be logical

1 for his clients to communicate with him through his university email.<sup>100</sup> Moreover, it is clear 2 from reviewing the emails that Dr. Eastman’s correspondents believed they were using an 3 appropriate email address to discuss confidential legal matters.<sup>101</sup> In these circumstances, 4 clients and their agents who communicated with Dr. Eastman on his Chapman University email 5 address had a reasonable expectation of privacy in their communications.

6 b. Potentially unauthorized use of Chapman email

7 Chapman University argues that Dr. Eastman’s representation of President Trump was 8 unauthorized based on Chapman’s policies and IRS rules,<sup>102</sup> which the Select Committee 9 argues waives any privilege.<sup>103</sup>

10 Although there are no Ninth Circuit cases addressing this kind of attorney waiver, courts 11 in other jurisdictions have analyzed a client’s use of monitored employer email. The Court will 12 follow those other district courts in considering four factors:

- 13 (1) does the corporation maintain a policy banning personal or other objectionable use, 14 (2) does the company monitor the use of the employee’s computer or e-mail, 15 (3) do third parties have a right of access to the computer or e-mails, and 16 (4) did the corporation notify the employee, or was the employee aware, of the use and monitoring 17 policies?<sup>104</sup>

18 First, Chapman University maintains a policy banning some objectionable uses of 19 university email. Its policy states in pertinent part:

20 Except as authorized, in writing or by e-mail, by the University, users are not to use Chapman 21 Information Resources for compensated outside work, the benefit of organizations not related to the 22 University (except in connection with scholarly, creative or community service activities), or commercial 23 or personal advertising.<sup>105</sup>

24 The policy does not clearly apply to Dr. Eastman’s work for President Trump, as it was 25 uncompensated<sup>106</sup> and Dr. Eastman contends that it was “in connection with scholarly 26

1 [activities]” given his election law focus. In fact, Dr. Eastman’s prior work on the 2000 election
2 was considered “scholarly” by Chapman’s Rank and Tenure Committee, which noted Dr.
3 Eastman’s “status as one of a very few law professors viewed as expert in the area of election
4 law.”<sup>107</sup> The Tenure Committee further stated that “[i]t was in the Law School’s interest that 5 Professor Eastman pursue this opportunity to the fullest.”<sup>108</sup>

6 Moreover, Chapman blurred the lines between authorized and unauthorized work in 7 practice. Dr. Eastman describes a 2020 meeting with the then-Dean of Chapman’s law school
8 about a proposed post-election filing on behalf of President Trump.<sup>109</sup> According to Dr.
9 Eastman, the Dean requested that he remove the “c/o Chapman University” line from his 10 signature block on the brief, but did not ask him to remove Chapman’s address or Dr.
11 Eastman’s university email or phone number.<sup>110</sup> Critically, the Dean did not express any 12 concerns about Dr. Eastman filing the brief on behalf of President Trump or using Chapman 13 email for his representation, and did not raise any of the claims of unauthorized use that 14 Chapman now asserts in this case.

15 IRS rules prohibit faculty from using university resources to support political 16 candidates,<sup>111</sup> which Chapman’s President publicly reiterated in the context of Dr. Eastman’s 17 work on December 10, 2020.<sup>112</sup> But as Dr. Eastman notes, the IRS prohibits “[c]ontributions to 18 political campaign funds or public statements . . . in favor of or in opposition to any candidate
19 for public office,” but does not mention post-election litigation for campaigns.<sup>113</sup> Chapman’s 20 endorsement of Dr. Eastman’s 2000 post-election litigation and the lack of IRS enforcement 21 against other law professors representing candidates in post-election litigation<sup>114</sup> suggest that

1 Dr. Eastman’s work on behalf of President Trump was not in violation of IRS rules.

2 With respect to the second factor, Chapman’s Computer and Network Acceptable Use 3 Policy allows the university to monitor emails:

4 Although Chapman University does not make a practice of monitoring e-mail, the University reserves
5 the right to retrieve the contents of University-owned computers or e-mail messages for legitimate 6 reasons, such as to find lost messages, to comply with investigations of wrongful acts, to respond to 7 subpoenas, or to recover from system failure.<sup>115</sup>

8 The policy is explicit that monitoring is not “a practice” of the university, though some courts 9 have found that policies allowing monitoring, even if not used, reduce any expectation of 10 privacy.<sup>116</sup> Despite the policy, Dr. Eastman’s subjective expectation of confidentiality was 11 enhanced by his private password, which Chapman administrators could not access.<sup>117</sup>

12 The third factor favors an expectation of privacy, as third parties do not have a right to 13 access Chapman emails. The policy states that the university will comply with lawful orders, 14 but is otherwise silent about third party access.

15 In terms of the fourth factor, Chapman notes that when users log into the system, they 16 are presented with a message that states in relevant part:

17 Use of this computer system constitutes your consent that your activities on, or information you store in,
18 any part of the system is subject to monitoring and recording by Chapman University or its agents, 19 consistent with the Computer and Network Acceptable Use Policy without further notice. You are 20 responsible for being familiar with the University policies related to the use of this computer system.<sup>118</sup>

21 However, Dr. Eastman states that he accessed his email through his laptop and that he has no 22 recollection of ever seeing that message appear.<sup>119</sup> And although the Select Committee argues 23 that Dr. Eastman was aware of Chapman’s policies due to his decades as a law professor and 24 dean of the law school, it does not specify when the current policy was enacted.<sup>120</sup>

25 The above factors are not conclusive here and reveal substantial ambiguity in the 1 boundaries of Dr. Eastman’s legal work at Chapman.

