McGowan Declaration – Exhibit S

REFERENCE CHECK FORM

David Schnaar MG David Barratto [redacted]

INSTRUCTIONS:

Below are sample questions that can be used in checking an applicant's references. Some are relevant for former and current employers and others are better suited for personal references. You may ask other questions so long as they are position-related. Questions about personal characteristics should be asked only if they are relevant to the position responsibilities or conditions. Refrain from asking leading questions, let the reference provide the information, and avoid questions that can be answered by a simple yes or no.

In most cases, the Selecting Official should conduct the reference checks. Contact references provided by the applicant and ensure that current supervisors are not contacted without written permission. It is recommended that you contact more than one reference. Let the reference know that the applicant gave you permission to inquire about his/her work history and, if applicable, that the applicant released the company from liability for providing reference information. When possible, obtain references for at least the past five years for entry-level jobs and at least ten years for professional and management positions.

SAMPLE QUESTIONS:

1. How do you know the applicant? How long have you known him/her?
   Professionally, 1995
2. What are (were) the dates of his/her employment?
3. Why did he/she leave your company/agency? Army transfer
4. What is (was) his/her salary? O-6
5. What is (was) the nature of his/her job?
   N55 OCOM, DIRECTOR, FUTURE CONCEPTS DIRECTORATE
6. How would you describe his/her work performance in comparison with other people?
   "Very dedicated, analytical, unbiased"
7. How does (did) he/she able to adapt to new or changing work situations?
   "Very flexible, adaptable"
8. How would you describe his/her compatibility with you as a supervisor? With peers? With subordinates?
   "Excellent interpersonal skills"
9. What are (were) his/her supervisory responsibilities?
   15-20 analysts
10. Please comment in the context of the workplace on his/her a) attendance, b) punctuality, c) ability to take responsibility, d) potential for advancement, e) supervision needed, and f) attitude.
    Excellent
11. What are (were) his/her strong points?
    analytical skills and interpersonal skills
12. What are (were) his/her work-related limitations?
    Identified none
13. Would you rehire him/her? If not, why?
    yes
14. We are considering (name of applicant) for a position at the Library (provide title and brief description of the position). Would you recommend him/her for this position? yes "My highest recommendation"
15. Is there any other work-related information you can provide which will help us form an accurate appraisal of this applicant?
    "Very dedicated, intelligent, professional"

Rev 8/20/2004

Steven R. Berman 12/10/04

REFERENCE CHECK FORM

David Schrader — ~~Matt Bradley~~ Jeff Bradley (Asst Nat'l. Guard JB, J3)

recent job performance

INSTRUCTIONS:

Below are sample questions that can be used in checking an applicant's references. Some are relevant for former and current employers and others are better suited for personal references. You may ask other questions so long as they are position-related. Questions about personal characteristics should be asked only if they are relevant to the position responsibilities or conditions. Refrain from asking leading questions, let the reference provide the information, and avoid questions that can be answered by a simple yes or no.

In most cases, the Selecting Official should conduct the reference checks. Contact references provided by the applicant and ensure that current supervisors are not contacted without written permission. It is recommended that you contact more than one reference. Let the reference know that the applicant gave you permission to inquire about his/her work history and, if applicable, that the applicant released the company from liability for providing reference information. When possible, obtain references for at least the past five years for entry-level jobs and at least ten years for professional and management positions.

SAMPLE QUESTIONS:

Well connected with DC think tanks, DoD.

