COMPLAINT

NOW COME Plaintiffs CURTIS LOVELACE, LOGAN LOVELACE, LINCOLN
LOVELACE, and CHRISTINE LOVELACE on behalf of her minor son LARSON
LOVELACE, by and through their attorneys, LOEVY & LOEVY, and complaining of DEFENDANTS ADAM GIBSON, ROBERT COPLEY, JOHN SUMMERS, DINA DREYER, ANJANETTE BISWELL, UNKNOWN QUINCY POLICE OFFICERS, GARY FARHA, JAMES KELLER, THE CITY OF QUINCY (hereinafter “City”), and THE COUNTY OF ADAMS (hereinafter “County”) alleges as follows:

Introduction

1. Plaintiff Curtis Lovelace endured a three-year nightmare that began in 2014 when he was wrongfully arrested for the purported murder of his then-wife, that continued through two separate trials for a crime that he did not commit, and that ended only in early 2017 when a jury who was finally able to hear the whole story acquitted him.

2. During this saga, Curt was held in the Hancock County Jail for over 21 months, and then placed on house arrest for nine months, unable to make a living and essentially helpless to care for his family's emotional and financial needs.

3. This experience almost destroyed his family. It did destroy his personal finances, his law practice, and his reputation in the town he was born in, had lived in almost his entire life, and had served as a public official in various capacities. Curt and his family were ostracized from Quincy, and after his acquittal, Curt and his family had to leave town. Curt must start his life over as a 48-year-old man.

4. Unlike other cases where a person is caught up in the criminal justice system for a crime for which they were not involved, not only did the Defendants fabricate a case against Curt, they fabricated a crime. Cory Lovelace died a tragic death, but she was not the victim of foul play. She was the victim of personal health problems that ultimately killed her. The tragedy of her death, and her family's tragedy of losing a mother and a wife much too soon, was made infinitely worse by the Defendants' efforts to call her death a murder and to frame Curtis for it.

5. Cory Lovelace passed away on February 14, 2006. At that time, then-Quincy Police Department officials and the then-Adams County Coroner tasked with evaluating the circumstances of her passing conducted a comprehensive and professional investigation into her death. The Coroner's Office did not find she was the victim of a murder, and the Quincy Police Department concluded Curtis Lovelace was not a murderer. Curtis and his family grieved Cory's passing, but did their best to move on with their lives.

6. On or about 2013, Defendants decided to conduct a new investigation. This investigation was conducted without regard for the truth, and its goal and the goal of everyone who participated in it was to create a crime where none existed and to frame Curtis Lovelace for murder.

7. As part of that investigation, Defendants conspired to and ultimately did unlawfully detain Logan Lovelace, Lincoln Lovelace, and Larson Lovelace, then 17, 15, and 12 years old, in an effort to force them to falsely implicate their father in their mother's death.

8. Defendants almost succeeded at framing Curtis Lovelace. To do so, Defendants fabricated evidence and initiated criminal proceedings against Curtis Lovelace knowing that Curtis Lovelace was innocent.

9. The fabrication, and all of the facts and circumstances surrounding it, was concealed from Plaintiff Curtis Lovelace, as was other exculpatory and impeachment evidence.

10. The Defendants' "investigation," and the fabrication and concealment of evidence, and the malicious prosecution of Curtis Lovelace, were all undertaken pursuant to the policies and widespread practices of the Adams County Coroner's Office, Adams County, and the City of Quincy.

11. Defendants caused Curtis Lovelace to be falsely charged for his wife's murder by fabricating evidence that she was murdered, fabricating evidence that Curtis Lovelace was lying about what happened the morning of her death, and withholding exculpatory evidence, including exculpatory evidence from forensic experts that Cory Lovelace had died a natural death.

12. Although the experience of being twice put on trial for a murder that never occurred and that he did not commit almost destroyed Curtis Lovelace, he did everything within his power to prevail at trial.

