ORDER

LEWIS A. KAPLAN, District Judge.

1. The letter motion to consolidate these cases for trial, filed in the first captioned case as Dkt 147, is denied. The parties overestimate both the judicial economy benefits that would be achieved and the risk of inconsistent rulings that would be eliminated by consolidation. Issue preclusion appears to the Court adequate to achieve appropriate conservation of judicial resources and avoidance of inconsistent rulings even if the two cases were tried separately. Moreover, a trial in 20-cv-7311 conceivably could prove unnecessary. In addition, approval of the consolidation proposal would be in tension with the deference to the Second Circuit and the District of Columbia Court of Appeals that this Court believes appropriate in the circumstances.

2. The trial of 20-cv-7311, previously scheduled tentatively to begin on April 10, 2023, is adjourned sine die.
