911 Transcript - Employee-2

911 Operator: New York City 911 do you need the police, fire or medical?

Caller: Yeah, um can I have a patrol car come to uh 2-7-2 Broadway and Havemeyer?

911 Operator: 2-7-2 Broadway?

Caller: Yeah.

911 Operator: Okay. Uh, this is...

Caller: Unintelligible

911 Operator: Just give me a second, okay? 2-7-2 Broadway in Brooklyn, I'm showing that by Havemeyer and Marcy Avenue. Havemeyer street. What is the 911 emergency, sir?

Caller: Um there's, there's a guy here arguing for six donuts and I think that he brought a weapon inside trying to do something to the co-workers 'cause, can you guys come pretty quick because he has the weapon on him and I don't want no one to get harmed or hurt.

911 Operator: Do you know what kind of weapon it is?

Caller: No, because he shoved it inside his pants, so I don't know if it's a knife or if it's a gun.

911 Operator: Okay, I'll put uh . . . ok, what is the name of the store?

Caller: Uh Dunkin Donuts. It's Dunkin Donuts at 2-7-2 Broadway.

911 Operator: Okay and uh do you have a description of him?

Caller: Yeah, he's - he's- he's intoxicated. He's like a little bit taller than me, he's like uh

911 Operator: Is he White, Black, Hispanic, Asian?

Caller: Um he's white but I think he's mixed with Spanish.

911 Operator: Okay, what is he wearing?

Caller: He's wearing all black.

911 Operator: Okay, your name?

Caller: Huh?

911 Operator: Okay and he's having a dispute [unintelligible]

Caller: Alright. Thank you.

911 Operator: You're welcome.

Caller: Yeah, I can still hear him arguing with them.

911 Operator: Okay, I'm gonna put possible knife as well.

911 Operator: Hello sir, uh your name?

Caller: Yeah, my name is [REDACTED].

911 Operator: And your telephone number?

Caller: Uh yeah, this is my personal phone.

911 Operator: And he's arguing with the workers at the store, right?

Caller: Yeah, yeah he's still going. I just need you guys to come before [unintelligible]

911 Operator: Okay, alright the call is in. Thank you for calling. [Unintelligible] as soon as possible operator 1251.

Caller: Okay, thank you guys.

911 Operator: You're welcome.