2 c. Public policy considerations

3 The Court notes the public policy implications of a finding that Dr. Eastman waived all 4 attorney-client privilege through his use of Chapman email. Chapman states in its summary of 5 its computer use policy that “[u]sers should not expect privacy in the contents of University-6 owned computers or e-mail messages.”<sup>121</sup> But at the hearing, Chapman confirmed that its 7 clinical professors continue to use university email for client communications, and that 8 Chapman has taken no steps to clarify its policies after raising concerns in this case. Although 9 Chapman appears to be in the minority of American colleges and universities with a policy this 10 unprotective of privacy,<sup>122</sup> the Court is concerned about the broader ramifications for professors 11 and their clients. Law professors across the country use their university email accounts to 12 communicate with clients, and reasonably expect privacy for those emails as part of their jobs.
13 More importantly, clients of law school clinics should not be expected to research that 14 particular university’s email policies before feeling secure in emailing their attorneys.

15 Given that confidentiality and waiver analysis are ordinarily focused on the client, and 16 considering the unique circumstances of clinical legal work, the Court finds that Dr. Eastman’s 17 use of Chapman’s email account did not destroy attorney-client privilege.

18 3. Communications between attorney and client

19 The purpose of the attorney-client privilege is to empower clients to speak freely and 20 candidly to their attorneys.<sup>123</sup> As such, the privilege protects communications made between an 21 attorney and their client. Given the realities of modern legal practice, the privilege also extends 22 to communications with third parties “who have been engaged to assist the attorney in 23 providing legal advice” and those “acting as agent[s]” of the client.<sup>124</sup>

1 Dr. Eastman claims attorney-client privilege over only nine documents: five emails<sup>125</sup>
2 and four attachments.<sup>126</sup> None of these documents includes Dr. Eastman’s client, President 3 Trump, as a sender or recipient of the email. Instead, all emails are sent from a third party to 4 Dr. Eastman, and two of the emails blind copy (bcc) a close advisor to President Trump.<sup>127</sup>

5 Despite having filed nearly a hundred pages of briefing, Dr. Eastman does not mention 6 this third-party email sender anywhere in his briefs; the person is named only in his privilege
7 log entries. Dr. Eastman’s description in the privilege log is conclusory, describing the sender 8 merely as his “co-counsel.”<sup>128</sup> Dr. Eastman failed to provide retainer agreements or a sworn 9 declaration that would prove this third party was an attorney or agent for President Trump. The 10 Court also cannot infer the third party’s affiliation with President Trump from his email, which 11 is a generic, non-@donaldtrump.com email address. Dr. Eastman has not met his burden to 12 show that these communications were with an agent of President Trump or the Trump 13 campaign, and as such, these documents do not warrant the protection of the attorney-client 14 privilege. However, Dr. Eastman also claims work product protection over these nine 15 documents, so the Court analyzes them in the next section.

16 B. Work Product

17 Dr. Eastman claims that all 111 documents, including the nine documents over which he 18 claims attorney-client privilege, are protected work product. The work-product doctrine 19 “protect[s] from discovery documents and tangible things prepared by a party or his 20 representative in anticipation of litigation.”<sup>129</sup>

21 To begin, the Court excludes ten of the 111 documents because they are entirely non-22 substantive.<sup>130</sup> Seven of these documents are only images of logos attached to email signatures, 23 including Facebook, LinkedIn, and Twitter.<sup>131</sup> One document is a blank page<sup>132</sup> and two are

1 blank emails.<sup>133</sup> These ten documents do not contain any information protected by the work
2 product doctrine and the Court ORDERS that they must be disclosed.<sup>134</sup>

3 The Court now considers whether the remaining 101 documents constituted protected 4 work product to begin with; whether the privilege was waived; and whether an exception 5 applies.

6 1. Whether the remaining documents qualify for protection

7 After removing ten non-substantive documents, the Court is left with 101 documents to 8 analyze under the work product doctrine. For documents to be protected work product, they 9 must (1) “be ‘prepared in anticipation of litigation or for trial,’” and (2) “be prepared ‘by or for 10 another party or by or for that other party’s representative.’”<sup>135</sup> The Court considers each 11 requirement in turn.

12 a. Anticipation of litigation

13 In this section, the Court analyzes eighty-seven of the remaining 101 documents, all of 14 which present a question about whether they were prepared in anticipation of litigation. The 15 other fourteen documents<sup>136</sup> were obviously prepared for litigation, so the Court leaves those 16 for later discussion.<sup>137</sup>

17 Documents qualify for work product protection if they were “prepared in anticipation of 18 litigation or for trial.”<sup>138</sup> However, some litigation documents are also prepared for a second, 19 non-litigation purpose. Courts protect such “dual purpose” documents when they pass the 20 “because of” test: whether “it can fairly be said that the ‘document was created because of 21 anticipated litigation, and would not have been created in substantially similar form but for the 22 prospect of that litigation.”<sup>139</sup> It does not matter “whether litigation was a primary or

1 secondary motive behind the creation of a document;”<sup>140</sup> instead, courts consider the totality of 2 the circumstances surrounding the document’s creation.<sup>141</sup>

3 The Court groups its analysis of the eighty-seven documents as relating to the Electoral 4 Count Act plan; state elections; documents prepared for Congress; connecting third parties; and 5 news sources.