13. On March 10, 2017, after a first trial ended with the jury unable to reach a verdict, a second jury returned a verdict of not guilty.

14. Plaintiffs now bring this action to obtain justice and redress for the injuries Defendants caused them.

Cory Lovelace's Death and Initial Investigation

29. On the morning of February 14, 2006, after what then appeared to be a brief illness, Cory Lovelace passed away in her home. Her husband Curtis Lovelace found her deceased at home after returning home from taking the children to school; he had arranged to stay home from work that day to care for their children, including their then-4 year old son Larson who was not yet of school age.

30. Cory Lovelace had been the rock of the Lovelace family and was a loving mother and wife. Unfortunately, as it was later determined, she also suffered from some significant personal health problems brought on by excessive drinking and other issues. These health issues brought about her premature death.

31. The morning of February 14, after Curtis Lovelace found his wife deceased, he contacted the authorities. Police and members of the Coroner's Office arrived at the scene and conducted an investigation. Over the next several days, members of the Quincy Police Department, including Jeff Baird, conducted a thorough investigation, interviewing Curtis Lovelace several times, and interviewing the oldest three Lovelace children. Members of the police department also communicated with medical experts, and the Coroner's Office conducted an inquest into the cause of Cory Lovelace's death. The Coroner's Inquest did not conclude that Cory Lovelace was the victim of a homicide. The Inquest did reveal that Cory Lovelace had physical problems which may have contributed to her death.

32. The Lovelace family grieved Cory Lovelace's passing. Curt also grieved news about her physical problems, which had been unknown to him until the Coroner's Office had revealed them to him as part of its initial investigation. Curtis Lovelace loved his wife, but he eventually accepted her passing and moved forward with his life.

33. In 2013, Curt reconnected with a woman he had known in high school, Christine Lovelace, and they fell in love and were married at the end of the year. In 2014, Christine adopted Curtis' then-minor children Logan, Lincoln and Larson, becoming a legally-recognized parent of all three children.

Adam Gibson/James Keller's Investigation

34. In 2014, Curtis Lovelace and his family had found a measure of happiness in their lives and had begun to recover from the tragedy of Cory Lovelace's death. However, unbeknownst to Curtis, Logan, Lincoln and Larson, the nightmare surrounding their mother's death was not over.

35. Unknown to any of them, Detective Adam Gibson had re-taken up an investigation into Cory Lovelace's death. Upon information and belief this re-investigation was undertaken with the knowledge, approval, and consent of Defendants Farha, Copley, Summers, Dreyer, Keller, and Unknown Defendant Officers in an effort to frame Curtis Lovelace for the murder of his wife.

36. Gibson's investigation into Cory Lovelace's death revealed no new information that would assist an office acting in good faith in determining that she was murdered, much less that Curtis Lovelace was a murderer. In fact, during the course of his investigation Detective Gibson revealed numerous pieces of exculpatory information and information that confirmed that Cory Lovelace was not the victim of murder. Despite this, Gibson persisted in his investigation. Ultimately, in an effort to bring charges against Curtis Lovelace, the above-named Individual Defendants resorted to fabricating evidence, coercing witnesses, presenting false information to the grand jury to obtain an indictment, withholding and concealing exculpatory evidence, and other unlawful acts in an effort to frame Mr. Lovelace for a crime he did not commit.

Criminal Charges are Initiated against Curtis Lovelace

37. Prosecutors presented charges against Mr. Lovelace to a grand jury on August 27, 2014. Upon information and belief, Detective Gibson was the only witness. He presented false, misleading, and incomplete information to the grand jury. Upon information and belief, at the conclusion of his testimony, the grand jury returned an indictment against Mr. Lovelace.

Curtis Lovelace's Arrest and Interrogation

38. On August 27, 2014, Curtis Lovelace was arrested and taken to the Quincy Police Department, where he was interrogated extensively by Detective Gibson. He maintained his innocence throughout his interrogation and answered all of Detective Gibson's questions. Despite professing his innocence, this case nevertheless continued.

