1 Plaintiff Dr. John Eastman (“Dr. Eastman”), a former law school dean at Chapman
2 University (“Chapman”), is a “political conservative who supported former President [Donald] 3 Trump” and a self-described “activist law professor.”<sup>1</sup> While he was a professor at Chapman, 4 Dr. Eastman worked with President Trump and his campaign on legal and political strategy 5 regarding the November 3, 2020 election.

6 This case concerns the House of Representatives Select Committee to Investigate the 7 January 6 Attack on the US Capitol’s (“Select Committee”) attempt to obtain Dr. Eastman’s 8 emails from his Chapman email account between November 3, 2020 and January 20, 2021.
9 The parties disagree on whether those documents are privileged and thus protected from 10 disclosure.

11 12 I. BACKGROUND

13 The Court previously conducted two reviews to determine whether Dr. Eastman’s 14 privilege assertions apply to the records subpoenaed by the Select Committee. In its First 15 Order, the Court extensively detailed the events of January 6, 2021, and Dr. Eastman and 16 President Trump’s actions leading up to and on that day.<sup>2</sup> The Court also held that President 17 Trump and Dr. Eastman more likely than not committed obstruction of an official proceeding, 18 in violation of 18 U.S.C. § 1512(c)(2), and conspiracy to defraud the United States, in 19 violation of 18 U.S.C. § 371.

20 The Court has now conducted an in camera review of every document disputed by the 21 parties, weighed and considered all evidence presented by the parties, and applied the 22 appropriate standard of proof.

23 The Court proceeds by discussing the case’s procedural history, before determining 24 whether Dr. Eastman’s assertions of work product privilege and attorney-client privilege 25 apply. Finding that most documents fall within work product privilege or attorney-client 26 privilege, the Court then analyzes whether disclosure is still warranted under the crime-fraud

27 <sup>1</sup> Complaint (Dkt. 1) ¶¶ 5–6.

28 <sup>2</sup> Order Re: Privilege of Documents Dated January 4-7, 2021 (“First Order”) (Dkt. 260).

1 exception. The Court concludes that the crime-fraud exception applies to a number of emails
2 related to President Trump and Dr. Eastman’s (1) court efforts to delay or disrupt the January 3 6 vote; and (2) their knowing misrepresentation of voter fraud numbers in Georgia when 4 seeking to overturn the election results in federal court.

5 Dr. Eastman filed this action on January 20, 2021, to prevent Chapman University 6 from complying with the Select Committee’s subpoena. After briefing from the parties and a 7 hearing, the Court denied Dr. Eastman’s application for a preliminary injunction (Dkt. 41).
8 The Court ordered Dr. Eastman to begin reviewing the documents and producing a privilege 9 log to the Court and the Select Committee (Dkt. 43).

10 During a hearing on January 31, the Court granted the Select Committee’s request that 11 Dr. Eastman begin his production with documents dated January 4-7, 2021 (Dkt. 63). On 12 March 28, 2022, after briefing and a hearing, the Court ordered Dr. Eastman to disclose 101
13 of those 111 documents to the Select Committee. First Order at 44. Pursuant to the Court’s 14 order, Dr. Eastman produced the 101 documents in the first week of April 2022 (Dkt. 286).

15 Dr. Eastman completed his privilege review of the remaining documents on April 19, 16 2022, and the parties then cooperated to reduce their privilege claims and objections.
17 On May 2, 2022, Dr. Eastman produced a consolidated privilege log identifying over 2000 18 documents over which he claimed privilege (Dkt. 336). The Select Committee dropped many 19 objections but reserved the right to renew objections to 576 documents on a later date. Id.
20 After the parties’ cooperation, the Select Committee maintained its objections to 599 21 documents. On June 7, 2022, the Court ordered Dr. Eastman to disclose 159 of the 599 22 documents in review (“Second Order”) (Dkt. 356).

23 On September 14, 2022, the Select Committee renewed its objections to the 576 24 documents and asked the Court to review them (Dkt. 366). The Select Committee proposed 25 an expedited briefing schedule that this Court promptly adopted. The parties again cooperated 26 to reduce their privilege claims and objections, and the Select Committee ultimately 27 maintained its objections to 562 documents. After receiving the final list of disputed 28

1 documents, the Court immediately began reviewing the documents while the parties 2 submitted briefing on their claims. Dr. Eastman filed his brief on September 26, 2022 (Dkt.
3 369). The Select Committee responded on October 3, 2022 (Dkt. 370), and Dr. Eastman 4 replied on October 5, 2022 (Dkt. 371).