6 i. Electoral Count Act plan

7 This section deals with twenty-two of the eighty-seven documents, which relate to Dr.
8 Eastman’s proposal for Vice President Pence to reject or delay counting electoral votes.<sup>142</sup> The 9 Court’s determination of whether these twenty-two documents were created in anticipation of 10 litigation is contextualized by Dr. Eastman’s memo, which outlined the plan to disrupt the Joint 11 Session of Congress.

12 The plan proposed by Dr. Eastman’s memo involve actions by the Vice President 13 without recourse to the courts. The memo states explicitly: “[t]he main thing here is that Pence 14 should do this without asking for permission—either from a vote of the joint session or from 15 the Court.”<sup>143</sup> Dr. Eastman only acknowledged the potential for litigation dismissively, 16 mocking the idea of opponents challenging him in court.<sup>144</sup> Litigation was never Dr. Eastman’s 17 motivation for planning the events of January 6, perhaps because, as he conceded, his legal 18 theories would be rejected “9-0” by the Supreme Court.<sup>145</sup> The Court’s review of the twenty-19 two documents shows they are consistent with the memo’s plan to proceed without judicial 20 involvement.

21 Sixteen of the twenty-two documents discuss, forward, or request academic articles 28 that mere “awareness that litigation may have been a likely prospect” is insufficient for work product protection).

1 interpreting the Electoral Count Act or the Twelfth Amendment.<sup>146</sup> The articles themselves
2 were clearly not created for litigation: they were written and published by independent authors
3 more than a decade ago. The email chains discussing the articles do not reveal litigation 4 strategy or consider how the articles' analyses would affect litigation. Instead, the emails at 5 most discuss how they could be read to support Dr. Eastman's interpretation of the Electoral 6 Count Act or the Twelfth Amendment. On these facts, these sixteen documents are not 7 protected work product.

8 In addition, five of the twenty-two documents discuss actions to advance the Electoral 9 Count Act plan.<sup>147</sup> In one of those, Dr. Eastman explains arguments for his plan that he had 10 previously sent to Vice President Pence's counsel, and does not reference litigation.<sup>148</sup> In 11 another email thread, Dr. Eastman's colleagues discuss whether to publish a piece supporting 12 his plan, and they touch on state lawsuits only to criticize how they are being handled by the 13 Trump campaign.<sup>149</sup> In a different email thread, Dr. Eastman and a colleague consider how to 14 use a state court ruling to justify Vice President Pence enacting the plan.<sup>150</sup> In another email, a 15 colleague focuses on the "plan of action" after the January 6 attacks, not mentioning future
16 litigation.<sup>151</sup> Even if the authors of these five documents anticipated litigation, its prospect 17 certainly did not "animate every document [they] prepared."<sup>152</sup> The true animating force behind 18 these emails was advancing a political strategy: to persuade Vice President Pence to take 19 unilateral action on January 6. Moreover, nothing about the form of these documents is tailored 20 to the prospect of litigation. Because these five documents were not created in anticipation of 21 litigation, Dr. Eastman must disclose them to the Select Committee.

22 One of the twenty-two documents relating to the Electoral Count Act plan presents a 23 much closer question on anticipation of litigation. In this email, a colleague forwards to Dr.

1 Eastman a memo they wrote for one of President Trump’s attorneys.<sup>153</sup> The memo sketches a 2 series of events for the days leading up to and following January 6, if Vice President Pence 3 were to delay counting or reject electoral votes. The memo clearly contemplates and plans for 4 litigation: it maps out potential Supreme Court suits and the impact of different judicial 5 outcomes. While this memo was created for both political and litigation purposes, it 6 substantively engages with potential litigation and its consequences for President Trump. The 7 memo likely would have been written substantially differently had the author not expected 8 litigation. The Court therefore finds that this document was created in anticipation of litigation.

9 Accordingly, the Court finds that twenty-one of the twenty-two documents were not 10 made in anticipation of litigation and thus ORDERS them to be disclosed to the Select 11 Committee.

12 ii. State election-related documents

13 This section pertains to nineteen of the eighty-seven documents, all of which discuss or 14 analyze alleged election fraud at the state level.<sup>154</sup>

15 First, eight of the nineteen documents forward or discuss communications from state 16 legislators about alleged fraud in the 2020 election.<sup>155</sup> Two of those are resolutions by state 17 legislatures regarding election fraud;<sup>156</sup> one is a letter from the Republican members of the 18 Arizona Legislature to Vice President Pence;<sup>157</sup> and two are letters from a Georgia state senator
19 to President Trump.<sup>158</sup> These documents do not reference litigation and are explicitly intended 20 to express the opinions of the legislature or seek assistance from federal officials. Similarly, the 21 four emails discussing these documents offer no litigation analysis. As such, these eight 22 documents are not protected work product and must be disclosed to the Select Committee.

23 In addition, eleven of the nineteen documents relate to concerns about election fraud.<sup>159</sup>

1 Eight of those contain or discuss technical analyses of alleged fraud, including five noting
2 voting machine weaknesses that could lead to fraudulent results.<sup>160</sup> Although Dr. Eastman’s 3 privilege log describes some of these documents as “comm with counsel and expert re fact 4 evidence,” he does not specify any particular litigation.<sup>161</sup> Moreover, the technical analyses 5 make no mention of any potential action based on their findings, and the email discussions do 6 not engage with the findings of the reports or specify any litigation uses for them. Three of 7 those eleven documents discuss general concerns about election fraud, such as fears about 8 voting machines<sup>162</sup> and publicizing potential new evidence.<sup>163</sup> In general, Dr. Eastman used 9 evidence of alleged election fraud for two purposes: to support state litigation and to persuade 10 legislators and Vice President Pence to act. Despite those possible dual purposes, these emails 11 do not suggest that Dr. Eastman used them for litigation, make no mention of litigation, and 12 would have had the same form without the prospect of litigation.