The Wrongful Detention of Logan Lovelace, Lincoln Lovelace and Larson Lovelace

39. On the same day that their father was arrested, August 27, 2014, Logan, Lincoln and Larson were all in school. Logan and Lincoln were students at Quincy High School and Larson Lovelace was a student at Quincy Junior High. Upon information and belief, at the direction of Defendants Copley, Summers, Dreyer, Gibson and Biswell, Logan, Lincoln and Larson were involuntarily detained at their respective schools by school staff and by school resource officers who were also employees of the Quincy Police Department.

40. Thereafter, Logan, Lincoln and Larson were brought to the Quincy Police Department where their detention continued. At no time during their detention were they allowed to contact either of their parents or any family members or attorneys. At no time during their detention were their parents officially notified of their detention.

41. At the police station, all three boys were interrogated by Defendants Gibson and Biswell in an effort to coerce incriminating information about Curtis Lovelace from his sons. They were not allowed to ask for a parent, attorney, or concerned adult to be present. Upon information and belief, Defendants Gibson and Biswell interrogated Logan, Larson and Lincoln without a parent present pursuant to the policies, practices, and procedures of the Quincy Police Department and with the knowledge, consent and involvement of Defendants Copley, Summers, Dreyer, Gibson, Biswell, and Farha.

42. Logan, Larson and Lincoln's mother independently learned that her sons were at the police station. Defendants never made any attempt to contact her or give her this information. By the time she arrived, her sons' interrogations were over.

43. When the Defendants were unsuccessful in their scheme to obtain incriminating information about Curtis Lovelace from his sons, they ultimately released the boys at the police station to Christine Lovelace.

Curtis Lovelace's First Trial

44. A first trial against Mr. Lovelace was held in January and February of 2016. The trial concluded on February 5, 2016, with the jury deadlocked and unable to reach a verdict.

45. During the pendency of this trial, upon information and belief, the Individual Defendants failed to produce exculpatory evidence to the State and also to Mr. Lovelace's defense. This exculpatory evidence included, but was not limited to, exculpatory forensic evidence, exculpatory evidence in the form of emails from Dr. Scott Denton, evidence that witness statements had been coerced and fabricated, and evidence that certain police reports prepared by Individual Defendants were also fabricated and incorrect. Individual Defendants allowed this first trial to proceed to a conclusion without the disclosure of this evidence that would have changed outcome of Mr. Lovelace's first trial. Upon information and belief, some of this evidence was subsequently revealed to him after the conclusion of the first trial, and some remains unknown to him.

Discovery of Previously-Withheld Exculpatory Evidence

46. This was not the end of this case, however. Mr. Lovelace retained new counsel and continued to investigate his own innocence, and in between the first and second trials, uncovered evidence that had previously been withheld from him. Some of this evidence was ultimately produced through discovery process in response to discovery requests, some came via disclosures from prosecutors as soon as they learned of such evidence, and some came through Freedom of Information Act requests to the Quincy Police Department the Coroner's Office, and other entities.

47. Through these pre-trial disclosures, Mr. Lovelace learned of evidence that ultimately resulted in his acquittal at the second trial.

48. For instance, prior to the second trial Mr. Lovelace received emails sent by Dr. Scott Denton, Gibson and Keller in which Dr. Denton revealed his opinion that there was not sufficient forensic evidence to sustain Mr. Lovelace's conviction. This was an opinion and a document previously unknown to Mr. Lovelace. When this evidence was disclosed to prosecutors prior to the second trial, prosecutors immediately disclosed it to the defense, and prosecutors advised the Court that they had not previously had such information.

49. Mr. Lovelace also received documents and communications related to Adam Gibson that showed that Gibson had obtained reports and information from other forensic experts that were exculpatory to Mr. Lovelace but had never been disclosed to him. Upon information and belief, this evidence was not disclosed to prosecutors prior to trial.