6 II. LEGAL STANDARD

7 Federal common law governs the attorney-client privilege when courts adjudicate 8 issues of federal law.<sup>3</sup> “As with all evidentiary privileges, the burden of proving that the 9 attorney-client privilege applies rests not with the party contesting the privilege, but with the 10 party asserting it.”<sup>4</sup> The “party asserting the attorney-client privilege has the burden of 11 establishing the relationship and the privileged nature of the communication.”<sup>5</sup> The party 12 must assert the privilege “as to each record sought to allow the court to rule with specificity.”<sup>6</sup> 13 “Because it impedes full and free discovery of the truth, the attorney-client privilege is strictly 14 construed.”<sup>7</sup> The same burden applies to the party asserting work product protection.<sup>8</sup>

16 III. DISCUSSION

17 The Court will first consider work product protection, then attorney-client privilege.
18 For documents where Dr. Eastman claims both work product and attorney client privilege, the 19 Court will only address attorney-client privilege if it finds that work product protection does 20 not apply. The Court draws substantially on its reasoning from its prior orders which 21 addressed many of the same legal and factual issues.<sup>9</sup>

22 Dr. Eastman claims that 561 of the 562 documents are protected work product. Dr.
23 Eastman also claims that 54 of the documents that are allegedly protected work product are

1 also protected under the attorney-client privilege. Finally, Dr. Eastman claims attorney-client 2 privilege for only one document over which he does not also assert work product privilege.

3 A. Work Product

4 The Court first turns to the 561 documents that Dr. Eastman claims are protected work 5 product. Documents are protected work product if they are (1) “prepared in anticipation of 6 litigation or for trial,” and (2) “prepared ‘by or for another party or by or for that other 7 party’s representative.’”<sup>10</sup> The Court considers each requirement in turn.

8 1. Anticipation of litigation

9 Documents qualify for work product protection if they were “prepared in anticipation 10 of litigation or for trial.”<sup>11</sup> Where some litigation documents are also prepared for a second, 11 non-litigation purpose, they are protected if they were “created because of anticipated 12 litigation and would not have been created in substantially similar form but for the prospect of 13 that litigation.”<sup>12</sup>

14 The Court groups its anticipation of litigation analysis of the remaining documents into 15 five categories: ongoing suits, the Electoral Act plan, state elections, connecting third parties, 16 and news articles.

17 a. Draft filings related to ongoing suits

18 486 of the 561 documents relate to ongoing litigation in state or federal court.<sup>13</sup> These

3 Two of the 561 documents are duplicate files of documents the Court previously 4 ordered to be disclosed.<sup>14</sup> Accordingly, the Court ORDERS these two documents to be 5 disclosed.

6 b. Electoral Count Act plan

7 Five of the 561 documents relate to Dr. Eastman's proposal for vice President Pence to 8 reject or delay counting electoral votes on January 6, 2021.<sup>15</sup> As discussed in the Court's prior 9 Order, to the extent the plan was intended "to proceed without judicial involvement," emails 10 pertaining to the plan were not made in anticipation of litigation.<sup>16</sup>

11 All five of these emails discuss in part actions to support the plan to disrupt the Joint 12 Session. Some portions of these emails do discuss litigation strategy, and to that extent, they 13 are created in anticipation of litigation. However, for other portions, "[t]he true animating 14 force behind these emails was advancing a political strategy: to persuade Vice President 15 Pence to take unilateral action on January 6."<sup>17</sup> These portions of the documents were not associated with these emails are also not work product. Dr. Eastman is responsible for redacting the remaining portions of these documents.

2 Eastman and non-attorney consultants and discuss statistical data with no mention of state 3 election litigation.<sup>25</sup> The remaining document is a report on alleged election irregularities, 4 which the Court finds would “have been created in substantially similar form” without the 5 prospect of litigation.<sup>26</sup>

6 Accordingly, the Court ORDERS the above three documents to be disclosed.<sup>27</sup>

7 d. Connecting third parties

8 Four documents connect third parties to Dr. Eastman.<sup>28</sup> Similar documents were 9 discussed in the First Order, none of which were found to relate to or implicate litigation.
10 Accordingly, these four documents are not protected and the Court ORDERS them to be 11 disclosed.