13 On this record, Dr. Eastman has not met his burden of demonstrating that these nineteen 14 documents were created in anticipation of litigation, and therefore the Court ORDERS them to 15 be disclosed.

16 iii. Documents for Congress

17 This section discusses seventeen of the eighty-seven documents, each of which specify 18 that it was created for distribution to Congress.<sup>164</sup> Two of those state, “[p]lease pass this 19 onto . . . federal legislators;”<sup>165</sup> or note “[t]his . . . has been circulated to Members.”<sup>166</sup> Eight 20 documents are an email chain between Dr. Eastman and colleagues creating a memo of Article 21 II violations “for [C]ongress.”<sup>167</sup> And seven emails name specific senators as the intended 22 recipients of the attached documents.<sup>168</sup> These communications were prepared for members of

1 Congress and do not reference litigation strategy or concerns. The Court finds that those 2 documents were not prepared in anticipation of litigation, but rather were created to persuade 3 federal legislators to take action.<sup>169</sup>

4 Accordingly, these seventeen documents are not protected work product, and the Court
5 ORDERS them to be disclosed to the Select Committee.

6 iv. Connecting third parties

7 This section discusses twenty of the eighty-seven documents, all of which connect third 8 parties.<sup>170</sup> Seven of those documents provide or request contact information for President 9 Trump, Dr. Eastman, and third parties.<sup>171</sup> Thirteen documents are communications with third 10 parties volunteering to help Dr. Eastman, sending resumes, or offering suggestions for 11 President Trump.<sup>172</sup> None of these documents relate to or implicate litigation. Although Dr.
12 Eastman claims that some of the emails are regarding “fact development,”<sup>173</sup> they are 13 predominantly administrative. The emails do not discuss how these third parties could 14 contribute to any potential litigation; in fact, some are unsolicited introductions or requests<sup>174</sup> 15 rather than coordinated discussions between experts or advisors.

16 Accordingly, these twenty documents are not protected by the work product doctrine, 17 and the Court ORDERS them to be disclosed.

18 v. News articles and press releases

7 that they must be disclosed.

8 b. Preparation by or for the client's representative

9 The Court next considers the fourteen of the 101 documents that it has not yet discussed 10 because they were clearly prepared in anticipation of litigation, as well as the one document it 11 concluded above was prepared in anticipation of litigation.<sup>179</sup> The Court now examines those 12 fifteen documents to confirm whether they were created by or for a protected party.

13 The work product doctrine protects materials prepared “by or for another party or by or 14 for that other party’s representative (including the other party’s attorney, consultant, surety, 15 indemnitor, insurer, or agent).”<sup>180</sup> Accordingly, documents are protected if they were prepared
16 by or for President Trump or his campaign, or by or for Dr. Eastman or another representative 17 of President Trump.

18 The Court finds that thirteen of these fifteen documents qualify as protected.<sup>181</sup> Eight of 19 those were sent by Dr. Eastman, sent directly to Dr. Eastman, or had Dr. Eastman copied on the 20 email.<sup>182</sup> Five documents were created by or for agents of President Trump or his campaign, 21 including attorneys of record in state cases and President Trump’s personal attorney.<sup>183</sup> These 22 documents were later forwarded to Dr. Eastman. Because these thirteen documents were sections of 5114. See note 150.

2 However, two of the fifteen documents are orders issued by a court in a state
3 proceeding.<sup>184</sup> As such, these two documents were not created by or for an agent of President 4 Trump or his campaign, and the Court ORDERS them to be disclosed.

5 2. Waiver of protection

6 The Court now considers whether Dr. Eastman waived his privilege over any of the 7 thirteen remaining documents that the Court concluded above were protected work product.<sup>185</sup>

8 Unlike attorney-client privilege, which is waived if not kept completely confidential, 9 work product protection is only waived when attorneys disclose their work to “an adversary or 10 a conduit to an adversary in litigation.”<sup>186</sup> The Ninth Circuit makes two inquiries to assess 11 whether disclosure to “a conduit to an adversary” constitutes waiver: whether the party 12 selectively disclosed materials, and whether the party reasonably believed that the recipient 13 would keep the disclosed documents confidential.<sup>187</sup>

14 The Select Committee previously argued that Dr. Eastman’s use of Chapman email 15 constituted waiver because he knew that his documents could be accessed by Chapman
16 University, which it claims was a conduit to an adversary by virtue of its “policy to disclose 17 emails in response to subpoenas.”<sup>188</sup> However, courts consider whether the party reasonably 18 believed that the recipient would keep the disclosed documents confidential,<sup>189</sup> and as discussed 19 above Dr. Eastman had a reasonable expectation of confidentiality in his emails.<sup>190</sup> Holding 20 otherwise would result in the sweeping proposition that using any email provider that complies 21 with subpoenas waives work product protection.<sup>191</sup>

1           However, the Court finds work product protection was waived for two documents that 2 are now public: a court filing<sup>192</sup> and a memo disclosed to the news media.<sup>193</sup> Making work
3 product public is the epitome of sharing with an adversary, thus waiving protection.<sup>194</sup> Because 4 these two documents are public, Dr. Eastman may not assert the privilege, and the Court 5 ORDERS them to be disclosed.