50. Finally, Mr. Lovelace was able to learn of the existence of other exculpatory and previously-withheld evidence.

Curtis Lovelace is Exonerated at His Second Trial

51. At the retrial of this case, Curtis Lovelace was able to use the previously-withheld exculpatory evidence that Individual Defendants had taken every effort to avoid him receiving.

52. On March 10, 2017, the jury hearing his second trial found him not guilty of Cory Lovelace's purported murder.

53. The jury's verdict and the evidence at trial was a decision on the merits indicative of Curtis Lovelace's innocence.

City of Quincy, County of Adams', and the Adams County Coroner's Office's Policies and Widespread Practices

54. The constitutional violations that caused Curtis Lovelace's malicious prosecution and the claims set forth in this Complaint were not isolated events. To the contrary, they were the result of the City of Quincy's and the County of Adams' and the Adams County Coroner's Office's policies and widespread practices of pursuing convictions without regard to the truth, through reliance on profoundly flawed investigations that withhold exculpatory evidence, fabricate evidence, and coerce witnesses.

55. The constitutional violations that caused Curtis Lovelace's malicious prosecution and the claims set forth in this Complaint were also the result of the City's, County's, and Coroner's Office's policies and widespread practices of failing to adequately train and supervise its police officers and coroner's employees on their obligations not to withhold exculpatory or impeachment evidence, and not to fabricate evidence.

56. The constitutional violations that caused Curtis Lovelace's malicious prosecution and the claims set forth in this Complaint were also the result of the City's, County's, and the Coroner's Office's policies and widespread practices of failing to discipline officers or coroner's employees who withhold exculpatory or impeachment evidence, or who fabricate evidence.

57. The constitutional violations that caused Curtis Lovelace's malicious prosecution and the claims set forth in this Complaint were also the result of the City's, County's, and the Coroner's Office's policies and widespread practices of failing to intervene to prevent individual officers from violating citizens' constitutional rights.

58. In accordance with these policies and widespread practices, Quincy police officers, County employees, and Coroner's Office employees refused to report misconduct committed by their colleagues, including the misconduct at issue in this case.

59. The City's, County's, and Coroner's Office's failure to train, supervise, and discipline its officers and employees effectively condones, ratifies, and sanctions the kind of misconduct that the Defendant Officers and Coroner Keller committed against Curtis Lovelace in this case. Constitutional violations such as those that occurred in this case are encouraged and facilitated as a result of the City's practices and policies, as alleged above.

60. The City of Quincy and officials within the Department as well as County employees and Coroner's Office employees failed to act to remedy the abuses described in the preceding paragraphs, despite actual knowledge of the pattern of misconduct. They thereby perpetuated the unlawful practices and ensured that no action would be taken (independent of the judicial process) to remedy Mr. Lovelace's ongoing injuries.

61. Moreover, as to Plaintiffs Logan, Lincoln and Larson's wrongful detention the Quincy Police Department has a policy and practice of detaining witnesses without their permission. In particular, it is the policy and widespread practice of the Quincy Police Department to detain juveniles without the permission or knowledge of their parents and to interview them without their consent or the consent, permission or knowledge of their parents. The violation of Logan's, Larson's, and Lincoln's constitutional rights was caused by this policy and widespread practice.

62. The constitutional violations that caused Logan's, Lincoln's and Larson's wrongful detention were also the result of the City's policies and widespread practices of failing to adequately train and supervise its police officers on their obligations not to wrongfully detain juveniles.

63. The constitutional violations that caused Logan's, Lincoln's and Larson's wrongful detention were also the result of the City's policies and widespread practices of failing to discipline officers who wrongfully detain juveniles.

64. The constitutional violations that caused Plaintiff Curtis Lovelace's malicious prosecution and the claims set forth in this Complaint were also the result of the City's policies and widespread practices of failing to intervene to prevent individual officers from violating citizens' constitutional rights.