12 e. Public documents

13 Eleven documents share news articles or other public documents.<sup>29</sup> These public 14 articles and posts were not created for litigation, and the minimal commentary contained in 15 the emails is unrelated to litigation. As such, these eleven documents are not work product.

16 Accordingly, the Court ORDERS these eleven documents to be disclosed.

17 2. Preparation by or for a client’s representative

18 Having found that 524 of the 561 documents were created in anticipation of litigation, 19 the Court turns to the next prong of the work product doctrine and examines whether these 20 documents were created by or for a party or “party’s representative (including the other 21 party’s attorney, consultant, . . . or agent).”<sup>30</sup> Documents are protected if they were prepared

2 Of the 524 documents, 503 relate to representing President Trump or his campaign. All 3 503 documents were prepared or sent by or for members of the White House and campaign 4 staff, attorneys of record in court cases (including Dr. Eastman), and those attorneys' staff.
5 Because these documents were created by or for agents of President Trump or his campaign, 6 they are work product.

7 The remaining 21 documents are legal memoranda prepared by third parties unrelated 8 to the Trump campaign.<sup>32</sup> Dr. Eastman argues that these documents are substantive 9 attachments to emails previously held to be protected work product.<sup>33</sup> Although these legal 10 memoranda appear to be unsolicited, they were created for Dr. Eastman and Trump's legal 11 team, who may have considered these legal memoranda in litigation filings. As such, these 21 12 documents are also work product.

13 3. Waiver of protection

14 The Court now considers whether Dr. Eastman waived his privilege over any of the 15 524 documents that the Court concluded constitute protected work product. Unlike attorney-16 client privilege, which is waived if not kept completely confidential, work product protection 17 is only waived when attorneys disclose their work to "an adversary or a conduit to an 18 adversary in litigation."<sup>34</sup>

19 As the Court previously ruled, Dr. Eastman's use of his Chapman University email 20 address did not destroy Dr. Eastman's privilege over his communications.<sup>35</sup>

21 Dr. Eastman did not disclose any of the 524 documents to a conduit to an adversary in 22 litigation. The documents were all exchanged between members of President Trump's 23

24 <sup>31</sup> Below, the Court expands upon its reasoning in the prior Order and finds that Dr. Eastman and President Trump and 25 his campaign had an established attorney-client relationship during entire the period of the subpoena. Thus, Dr. Eastman is a representative of President Trump and his campaign for purposes of the work product doctrine.

1 campaign and its litigation teams; President Trump’s staff; and likeminded experts, 2 consultants, and volunteers. Moreover, many of the documents were labeled confidential or 3 “attorney work product,” reinforcing Dr. Eastman’s assertion that his team did not intend for 4 these documents to be disclosed to adversaries.

5 4. Substantial or compelling need exception

6 The Court finds that all 524 protected documents are ‘opinion’ work product because 7 they include attorneys’ thoughts and legal theories. Opinion work product “is virtually 8 undiscoverable.”<sup>36</sup> A court may compel disclosure of opinion work product only in the rare 9 situation “when mental impressions are the pivotal issue in the current litigation and the need 10 for the material is compelling.”<sup>37</sup>

11 As the Court previously found, review of the 524 protected documents shows that none 12 are “pivotal” to the Select Committee’s investigation. The majority of the documents include 13 opinions and discussions about trial strategy in ongoing or anticipated lawsuits. As discussed 14 above, this litigation was a “legitimate form of recourse, and is not tied to the investigation’s 15 core purpose, which is to ‘investigate and report upon the facts, circumstances, and causes 16 relating to the January 6, 2021, domestic terrorist attack upon the United States Capitol.”<sup>38</sup> 17 Accordingly, none of these 524 shall be disclosed based on compelling need.