6                           3.     Crime-fraud exception

7           Based on the Court’s previous analysis, there are eleven remaining protected 8 documents.<sup>195</sup> The Court now considers whether any of those documents should be disclosed
9 based on the crime-fraud exception, as the Select Committee argues.<sup>196</sup>

10           The crime-fraud exception applies when (1) a “client consults an attorney for advice that 11 will serve [them] in the commission of a fraud or crime,”<sup>197</sup> and (2) the communications are 12 “sufficiently related to” and were made “in furtherance of” the crime.<sup>198</sup> It is irrelevant whether 13 the attorney was aware of the illegal purpose<sup>199</sup> or whether the scheme was ultimately 14 successful.<sup>200</sup> The exception extinguishes both the attorney-client privilege and the work
15 product doctrine.<sup>201</sup> The party seeking disclosure must prove the crime-fraud exception applies 16 by a preponderance of the evidence,<sup>202</sup> meaning “the relevant facts must be shown to be more

1 likely true than not.”<sup>203</sup>

2 The Court first analyzes whether President Trump and Dr. Eastman likely committed 3 any of the crimes alleged by the Select Committee, and then whether the eleven remaining 4 documents relate to and further those crimes.

5 a. Potential crimes or fraud

6 The Select Committee alleges that the crime-fraud exception applies based on three 7 offenses:

8 (1) President Trump attempted to obstruct “Congress’s proceeding to count the 9 electoral votes on January 6,” in violation of 18 U.S.C. § 1512(c)(2);<sup>204</sup>

10 (2) “President Trump, Plaintiff [Dr. Eastman], and several others entered into an 11 agreement to defraud the United States by interfering with the election 12 certification process,” in violation of 18 U.S.C. § 371;<sup>205</sup> and 13 (3) “President [Trump] and members of his Campaign engaged in common law fraud 14 in connection with their efforts to overturn the 2020 election results.”<sup>206</sup>

15 The Court will now determine whether President Trump and Dr. Eastman likely committed 16 these offenses.

17 i. Obstruction of an official proceeding

18 The Select Committee alleges that President Trump violated 18 U.S.C. § 1512(c)(2), 19 which criminalizes obstruction or attempted obstruction of an official proceeding.<sup>207</sup> It requires 20 three elements: (1) the person obstructed, influenced or impeded, or attempted to obstruct, 21 influence or impede (2) an official proceeding of the United States, and (3) did so corruptly.

22 Attempts to obstruct

23 Section 1512(c)(2) requires that the obstructive conduct have a “nexus . . . to a specific 24 official proceeding” that was “either pending or was reasonably foreseeable to [the person]

1 when he engaged in the conduct.”<sup>208</sup> President Trump attempted to obstruct an official 2 proceeding by launching a pressure campaign to convince Vice President Pence to disrupt the 3 Joint Session on January 6.

4 President Trump facilitated two meetings in the days before January 6 that were 5 explicitly tied to persuading Vice President Pence to disrupt the Joint Session of Congress. On 6 January 4, President Trump and Dr. Eastman hosted a meeting in the Oval Office with Vice 7 President Pence, the Vice President’s counsel Greg Jacob, and the Vice President’s Chief of 8 Staff Marc Short.<sup>209</sup> At that meeting, Dr. Eastman presented his plan to Vice President Pence, 9 focusing on either rejecting electors or delaying the count.<sup>210</sup> When Vice President Pence was 10 unpersuaded, President Trump sent Dr. Eastman to review the plan in depth with the Vice 11 President’s counsel on January 5.<sup>211</sup> Vice President Pence’s counsel interpreted Dr. Eastman’s 12 presentation as being on behalf of the President.<sup>212</sup>

13 On the morning of January 6, President Trump made several last-minute “revised 14 appeal[s] to the Vice President” to pressure him into carrying out the plan.<sup>213</sup> At 1:00 am, 15 President Trump tweeted: “If Vice President @Mike_Pence comes through for us, we will win 16 the Presidency . . . Mike can send it back!”<sup>214</sup> At 8:17 am, President Trump tweeted: “All Mike 17 Pence has to do is send them back to the States, AND WE WIN. Do it Mike, this is a time for 18 extreme courage!”<sup>215</sup> Shortly after, President Trump rang Vice President Pence and once again

7 Together, these actions more likely than not constitute attempts to obstruct an official 8 proceeding.

9 Official proceeding

10 The Court next analyzes whether the Joint Session of Congress to count electoral votes 11 on January 6, 2021, constituted an “official proceeding” under the obstruction statute. The 12 United States Code defines “official proceeding” to include “a proceeding before the 13 Congress.”<sup>219</sup> The Twelfth Amendment outlines the steps to elect the President, culminating in 14 the President of the Senate opening state votes “in the presence of the Senate and House of 15 Representatives.”<sup>220</sup> Dr. Eastman does not dispute that the Joint Session is an “official 16 proceeding.” While there is no binding authority interpreting “proceeding before the Congress,” 17 ten colleagues from the District of Columbia have concluded that the 2021 electoral count was 18 an “official proceeding” within the meaning of section 1512(c)(2),<sup>221</sup> and the Court joins those 19 well-reasoned opinions.

1 Corrupt intent

2 A person violates § 1512(c) when they obstruct an official proceeding with a corrupt 3 mindset. The Ninth Circuit has not defined “corruptly” for purposes of this statute.<sup>222</sup> However, 4 the court has made clear that the threshold for acting “corruptly” is lower than “consciousness 5 of wrongdoing,”<sup>223</sup> meaning a person does not need to know their actions are wrong to break 6 the law. Because President Trump likely knew that the plan to disrupt the electoral count was 7 wrongful, his mindset exceeds the threshold for acting “corruptly” under § 1512(c).