65. In accordance with these policies and widespread practices, Quincy police officers refused to report misconduct committed by their colleagues, including the misconduct at issue in this case.

66. The City's failure to train, supervise, and discipline its officers effectively condones, ratifies, and sanctions the kind of misconduct that the Defendant Officers committed against Logan, Lincoln, and Larson in this case. Constitutional violations such as those that occurred in this case are encouraged and facilitated as a result of the City's practices and policies, as alleged above.

67. The City of Quincy and officials within the Department failed to act to remedy the abuses described in the preceding paragraphs, despite actual knowledge of the pattern of misconduct. They thereby perpetuated the unlawful practices and ensured that no action would be taken (independent of the judicial process) to remedy Logan's, Lincoln's and Larson's ongoing injuries.

68. The policies and practices described in the foregoing paragraphs were consciously approved by City of Quincy policymakers who were deliberately indifferent to the violations of constitutional rights described herein.

Plaintiffs' Damages

69. Plaintiff Curtis Lovelace spent over two years and six months in one form of custody or another awaiting trial for a crime that he did not commit. He spent one year and nine months in the county jail denied his freedom and almost entirely separated from his wife and his children. He spent another nine months on house arrest also almost entirely denied his freedom and unable to leave his home to perform basic life tasks, much less earn money for his family, visit his children who lived out of state, or enjoy any of the pleasurable aspects of life that require one to leave one's home.

70. Following his acquittal, Mr. Lovelace remains fundamentally changed by his experiences. His relationship with some members of his family has been altered. He lost his law practice and spent three years unable to earn a living. His reputation in the town of Quincy, the place he was born and spent almost his entire life, and the place where he worked as a public servant in various capacities, was destroyed. He and his family were forced to move from their birthplace and to live elsewhere because of the stigma brought on by this experience.

71. Additionally, the emotional pain and suffering caused by this three-year ordeal, specifically by the ordeal of being charged with killing one's wife and the mother of one's children, has been substantial. During his pretrial detention, Mr. Lovelace was stripped of the various pleasures of basic human experience, from the simplest to the most important, which all free people enjoy as a matter of right. He missed out on the ability to share holidays, births, funerals and other life events with loved ones, see his sons graduate high school and join the military, and on the fundamental freedom to live one's life as an autonomous human being.

72. As a result of the foregoing, Plaintiff Curtis Lovelace has suffered tremendous damage, including physical sickness and injury, and emotional damages, all caused by the Individual Defendants' misconduct.

73. Plaintiffs Logan, Lincoln and Larson Lovelace were also significantly impacted by their wrongful detention. All three suffered severe emotional harm including stress, anxiety, fear, loneliness, and other emotional harms.

COUNT I – 42 U.S.C. § 1983
Due Process
(Plaintiff Curtis Lovelace against All Defendants)

74. Each of the Paragraphs of this Complaint is incorporated as if restated fully herein.

75. As described in detail above, the Defendant Officers, Farha, and Keller while acting individually, jointly, and each in conspiracy with one or more other persons, deprived Plaintiff Curtis Lovelace of his constitutional right to a fair trial by withholding and suppressing exculpatory and impeachment evidence and by fabricating evidence against Plaintiff.

76. In the manner described more fully above, the Defendant Officers, Farha, and Keller deliberately withheld exculpatory and impeachment evidence from Plaintiff and from the prosecution, among others, thereby misleading and misdirecting the criminal prosecution of Plaintiff Curtis Lovelace.

77. In addition, in the manner described more fully above, the Defendant Officers, Farha and Keller, knowingly fabricated and solicited false evidence implicating Plaintiff the crime, and pursued and almost obtained Plaintiff's conviction using that false evidence.

78. The Defendant Officers, Farha, and Keller's misconduct denied Plaintiff his constitutional right to a fair trial and resulted directly in the first trial of this matter ending in a mistrial. Absent this misconduct, the prosecution of Plaintiff could not and would not have been pursued, and the first trial of this case would have ended in Mr. Lovelace's acquittal.

