INDICTMENT

Superseding

The Grand Jury charges:

INTRODUCTION

1. From approximately March of 2011 – November of 2017, Iron March was an online message board platform used for communications and posts by neo-Nazi and White Supremacy Extremist (WSE) groups and those advocating WSE ideologies.

2. Beginning as early as 2016 and continuing into 2017, Defendant LIAM MONTGOMERY COLLINS, also known as "Disciple," used the name "Niezgoda," and posted frequently on Iron March. COLLINS was born in Sweden but attended high school in New Jersey, which is where he was living at the time of these posts. In 2017, COLLINS entered the Marines and was stationed at Camp LeJeune, NC, until his separation from the military in Sept 2020.

3. Defendant PAUL JAMES KRYSCUK, also known as “DEACON,” lived in New York until early 2020, when he moved to Boise, Idaho. He has utilized the alias “Pauly Harker” in the past, and currently uses the alias of “Shaun Corcoran” by way of a false Idaho driver’s license and altered bank records. Under the user name “Visions_from_Patmos,” KRYSCUK also frequently posted on Iron March.

4. Defendant JORDAN DUNCAN, also known as “Soldier”, from North Carolina, previously served in the Marine Corps from 2013 – 2018, and was assigned to Camp LeJeune, NC, while on active duty. After separating from the military, he worked as a contractor for the U.S. Air Force at Lackland Air Force Base (AFB) in San Antonio, and in September 2020, began working as a contractor for the U.S. Navy in or near Boise, Idaho.

5. Defendant JUSTIN WADE HERMANSON, also known as “Sandman”, from North Carolina, joined the U.S. Marines in March of 2017, and is a member of the same unit to which COLLINS was last assigned.

6. Using the Iron March platform, COLLINS discussed recruitment for a group he described as “a modern day SS” located in the northeastern region of the United States. In 2016, COLLINS posted that he was organizing a legitimate Paramilitary/ Defense force. He described it in this way:

...everyone [in the group] is going to be required to have served in a nation’s military, whether US, UK, or Poland . . . Its a goal for the long-term. I’ll be in the USMC for 4 years while my comrades work on the groups physical formation. . . It will take years to gather all the experience and intelligence that we need to utilize – but that’s what makes it fun. It takes a man's willpower and heart to make a commitment like this

Collins went on to explain that he was giving four years to the Marines "for the cause" and that most of his revenue goes into equipment for himself and his group.

7. In early 2017, COLLINS (user name Niezgoda) communicated via Iron March with KRYSCUK (user name "Visions_from_Patmos") about COLLINS' paramilitary group. In February 2017, KRYSCUK set forth the steps necessary to achieving change in the U.S. in accord with his ideology:

First order of business is knocking down The System, mounting it and smashing it's face until it has been beaten past the point of death . . . eventually we will have to bring the rifles out and go to work. . . . We will have to hit the streets and strike as many blows to the remaining power structure as we can to keep it on the ropes . . . forget the pawns and go for the knights, kings, and queens. . .

Second order of business . . . is the seizing of territory and the Balkanization of North America. Buying property in remote areas that are already predominantly white and right leaning, networking with locals, training, farming, and stockpiling. Essentially we are laying the framework for a guerilla organization and a takeover of local government and industry.

Start buying property now in the types of regions mentioned above and get to work on building your own group. . . . As time goes on in this conflict, we will expand our territories and slowly take back the land that is rightfully ours. . . . As we build our forces and our numbers, we will move into the urban areas and clear them out. This will be a ground war very reminiscent of Iraq as we will essentially be facing an insurgent force made up of criminals and gang members.

8. In August 2017, COLLINS reported he had a "tightknit crew" of ex-Military and Security. COLLINS noted they do hikes, gym sessions, live firing exercises, and "eventually plan to buy a lot of land." This crew went camping together in the summer of 2017.

9. COLLINS and KRYSCUK, in their posts on IronMarch and elsewhere, encouraged the use of an encrypted messaging application as an alternate means of communication outside of the forum, particularly for “serious” discussions.