8 President Trump and Dr. Eastman justified the plan with allegations of election fraud—9 but President Trump likely knew the justification was baseless, and therefore that the entire 10 plan was unlawful. Although Dr. Eastman argues that President Trump was advised several 11 state elections were fraudulent,<sup>224</sup> the Select Committee points to numerous executive branch
12 officials who publicly stated<sup>225</sup> and privately stressed to President Trump<sup>226</sup> that there was no
13 evidence of fraud. By early January, more than sixty courts dismissed cases alleging fraud due 14 to lack of standing or lack of evidence,<sup>227</sup> noting that they made “strained legal arguments

1 without merit and speculative accusations”<sup>228</sup> and that “there is no evidence to support
2 accusations of voter fraud.”<sup>229</sup> President Trump’s repeated pleas<sup>230</sup> for Georgia Secretary of 3 State Raffensperger clearly demonstrate that his justification was not to investigate fraud, but to 4 win the election: “So what are we going to do here, folks? I only need 11,000 votes. Fellas, I 5 need 11,000 votes. Give me a break.”<sup>231</sup> Taken together, this evidence demonstrates that 6 President Trump likely knew the electoral count plan had no factual justification.

7 The plan not only lacked factual basis but also legal justification. Dr. Eastman’s memo
8 noted that the plan was “BOLD, Certainly.”<sup>232</sup> The memo declared Dr. Eastman’s intent to step
9 outside the bounds of normal legal practice: “we’re no longer playing by Queensbury Rules.”<sup>233</sup> 10 In addition, Vice President Pence “very consistent[ly]” made clear to President Trump that the 11 plan was unlawful, refusing “many times” to unilaterally reject electors or return them to the

1 Dr. Eastman argues that the plan was legally justified as it “was grounded on a good 2 faith interpretation of the Constitution.”<sup>236</sup> But “ignorance of the law is no excuse,”<sup>237</sup> and 3 believing the Electoral Count Act was unconstitutional did not give President Trump license to 4 violate it. Disagreeing with the law entitled President Trump to seek a remedy in court, not to 5 disrupt a constitutionally-mandated process.<sup>238</sup> And President Trump knew how to pursue 6 election claims in court—after filing and losing more than sixty suits, this plan was a last-ditch
7 attempt to secure the Presidency by any means.

8 The illegality of the plan was obvious. Our nation was founded on the peaceful transition 9 of power, epitomized by George Washington laying down his sword to make way for 10 democratic elections.<sup>239</sup> Ignoring this history, President Trump vigorously campaigned for the 11 Vice President to single-handedly determine the results of the 2020 election. As Vice President
12 Pence stated, “no Vice President in American history has ever asserted such authority.”<sup>240</sup>
13 Every American—and certainly the President of the United States—knows that in a democracy, 14 leaders are elected, not installed. With a plan this “BOLD,”<sup>241</sup> President Trump knowingly tried 15 to subvert this fundamental principle.

16 Based on the evidence, the Court finds it more likely than not that President Trump 17 corruptly attempted to obstruct the Joint Session of Congress on January 6, 2021.

18 ii. Conspiracy to defraud the United States

19 The Select Committee also alleges that President Trump, Dr. Eastman, and others

2 Agreement to obstruct a lawful government function

3 As the Court discussed at length above,<sup>244</sup> the evidence demonstrates that President 4 Trump likely attempted to obstruct the Joint Session of Congress on January 6, 2021. While the 5 Court earlier analyzed those actions as attempts to obstruct an “official proceeding,” Congress 6 convening to count electoral votes is also a “lawful function of government” within the 7 meaning of 18 U.S.C. § 371, which Dr. Eastman does not dispute.

8 An “agreement” between co-conspirators need not be express and can be inferred from 9 the conspirators’ conduct.<sup>245</sup> There is strong circumstantial evidence to show that there was 10 likely an agreement between President Trump and Dr. Eastman to enact the plan articulated in 11 Dr. Eastman’s memo. In the days leading up to January 6, Dr. Eastman and President Trump 12 had two meetings with high-ranking officials to advance the plan. On January 4, President 13 Trump and Dr. Eastman hosted a meeting in the Oval Office to persuade Vice President Pence 14 to carry out the plan. The next day, President Trump sent Dr. Eastman to continue discussions 15 with the Vice President’s staff, in which Vice President Pence’s counsel perceived Dr. Eastman 16 as the President’s representative.<sup>246</sup> Leading small meetings in the heart of the White House
17 implies an agreement between the President and Dr. Eastman and a shared goal of advancing 18 the electoral count plan. The strength of this agreement was evident from President Trump’s 19 praise for Dr. Eastman and his plan in his January 6 speech on the Ellipse: “John is one of the 20 most brilliant lawyers in the country, and he looked at this and he said, ‘What an absolute 21 disgrace that this can be happening to our Constitution.’”<sup>247</sup>

22 Based on these repeated meetings and statements, the evidence shows that an agreement 23 to enact the electoral count plan likely existed between President Trump and Dr. Eastman.