79. The misconduct described in this Count was objectively unreasonable and was undertaken intentionally, with malice, with reckless indifference to the rights of others, and in total disregard of the truth and Plaintiff's clear innocence.

80. Likewise, Defendants Copley, Summers & Dreyer and other Unknown Defendant Officers were supervisors, and had knowledge of the misconduct of Gibson, Biswell, and other Unknown Defendant Officers. Copley, Summers & Dreyer knew of a substantial risk that Gibson, Biswell and other Unknown Officers would violate Mr. Lovelace's rights, and they deliberately chose a course of action that allowed those constitutional violations to occur, thereby condoning those violations.

81. The constitutional injuries complained of herein were proximately caused by the intentional misconduct of Defendants Copley, Summers, Dreyer & other Unknown Defendant Officers, or were proximately caused when Defendants Copley, Summers, Dreyer & other Unknown Defendant Officers were deliberately, recklessly indifferent to their subordinates' misconduct, knowing that turning a blind eye to that misconduct would necessarily violate Plaintiff's constitutional rights.

82. As a result of the Defendant Officers, Farha, and Keller's misconduct described in this Count, Plaintiff suffered loss of liberty, great mental anguish, humiliation, degradation, emotional pain and suffering, and other grievous and continuing injuries and damages.

83. The misconduct described in this Count was also undertaken pursuant to the policies and practices of the Quincy Police Department and Adams County and the Coroner's Office in the manner described more fully above. In this way, the City of Quincy, Adams County (itself and/or through the Coroner's Office) also violated Plaintiff Curtis Lovelace's rights through the actions of their agents and employees by maintaining policies and practices that were a moving force driving the foregoing constitutional violations. As such, the City and County are also liable.

COUNT II – 42 U.S.C. § 1983
Malicious Prosecution
(Plaintiff Curtis Lovelace against All Defendants)

84. Each of the Paragraphs of this Complaint is incorporated as if restated fully herein.

85. In the manner described more fully above, The Defendant Officers, Farha, and Keller individually, jointly, and each in conspiracy with one or more persons, known and unknown, and all pursuant to City policies and widespread practices, deprived Plaintiff Curtis Lovelace of his constitutional rights.

86. The Defendant Officers, Farha, and Keller accused Plaintiff Curtis Lovelace of criminal activity and exerted influence to initiate, continue, and perpetuate judicial proceedings against Plaintiff Curtis Lovelace without any probable cause for doing so, in violation of his rights secured by the Fourth Amendment and the procedural and substantive due process components of the Fourteenth Amendment.

87. In so doing, the Defendant Officers, Farha, and Keller caused Plaintiff Curtis Lovelace to be unreasonably seized and improperly subjected to judicial proceedings for which there was no probable cause. These judicial proceedings were instituted and continued maliciously, resulting in injury, and all such proceedings were ultimately terminated in Plaintiff Curtis Lovelace's favor in a manner indicative of his innocence.

88. The Defendant Officers, Farha, and Keller subjected Plaintiff Curtis Lovelace to unauthorized and arbitrary governmental action that shocks the conscience in that Plaintiff Curtis Lovelace was deliberately and intentionally framed for a crime of which he was totally innocent, through the Defendant Officers' fabrication, suppression, and withholding of evidence.

89. The misconduct described in this Count was objectively unreasonable and was undertaken intentionally, with malice, with reckless indifference to the rights of others, and in total disregard of the truth and Plaintiff Curtis Lovelace's clear innocence.

90. Likewise, Defendants Copley, Summers & Dreyer and other Unknown Defendant Officers were supervisors, and had knowledge of the misconduct of Gibson, Biswell, and other Unknown Defendant Officers. Copley, Summers & Dreyer knew of a substantial risk that Gibson, Biswell and other Unknown Officers would violate Mr. Lovelace's rights, and they deliberately chose a course of action that allowed those constitutional violations to occur, thereby condoning those violations.