1. How do you know the applicant? How long have you known him/her? Worked for him in military. Jeff was his chief of staff. Now David works for Jeff at Nat'l. Guard.
2. What are (were) the dates of his/her employment? Since 9/11
3. Why did he/she leave your company/agency?
4. What is (was) his/her salary?
5. What is (was) the nature of his/her job? Assists on strategic planning relating to critical infrastructure planning
6. How would you describe his/her work performance in comparison with other people? Among top 5 ever. Profound impact
7. How does (did) he/she able to adapt to new or changing work situations? Special forces; dynamic environment, can multitask
8. How would you describe his/her compatibility with you as a supervisor? With peers? With subordinates?
9. What are (were) his/her supervisory responsibilities? In Joint Chiefs, very loyal, understanding
10. Please comment in the context of the workplace on his/her a) attendance, b) punctuality, c) ability to take responsibility, d) potential for advancement, e) supervision needed, and f) attitude.
11. What are (were) his/her strong points? learns quickly, see interrelationship
12. What are (were) his/her work-related limitations? → tends to work too hard
13. Would you rehire him/her? If not, why? He has
14. We are considering (name of applicant) for a position at the Library (provide title and brief description of the position). Would you recommend him/her for this position? Yes
15. Is there any other work-related information you can provide which will help us form an accurate appraisal of this applicant?

16. Writing: One of the best, brightest thinkers in terrorism/counter-terrorism. Writes extremely well. Takes abstract & make it understandable. Great intellect

Rev 8/20/2004

REFERENCE CHECK FORM

Dr. Kalev Sepp, Professor
Naval Post-Graduate School
Monterey, CA Tel: [redacted]

For David Schroer –

Outstanding recommendation!
Over the top.

INSTRUCTIONS:

Below are sample questions that can be used in checking an applicant's references. Some are relevant for former and current employers and others are better suited for personal references. You may ask other questions so long as they are position-related. Questions about personal characteristics should be asked only if they are relevant to the position responsibilities or conditions. Refrain from asking leading questions, let the reference provide the information, and avoid questions that can be answered by a simple yes or no.

In most cases, the Selecting Official should conduct the reference checks. Contact references provided by the applicant and ensure that current supervisors are not contacted without written permission. It is recommended that you contact more than one reference. Let the reference know that the applicant gave you permission to inquire about his/her work history and, if applicable, that the applicant released the company from liability for providing reference information. When possible, obtain references for at least the past five years for entry-level jobs and at least ten years for professional and management positions.

SAMPLE QUESTIONS:

1. How do you know the applicant? How long have you known him/her?
   Served together in Special operations, a number of subsequent professional interactions, became friends. Has known him for 17 years in professional capacity
2. What are (were) the dates of his/her employment?
3. Why did he/she leave your company/agency?
4. What is (was) his/her salary?
5. What is (was) the nature of his/her job?
   Knew in numerous jobs.
6. How would you describe his/her work performance in comparison with other people?
   Exceptional, 1 in 1000, For intellect, drive, people skills, works very hard, high energy
7. How does (did) he/she able to adapt to new or changing work situations?
8. How would you describe his/her compatibility with you as a supervisor? With peers? With subordinates?
   He is extremely good counselor, leader of his peers and deals effectively but also very collegial & supportive respectfully with subordinates
9. What are (were) his/her supervisory responsibilities?
   He has performed in numerous leadership roles
10. Please comment in the context of the workplace on his/her a) attendance, b) punctuality, c) ability to take responsibility, d) potential for advancement, e) supervision needed, and f) attitude.
    Highly responsible, does whatever it takes to get job done, willing to work long hours, very responsible self-starter
11. What are (were) his/her strong points?
12. What are (were) his/her work-related limitations?
    Honesty & integrity, willingness to challenge on principal - He is no easy ruffled feathers. He was right and policy changed
13. Would you rehire him/her? If not, why?
    Yes – absolutely
14. We are considering (name of applicant) for a position at the Library (provide title and brief description of the position). Would you recommend him/her for this position?
    Absolutely – Also knows that applicant is extremely enthusiastic about coming to CRS
15. Is there any other work-related information you can provide which will help us form an accurate appraisal of this applicant?
    Excellent writer, presents arguments very logically, exceptional analyst, strategic thinker
    Can work independently or with others. Very balanced personality, very secure
    Prompts well, good sense of humor
    Knows how to read his environment & respond accordingly

Rev 8/20/2004

000119

He is a highly successful person - by knowing his responsibilities - Great sense of client