24 Deceitful or dishonest means

1 deceit, craft or trickery, or at least by means that are dishonest.”<sup>248</sup> While acting on a “good 2 faith misunderstanding” of the law is not dishonest, “merely disagreeing with the law does not 3 constitute a good faith misunderstanding . . . because all persons have a duty to obey the law 4 whether or not they agree with it.”<sup>249</sup>

5 The Court discussed above how the evidence shows that President Trump likely knew 6 that the electoral count plan was illegal.<sup>250</sup> President Trump continuing to push that plan despite 7 being aware of its illegality constituted obstruction by “dishonest” means under § 371.

8 The evidence also demonstrates that Dr. Eastman likely knew that the plan was 9 unlawful. Dr. Eastman heard from numerous mentors and like-minded colleagues that his plan 10 had no basis in history or precedent. Fourth Circuit Judge Luttig, for whom Dr. Eastman 11 clerked, publicly stated that the plan’s analysis was “incorrect at every turn.”<sup>251</sup> Vice President 12 Pence’s legal counsel spent hours refuting each part of the plan to Dr. Eastman, including 13 noting there had never been a departure from the Electoral Count Act<sup>252</sup> and that not “a single 14 one of [the] Framers would agree with [his] position.”<sup>253</sup>

15 Dr. Eastman himself repeatedly recognized that his plan had no legal support. In his 16 discussion with the Vice President’s counsel, Dr. Eastman “acknowledged” the “100 percent 17 consistent historical practice since the time of the Founding” that the Vice President did not 18 have the authority to act as the memo proposed.<sup>254</sup> More importantly, Dr. Eastman admitted 19 more than once that “his proposal violate[d] several provisions of statutory law,”<sup>255</sup> including 20 explicitly characterizing the plan as “one more relatively minor violation” of the Electoral 21 Count Act.<sup>256</sup> In addition, on January 5, Dr. Eastman conceded that the Supreme Court would

1 unanimously reject his plan for the Vice President to reject electoral votes.<sup>257</sup> Later that day, 2 Dr. Eastman admitted that his “more palatable” idea to have the Vice President delay, rather 3 than reject counting electors, rested on “the same basic legal theory” that he knew would not 4 survive judicial scrutiny.<sup>258</sup>

5 Dr. Eastman’s views on the Electoral Count Act are not, as he argues, a “good faith 6 interpretation” of the law;<sup>259</sup> they are a partisan distortion of the democratic process. His plan 7 was driven not by preserving the Constitution, but by winning the 2020 election:

8 [Dr. Eastman] acknowledged that he didn’t think Kamala Harris should have that authority in 2024; he 9 didn’t think Al Gore should have had it in 2000; and he acknowledged that no small government conservative should think that that was the case.<sup>260</sup>

10 Dr. Eastman also understood the gravity of his plan for democracy—he acknowledged “[y]ou 11 would just have the same party win continuously if [the] Vice President had the authority to just 12 declare the winner of every State.”<sup>261</sup>

13 The evidence shows that Dr. Eastman was aware that his plan violated the Electoral 14 Count Act. Dr. Eastman likely acted deceitfully and dishonestly each time he pushed an 15 outcome-driven plan that he knew was unsupported by the law.

16 Overt acts in furtherance of the conspiracy

17 President Trump and Dr. Eastman participated in numerous overt acts in furtherance of 18 their shared plan. As detailed at length above, President Trump’s acts to strong-arm Vice 19 President Pence into following the plan included meeting with and calling the Vice President 20 and berating him in a speech to thousands outside the Capitol.<sup>262</sup> Dr. Eastman joined for one of 21 those meetings, spent hours attempting to convince the Vice President’s counsel to support the 22 plan, and gave his own speech at the Ellipse “demanding” the Vice President “stand up” and

1 enact his plan.<sup>263</sup>

2 Based on the evidence, the Court finds that it is more likely than not that President 3 Trump and Dr. Eastman dishonestly conspired to obstruct the Joint Session of Congress on 4 January 6, 2021.

5 iii. Common law fraud

6 As the Court discusses below,<sup>264</sup> review of the eleven remaining documents reveals that 7 none further efforts to spread false claims of election fraud. Accordingly, the Court does not 8 reach whether President Trump likely engaged in common law fraud.

9 b. Actions in furtherance of crime or fraud

10 The Court now determines whether any of the remaining eleven documents were in 11 furtherance of the two crimes the Court found evidence of above, obstruction of an official 12 proceeding and conspiracy to defraud the United States by attempting to persuade Vice 13 President Pence to reject or delay electoral votes on January 6, 2021.

14 The crime-fraud exception applies when the “communications for which production is 15 sought are ‘sufficiently related to’ and were made ‘in furtherance of [the] intended, or present, 16 continuing illegality.’”<sup>265</sup> In a civil case, the burden of proof for the party seeking disclosure 17 under the crime-fraud exception is preponderance of the evidence, meaning more likely than 18 not.<sup>266</sup>

19 “[T]he crime-fraud exception does not require a completed crime or fraud but only that 20 the client have consulted the attorney in an effort to complete one.”<sup>267</sup> The exception applies 21 even if the attorney does not participate in the criminal activity, and “and even [if] the 22 communication turns out not to help (and perhaps even to hinder) the client’s completion of a 23 crime.”<sup>268</sup> An attorney’s wrongdoing alone may pierce the privilege, regardless of the client’s

1 awareness or innocence.<sup>269</sup>

2 Nine of the eleven documents were emails or attachments discussing active lawsuits in 3 state and federal courts.<sup>270</sup> They include drafting filings, conferring about oral arguments, or 4 planning future litigation strategy. While these suits might have dealt with claims of election 5 fraud, pursuing legal recourse itself did not advance any crimes, and the contents of the emails 6 are cabined to those narrow litigation purposes. As such, these nine emails were not in 7 furtherance of any of the offenses alleged by the Select Committee, so the crime-fraud 8 exception does not apply.