18 * * *

19 Having evaluated each element of work product protection, the Court finds that 524 20 documents are protected work product and 37 documents are not protected work product. Dr.
21 Eastman also claims attorney client privilege over 13 of the 37 documents that are not 22 protected work product,<sup>39</sup> so the Court will determine disclosure for these documents under 23 attorney-client privilege below. Thus, the Court ORDERS the other 24 documents to be

2 B. Attorney-Client Privilege

3 The Court now moves from work product protection to Dr. Eastman’s claims of 4 attorney-client privilege. The attorney-client privilege protects confidential communications 5 between attorneys and clients for the purpose of legal advice.<sup>41</sup> However, “advice on political, 6 strategic, or policy issues” is not protected.<sup>42</sup> The privilege extends to communications with 7 agents of the clients and third parties assisting the attorney.<sup>43</sup>

8 Dr. Eastman claims attorney-client privilege over 55 documents. The Court found 9 above that most of these documents are protected work product. The Court here considers the 10 remaining 14 documents.<sup>44</sup>

11 1. Clients seeking legal advice from attorneys

12 Below, the Court considers whether an attorney-client relationship existed and whether 13 the client was seeking legal advice when communicating with their attorney.

14 The Court previously found that Dr. Eastman had an attorney-client relationship with 15 President Trump throughout the subpoena’s time period.<sup>45</sup> One of the 14 documents involves 16 discussions between a Trump representative and Dr. Eastman.<sup>46</sup> These discussions primarily 17 seek legal advice, but some portions only discuss political advice. Accordingly, the Court 18 ORDERS this document to be disclosed with redactions.<sup>47</sup> to be attorney-client privileged: 26919; 28123; 28127; 28144; 28155; 28161; 28166; 28301; 28336; 28355; 28359; shall be disclosed. Dr. Eastman is responsible for redacting the remaining portions of this document.

1 For 12 of the 14 documents, Dr. Eastman is the potential client.<sup>48</sup> In these emails, Dr.
2 Eastman discusses with another attorney the possible grounds of a lawsuit. These documents 3 explicitly seek legal advice and representation.

4 One of the 14 documents involves potential representation of a state legislator.<sup>49</sup> The 5 email is solely between the potential client and Dr. Eastman and also explicitly seeks legal 6 advice.

7 2. Confidentiality

8 In order for the above 13 communications to be privileged,<sup>50</sup> they must also have been 9 kept confidential.<sup>51</sup> The presence of a third party does not necessarily destroy confidentiality 10 if that third party is an agent of the client or attorney.<sup>52</sup> But the third party’s “shared desire to 11 see the same outcome in a legal matter is insufficient” to maintain confidentiality.<sup>53</sup>

12 All 13 of these documents are solely between the client or potential client, and 13 confirmed counsel.<sup>54</sup> Accordingly, these 13 documents are protected.

14 * * *

15 Having evaluated each element of attorney-client privilege, the Court finds that 13 of 16 the 14 documents are privileged.<sup>55</sup> The remaining document is ORDERED to be disclosed 17 with redactions.<sup>56</sup>

18 C. Crime-fraud exception

19 Having determined that 26 documents are unprotected, the Court has found that 536 20 documents are protected either by work product or attorney-client privilege. The Court now 21 considers whether any of the remaining 536 documents should be disclosed under the crime-

1 fraud exception.

2 The crime-fraud exception applies when (1) a “client consults an attorney for advice 3 that will serve [them] in the commission of a fraud or crime,”<sup>57</sup> and (2) the communications 4 are “sufficiently related to” and were made “in furtherance of” the crime.<sup>58</sup> It is irrelevant
5 whether the scheme was ultimately successful.<sup>59</sup> An attorney’s wrongdoing alone may pierce 6 the privilege, regardless of the client’s awareness or innocence.<sup>60</sup> The exception, which 7 extinguishes both the attorney-client privilege and the work product doctrine,<sup>61</sup> applies “only 8 to documents and communications that were themselves in furtherance of illegal or fraudulent 9 conduct.”<sup>62</sup>

10 As to the first prong of the crime fraud exception, the Court has previously determined 11 that President Trump was more likely than not engaged in or planning an obstruction of an 12 official proceeding, in violation of 18 U.S.C. § 1512(c)(2), and a conspiracy to defraud the 13 United States, in violation of 18 U.S.C. § 371, when he sought the advice of Dr. Eastman.<sup>63</sup> 14 The Court now turns to the second prong of the exception to determine whether any of the 15 536 emails were “sufficiently related to” and made “in furtherance of” the obstruction and 16 conspiracy crimes.<sup>64</sup> In this last batch of documents, the Court finds that the crime-fraud 17 exception applies to eight communications.

