Hi Sender,
I have nothing against that, but with Committee restrictions, i'm not able to have informal conversations with a reporter. If you'd like information on the Committee, the best person to talk to is our staff director.

Best of luck –

Reporter #1 [REDACTED], who writes on NSA surveillance issues, just called my direct line. She didn't leave a message (I Googled the incoming number), which may suggest she misdialed or is cold-calling staff. I've never spoken with her, or ever been directly contacted by a reporter. Regardless, I figured I'd flag this for both of you.

REDACTED

In response to your message of this morning, I am now considering my alternatives in light of this most recent media-circus request that I received approximately one hour later today. Please see below. I was disappointed to receive this latest communication from [REDACTED], in violation of § 9.7 of the Rules of Procedure for the SSCI and the terms we had originally agreed based on your email of Friday, October 6, 2017: "What the Committee would like to prevent is the release of your interview date (which will create a media circus)..."

Although the associated document that I received on October 13 was marked "Committee Sensitive", it's unfortunate that the related Rules, Id., were once again broken today.

As was correctly alluded to on our call from last week, the term subpoena stems from the Latin: sub ("under") and poena ("penalty"). So yes, I plan to be there at [REDACTED]. However, given the extraordinary damages already created by the continued illicit leaks stemming from information that has originated with your Committee, I am now considering my alternatives in order to limit the perpetuation of such future serious injury.

Best regards,
Male-1