9 The tenth document is an email sent at 4:03 pm MST on January 6, 2021, during the 10 resumption of the Joint Session of Congress after the attack on the Capitol.<sup>271</sup> The email
11 responded to a request to participate in Dr. Eastman’s work on behalf of President Trump.<sup>272</sup>
12 While the email discusses Vice President Pence’s refusal to reject or delay the electoral count, 13 the email was not “itself in furtherance” of the plan and thus does not fall within the crime-14 fraud exception.<sup>273</sup>

15 The eleventh document is a chain forwarding to Dr. Eastman a draft memo written for 16 President Trump’s attorney Rudy Giuliani.<sup>274</sup> The memo recommended that Vice President 17 Pence reject electors from contested states on January 6. This may have been the first time
18 members of President Trump’s team transformed a legal interpretation of the Electoral Count
19 Act into a day-by-day plan of action. The draft memo pushed a strategy that knowingly violated 20 the Electoral Count Act, and Dr. Eastman’s later memos closely track its analysis and proposal.
21 The memo is both intimately related to and clearly advanced the plan to obstruct the Joint

1 Session of Congress on January 6, 2021. Because the memo likely furthered the crimes of 2 obstruction of an official proceeding and conspiracy to defraud the United States, it is subject to 3 the crime-fraud exception and the Court ORDERS it to be disclosed.

4 4. Substantial or compelling need exception

5 After concluding that one document falls within the crime-fraud exception, the Court 6 reviews the ten remaining protected documents,<sup>275</sup> which the Select Committee argues should 7 be disclosed based on its compelling need and inability to obtain the materials elsewhere.<sup>276</sup>

8 All ten documents are ‘opinion’ work product because they include attorneys’ thoughts
9 and legal theories. Unlike fact-based work product, which may be disclosed,<sup>277</sup> opinion work
10 product “is virtually undiscoverable.”<sup>278</sup> A court may compel disclosure of opinion work 11 product only in the rare situation “when mental impressions are the pivotal issue in the current 12 litigation and the need for the material is compelling.”<sup>279</sup>

13 Dr. Eastman argues that discovery of opinion work product is limited to when the 14 opposing party needs materials “to prepare its case,” so the exception cannot extend to 15 legislative needs.<sup>280</sup> The Court agrees that decisions applying this exception only involve 16 litigation.<sup>281</sup> However, it would be inconsistent to recognize the work product doctrine in the 17 legislative subpoena context without also recognizing the privilege’s exceptions. Given the 18 limited caselaw involving legislative subpoenas, the Court assumes that a legislative body 19 could have the requisite compelling need for disclosure of opinion work product.

20 The Select Committee claims that Dr. Eastman’s opinions “are directly at issue” because 21 he “was a central figure in the effort to encourage the former Vice President to reject the

2       However, review of the ten remaining documents shows that none are “pivotal” to the 3 Select Committee’s investigation. Nine of these include opinions and discussions about trial
4 strategy in ongoing lawsuits.<sup>283</sup> As discussed above, this litigation was a legitimate form of 5 recourse, and is not tied to the investigation’s core purpose, which is to “investigate and report
6 upon the facts, circumstances, and causes relating to the January 6, 2021, domestic terrorist 7 attack upon the United States Capitol.”<sup>284</sup>

8       The tenth email includes Dr. Eastman’s thoughts on the evening of January 6 about 9 potential future actions given Vice President Pence’s refusal to reject or delay the electoral 10 count.<sup>285</sup> Cases that have found a “compelling need” involved situations where an attorney’s 11 bad faith was central to a claim or defense, making the attorney’s opinions critical evidence.<sup>286</sup> 12 Although Dr. Eastman’s thoughts in this email pertain to the January 6 electoral count, these 13 thoughts are not analogously “pivotal” to the Select Committee’s investigation.

14       The Court reiterates its earlier statement that the Select Committee’s investigation is 15 “weighty and urgent.”<sup>287</sup> But the Court does not want to enable well-intentioned committees to 16 circumvent work product protection by using broad and urgent mandates, as has occurred in our 17 not-so-distant past.<sup>288</sup>

1 IV. DISPOSITION

2 Dr. Eastman and President Trump launched a campaign to overturn a democratic 3 election, an action unprecedented in American history. Their campaign was not confined to the 4 ivory tower—it was a coup in search of a legal theory. The plan spurred violent attacks on the 5 seat of our nation’s government, led to the deaths of several law enforcement officers, and 6 deepened public distrust in our political process.

7 More than a year after the attack on our Capitol, the public is still searching for 8 accountability. This case cannot provide it. The Court is tasked only with deciding a dispute 9 over a handful of emails. This is not a criminal prosecution; this is not even a civil liability suit.
10 At most, this case is a warning about the dangers of “legal theories” gone wrong, the powerful 11 abusing public platforms, and desperation to win at all costs. If Dr. Eastman and President 12 Trump’s plan had worked, it would have permanently ended the peaceful transition of power, 13 undermining American democracy and the Constitution. If the country does not commit to 14 investigating and pursuing accountability for those responsible, the Court fears January 6 will 15 repeat itself.

16 With this limited mandate, the Court finds the following ten documents privileged:
17 4553; 4793; 4794; 4828; 5097; 5101; 5113; 5412; 5424; 5719.<sup>289</sup> The Court ORDERS Dr.