1           1.       Emails related to and in furtherance of delaying or disrupting the 2           January 6 congressional proceedings

3           The Court’s prior orders addressed several email threads related to ongoing or 4 prospective litigation in key battleground states. In the current review, the Court finds 18 5 similar documents that present a close call.<sup>65</sup> Some emails discuss legitimate litigation 6 strategy: how the electoral votes affect the Campaign’s “legal options”; how the litigation (if 7 successful) might overturn the election results; and how to frame cases for the Supreme 8 Court. Others discuss how the litigation served other goals, like providing support to state 9 electors trying to decertify electoral votes or persuading the public to question the integrity of 10 the election. Although these emails are “sufficiently related” to disrupting the January 6 vote, 11 on balance, the Court cannot conclusively determine that these emails furthered the 12 obstruction of the January 6 proceedings. Accordingly, the crime-fraud exception does not 13 apply.

14           There are four documents,<sup>66</sup> however, in which Dr. Eastman and other attorneys 15 suggest that—irrespective of the merits—the primary goal of filing is to delay or otherwise 16 disrupt the January 6 vote. In one email,<sup>67</sup> for example, President Trump’s attorneys state that 17 “[m]erely having this case pending in the Supreme Court, not ruled on, might be enough to 18 delay consideration of Georgia.” This email, read in context with other documents in this 19 review, make clear that President Trump filed certain lawsuits not to obtain legal relief, but to 20 disrupt or delay the January 6 congressional proceedings through the courts. The Court finds 21 that these four documents are sufficiently related to and in furtherance of the obstruction

26 <sup>66</sup> 55697, 59954, 55146, 60023.

27 <sup>67</sup> The Court previously determined in a “close call” that this email, along with one other, did not fall within the crime-28 fraud exception. In so doing, the Court preserved the sanctity of attorney-client privilege, noting that “pursuing legal recourse itself did not advance any crimes.” Second Order at 21. The additional context now before the Court, particularly with respect to Georgia, confirms that those emails fall within the ambit of the crime-fraud exception.

1 crime. Accordingly, the crime-fraud exception applies, and the Court ORDERS Dr. Eastman 2 to disclose the four documents.<sup>68</sup>

3 2. Emails related to and in furtherance of the conspiracy to defraud

4 Four emails demonstrate an effort by President Trump and his attorneys to press false 5 claims in federal court for the purpose of delaying the January 6 vote. The evidence confirms 6 that this effort was undertaken in at least one lawsuit filed in Georgia.

7 On December 4, 2020, President Trump and his attorneys alleged in a Georgia state 8 court action that Fulton County improperly counted a number of votes including 10,315 9 deceased people, 2,560 felons, and 2,423 unregistered voters.<sup>69</sup> President Trump and his 10 attorneys then decided to contest the state court proceeding in federal court,<sup>70</sup> and discussed 11 incorporating by reference the voter fraud numbers alleged in the state petition. On December 12 30, 2020, Dr. Eastman relayed “concerns” from President Trump’s team “about including 13 specific numbers in the paragraph dealing with felons, deceased, moved, etc.”<sup>71</sup> The attorneys 14 continued to discuss the President’s resistance to signing “when specific numbers were 15 included.”<sup>72</sup> As Dr. Eastman explained the next day:

16 Although the President signed a verification for [the state court filing] back on 17 Dec. 1, he has since been made aware that some of the allegations (and evidence

2 with that knowledge (and incorporation by reference) would not be accurate.<sup>73</sup>

3 President Trump and his attorneys ultimately filed the complaint with the same 4 inaccurate numbers without rectifying, clarifying, or otherwise changing them.<sup>74</sup> President 5 Trump, moreover, signed a verification swearing under oath that the incorporated, inaccurate 6 numbers “are true and correct” or “believed to be true and correct” to the best of his 7 knowledge and belief.<sup>75</sup>

8 The emails show that President Trump knew that the specific numbers of voter fraud 9 were wrong but continued to tout those numbers, both in court and to the public. The Court 10 finds that these emails are sufficiently related to and in furtherance of a conspiracy to defraud 11 the United States.

12 Accordingly, the Court ORDERS Dr. Eastman to disclose these four communications 13 to the Select Committee.<sup>76</sup>

President Trump is only relying on information that was provided to him. See 61108. But, by his attorneys’ own