91. The constitutional injuries complained of herein were proximately caused by the intentional misconduct of Defendants Copley, Summers, Dreyer & other Unknown Defendant Officers, or were proximately caused when Defendants Copley, Summers, Dreyer & other Unknown Defendant Officers were deliberately, recklessly indifferent to their subordinates' misconduct, knowing that turning a blind eye to that misconduct would necessarily violate Plaintiff's constitutional rights.

92. As a result of the misconduct of the Defendant Officers, Farha and Keller described in this Count, Plaintiff Curtis Lovelace suffered loss of liberty, great mental anguish, humiliation, degradation, emotional pain and suffering, and other grievous and continuing injuries and damages.

93. The misconduct described in this Count was also undertaken pursuant to the policies and practices of the Quincy Police Department and Adams County and the Coroner's Office in the manner described more fully above. In this way, the City of Quincy, Adams County (itself and/or through the Coroner's Office) also violated Plaintiff Curtis Lovelace's rights through the actions of their agents and employees by maintaining policies and practices that were a moving force driving the foregoing constitutional violations. As such, the City and County are also liable.

COUNT III – 42 U.S.C. § 1983
Unlawful Detention
(Plaintiffs Logan, Lincoln and Larson Lovelace
Against Defendants Copley, Summers, Dreyer, Gibson, Biswell, Unknown Defendant Officers and the City)

94. Each of the Paragraphs of this Complaint is incorporated as if restated fully herein.

95. As described more fully above, Defendants Copley, Summers, Dreyer, Gibson, Biswell, and unknown Defendant Officers caused Plaintiffs Logan Lovelace, Lincoln Lovelace, and Christine Lovelace on behalf of her minor son Larson Lovelace to be unlawfully and unreasonably detained at their respective schools and at the police station without justification, and without the knowledge and/or consent of their parents.

96. The misconduct described in this Count was undertaken with malice, willfulness, and reckless indifference to the rights of others.

97. Likewise, Defendants Copley, Summers & Dreyer and other Unknown Defendant Officers were supervisors, and had knowledge of the misconduct of Gibson, Biswell, and other Unknown Defendant Officers. Copley, Summers & Dreyer knew of a substantial risk that Gibson, Biswell and other Unknown Officers would violate Logan, Lincoln and Larson's constitutional rights, and they deliberately chose a course of action that allowed those constitutional violations to occur, thereby condoning those violations.

98. The constitutional injuries complained of herein were proximately caused by the intentional misconduct of Defendants Copley, Summers, Dreyer & other Unknown Defendant Officers, or were proximately caused when Defendants Copley, Summers, Dreyer & other Unknown Defendant Officers were deliberately, recklessly indifferent to their subordinates' misconduct, knowing that turning a blind eye to that misconduct would necessarily violate Logan, Lincoln, and Larson's constitutional rights.

99. As a result of the above-described wrongful infringement of their rights, Plaintiffs suffered damages, including but not limited to emotional distress and anguish.

100. The misconduct described in this Count was undertaken pursuant to the policy and practice of the Quincy Police Department in that the City of Quincy has a policy, practice, and custom of involuntarily detaining witnesses to violent crimes for unreasonable periods of time, and involuntarily detaining minors without the consent or knowledge of their parents and/or guardians.

101. The City of Quincy has failed to act to remedy the patterns of abuse described in the preceding paragraph, despite actual knowledge of the same, thereby causing the types of injuries alleged here.

102. The misconduct described in this Count was undertaken by the Defendant Officers Copley, Summers, Dreyer, Gibson, Biswell, and unknown Defendant Officers, within the scope of their employment and under color of law such that their employer, City of Quincy, is liable for their actions.

COUNT IV – 42 U.S.C. § 1983
Conspiracy to Deprive of Constitutional Rights