10. Defendant JORDAN DUNCAN, also known as “Soldier”, while stationed at Camp LeJeune, became a member of Collins’ crew, and is later photographed with COLLINS and KRSYCUK in December 2018.

11. In January of 2019, an individual known to the grand jury paid KRYSCUK for a “tool.” That payment was for a 9mm pistol manufactured by KRYSCUK for this individual.

12. In May of 2019, another individual known to the grand jury paid KRYSCUK for a “build” and a “lower.” This money was for KRYSCUK to construct an assault rifle for the individual.

13. In June of 2019, KRYSCUK received payments from the two persons known to the grand jury in paragraphs 10 and 11, as well as from defendant DUNCAN, for “legos,” a “tool,” and a “jig.” After receiving these funds, KRYSCUK then made purchases in approximately the same amount from a company that sells one of the tools, an AR15 jig, which would assist to manufacture lower receivers into assault-type rifles. By November 2019, KRYSCUK reported he had “milled an 80,” and that he had obtained a jig to do AR-10s.

14. Defendant PAUL JAMES KRYSCUK, also known as “DEACON,” moved from New York to Boise, Idaho in or about February 2020. He conversed with the members of the group about the possibility of converting solvent traps into silencers in March 2020¹. He also noted that he felt the “final frontier is real life violence;” that he had been “acquiring some serious skills,” and that he had become “pretty lethal.”

15. In July 2020, DUNCAN, KRYSCUK, and two other individuals known to the grand jury met in Boise, Idaho for what appeared to be live-fire weapons training. In the two weeks prior to the training, payments were sent by COLLINS and the two other individuals known to the grand jury to defendant JORDAN DUNCAN, also known as “Soldier,” while DUNCAN was in San Antonio, TX. DUNCAN then drove his vehicle from Texas to Idaho, and was seen offloading boxes, some heavy, at KRYSCUK’s residence the weekend of the live-fire training. The participants in the training made a compilation video of the live footage from that training, and distributed it amongst themselves and showed it to others. This video depicts KRYSCUK and another individual firing short barrel rifles and each of the participants firing assault-style rifles. The end of the video shows the four participants outfitted in AtomWaffen² masks giving the “Heil Hitler” sign, beneath

² Atomwaffen, or Atomwaffen Division, is a neo-Nazi group that emerged in 2015-2016, created by members of Iron March. Atomwaffen distinguishes itself by its extreme rhetoric, influenced by the writings of a neo-Nazi of an earlier generation, James Mason, who admired Charles Manson and supported the idea of lone wolf violence. Atomwaffen members are associated with the wearing of a skull mask.

the image of a black sun. The last frame of the video displays the statement, "Come home white man."

16. By August 2020, DUNCAN and KRYSCUK were praising the efforts of COLLINS, who they claimed had "sacrificed the most for the cause," had gotten them "tons of gear and training," and had added three Marines to the group.

17. DUNCAN moved from San Antonio to Boise on or about September 8, 2020; COLLINS was released from the Marines on September 20, 2020, and moved to Boise on or about October 4, 2020. In October 2020, the group had in their possessions at least three 9mm pistols with suppressor, at least 4 lightweight, semiautomatic rifles with a detachable magazine based on the ArmaLite AR-15 design, some with suppressors, and at least two short barrel rifles, all manufactured by KRYSCUK.

18. By early 2020, defendant JUSTIN WADE HERMANSON, also known as "Sandman," possessed videos, images, and communications consistent with the ideology expressed by KRYSCUK and Atomwaffen, and was communicating directly with KRYSCUK to coordinate some of the above mentioned firearm and silencer purchases. He paid KRYSCUK for a pistol with a suppressor in April 2020, which KRYSCUK manufactured and shipped from Boise, Idaho to North Carolina. He also began coordinating others' payments to KRYSCUK, by receiving the funds and passing them on to KRYSCUK. HERMANSON also communicated with other Marines from the Camp Lejeune, NC, area, regarding coordinating additional illegal firearms sales through KRYSCUK and building fully automatic rifles. Additionally,

KRYSCUK has viewed manuals regarding car bombs, remote detonators, and other explosives. In October 2020, HERMANSON recruited and assisted in vetting at least one other person into the group.
